FIT AND READY FOR SERVICE

SHOWERED WITH ROSES

Great Throngs Cheer Popular Commands and Commanders—First Unit Off to Camp.

The first troops of New York's contribution to the war for democracy paraded yesterday for inspection by their fellow-citizens. The Twenty-seventh Division of the United States Army, lately forming the greater part of the National Guard of the State, stood up before two million New Yorkers in fighting trim to show that they were fit and willing, and New York gave them a glorious godspeed.

It was not a day of shouting and festivity; it was a day that marked the taking of new and stronger resolution. For it seemed to be in the minds of the crowds everywhere that these guardsmen, soon to set out for the training camp from which they will go to the battle line, were only the first installment; that before many months thousands of those who stood on the curbs and watched them yesterday would be tracing the same path.

The 25,000 men who followed Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan down Fifth Avenue from 110th Street to Washington Square did not really parade, for that word conveys an impression of display and flourish that was notably absent yesterday. They marched down the avenue and showed how ready they were; and their marching was a challenge to all those on the side lines who were not ready.

It was not a mere graceful formality that led the Mayor's Committee on National Defense to single out G. A. R. veterans for special honors and privileges in the reviewing stands along the route.

These bent, whitehaired men in blue, who recalled the day when the whole population of a smaller New York turned out with waving of flags to encourage the city's regiments in 1861, were there because they had been through a bitter struggle and knew the sort of thing that is before the troops New York is sending out to this war. And the men of the regiments which won honored names for themselves fifty years ago marched yesterday as if fully conscious of the work that lay before them to maintain the tradition that had been laid by the aged veterans who watched them.

Not a Lighthearted Ceremony.

It was no day of continuous cheering, of lighthearted exultation; there was shouting in plenty, but it was usually the cheers of little groups of spectators for men whom they knew, sighted in the marching ranks, or for units in which they had a sentimental interest. Above all, it was a personal sendoff; each man in the ranks of the city regiments had his own friends somewhere along the line of march to cheer for him, and the troops from up-State found the same sort of greeting from many old fellow-townsmen or from other spectators who wanted to show the troops the depth of their own feeling. At times, in some parts of their journey, some of the units marched through a veritable rain of roses floated down from the windows of tall buildings far above them; and in the five-minute halts that were ordered every half hour not only to rest the troops but to let the banked-up crosstown traffic pass over the avenue, apples, oranges, candy, popcorn, and cigarettes were showered from the crowds upon the soldiers.

Through more than five hours of sultry weather, the damp heat beating up from the ground between the desultory rains, hundreds of thousands stood along the curbs, sat in the windows, stood up in automobiles down the side streets from the avenue, and watched the long procession of infantry, cavalry, artillery, and trains which filed past. Neither the weather nor the length of the marching line seemed to disturb them; apparently the great majority of the onlookers stayed to see the last man. And, indeed, the route was covered with extraordinary dispatch. It took little more than three hours for 25,000 men, with artillery and much impedimenta, to pass the reviewing stands, and this despite several short halts and one delay of half an hour or so occasioned by the only slip in the arrangements for falling into line. The head of the procession left the circle at Fifth Avenue and 110th Street precisely at 10 o'clock, the hour agreed upon, and at 3:15 the rear guard passed under the Washington Arch.

Brown Stream Fills Avenue.

During all these hours the brown stream pushed its way down the avenue. The troops collected at the upper end of the Park, coming in from their armories or the encampments in Van Cortlandt Park and elsewhere, fell into line at their appointed positions, and strode along by platoons between close packed crowds that could put out their hands and touch the end man on the line, to the opening of Washington Square. There the organizations spread through the side streets of Greenwich Village and found their way back to their barracks or camps.

The only unit which did not go back was the Twenty-second Engineers,

Argentina Accepts Indemnity, But Still Distrusts Germany

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30.—A dispatch received from Berlin says that the Argentine Minister has informed the German Government that Argentina regards the incident of the sinking of the steamer Toro closed, Germany having agreed to indemnify the owners of the vessel.

RIO JANIERO, Wednesday, Aug. 29.—The German note to Argentina settling the Toro incident and promising that Argentine ships will be respected hereafter, is couched in such cordial terms that it has given rise to suspicion in well-informed political circles here, where surprise is expressed at the excessive and unaccustomed complaisance of Germany toward a country which does not belong to the Alliance.

GREAT NEW POWER RISING IN RUSSIA

GEN. KALEDIN THEIR LEADER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Tuesday, Aug. 28, (Dispatch to The London Times.)—If any hope lingered in Russian breasts that the Moscow conference would accomplish a miracle of social healing, that hope was quenched today. The Soviet and its followers have not heeded the eloquent appeals of the representatives of the four Dumas to the Socialists and the middle classes to sink their differences in order to save the country. They still refer to "revolutionary Russia" and to "victorious Russia." They still remain deaf and blind to the consequences of defeat.

I do not wish to say that the Soviet and its friends refuse to fight. No, they merely contend that the war has become impossible without the maintenance of the councils, committees, and the whole revolutionary apparatus, and they absolutely decline to accept the solemn warnings of the military chiefs as to the essential conditions of army reform. They are more than disposed in reality to quarrel with an autocratic Prime Minister, to wrest the power from the present coalition, and to concentrate it in hands of the "revolutionary democracy."

M. Rodicheff placed his finger on one of the sorest spots in the Russian revolution when turning toward the benches of the Soviet he hurled the accusation: "You are demoralizing the masses by telling them to enrich themselves while Russia is helpless. Russia will not sell herself for a mess of revolutionary pottage. We have to save Russia, not the revolution. Russia hailed the revolution in the hope that it would save her, and no power can save the revolution it once that hope is destroyed."

The words uttered by Rodicheff depict the situation in a nutshell. To many millions of Russians this hope has already gone. The peasant proprietors are enrolling themselves into unions of landowners for the defense of the interests of property. The Knights of St. George, representing 80,000,000 acres, have combined in military leagues. All the Cossack and Kirchiz and Caucasian tribes have banded together in defense of their homes and country. There is a solid block far exceeding in size and population the combined strength of the Central Empires. From Lake Baikal to the Dniester, from the Don to the Persian border, loyal sons of Russia are ready to rise against the forces of disintegration and defeat.

General Kaledin, as head of this great league, yesterday boldly threw the gauntlet at the Soviet and its adherents.

"Who saved you from the Bolsheviki on the 14th of July?" he asked contemptuously. "We Cossacks have been free men. We are not made drunk by new-found liberties and are unblinded by party or program. We tell you plainly and categorically, remove yourselves from the place which you have neither the ability nor the courage to fill and let better men than yourselves step in, or take the consequences of your folly."

HOPES RAISED BY CONGRESS.

Party Leaders Talk of Conciliation, but Milukoff Is Skeptical.

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—A spirit of confidence in the ultimate benefit to accrue from the national conference held here is expressed by representatives of the various groups which participated. Their hopes are based on no definite policies enunciated or measures adopted, but upon the spirit of conciliation observed among the factions and a clearer understanding growing out of the discussion of the Governmental problems.

Professor Paul Milukoff, spokesman of the Constitutional Democrats, expressed skepticism as to the permanent benefit to be derived, saying: "The routes of the several groups seem to have approached one another, but I am afraid that this is only temporary. A certain unity seems possible. The declarations of the Socialists, as well as the non-Socialists, promise some concessions, but will these materialize? M. Tseretelli, former Minister of the Interior, expressed a desire to follow a course leading to union and collaboration. How far this desire will be shown in facts can be learned only in the future."

M. Tseretelli, who is a prominent member of the Council of Deputies, said: "There is a bridge between the

SENATE AGREES TO VOTE ON WAR TAX BILL SEPT. 10

CLOSURE AGAIN AVERTED

Simmons Withdraws Petition After La Follette Threatens Bill if Debate Is Throttled.

GRADUATED TAX ATTACKED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The tangle over the War Revenue bill was partially smoothed out today, when the Senate by unanimous consent agreed to take up the measure on Monday, Sept. 10, for the final vote. This agreement was reached after Senator Simmons, Chairman of the Finance Committee, yielding to the insistence of leaders on both sides, had consented to withdraw the motion for closure put in yesterday.

Under the agreement reached the Senate at 5 o'clock next Wednesday, Sept. 5, will proceed to vote on the amendments bearing on excess war profits. In the meantime debate on these amendments will go on. A vote on the income tax amendments will be taken on Friday, Sept. 7. After that the Senate will devote itself to consideration of the remaining features of the bill.

The mood of the Senate as to closure was shown when Senator La Follette, speaking for the radicals, asserted that any attempt to throttle debate would threaten the ultimate passage of the measure. The advocates of drastic conscription of wealth, Senator La Follette said, were in no temper to have the Senate limit their efforts to impose a high tax on corporations that have become enriched through the war.

The agreement reached, Senate leaders believe, will clear the way for compromise on the war profits feature, which has delayed the progress of the measure for weeks. Exactly what scheme may be put through no leader will venture to say. The various amendments before the Senate range from a graduated profits tax to a flat tax running anywhere from 55 to 75 per cent.

Flood of Profits Amendments.

Just before the Senate adjourned for the day several new amendments to the war profits section were introduced. Senator Brady put in one providing for a tax of 60 per cent. flat, Senator Hollis one for from 50 to 60 per cent., Senator Kenyon one for 54 per cent., Senator Jones of Washington one for 55 per cent., and Senator Gore one for 66 2-3 per cent. Besides, Senator Johnson of California has an amendment before the Senate calling for a flat tax of 73 per cent., while Senator La Follette has a graduated scale running from 5 to 75 per cent.

Judging from the trend of opinion expressed in the Senate lobby, the vote on the Finance Committee's revised scheme for a graduated tax extending from 12 per cent. to 60 per cent., with an average of 33 1-3 per cent., will be extremely close. None of the Senators on the Finance Committee who are backing it would predict that it would be accepted. The general feeling seemed to be that the Senate might accept a flat rate and discard the intricate scheme evolved by the committee.

A speech by Senator Underwood, in advocating the graduated tax proposed by Senator Bankhead, tended to strengthen the opposition to the Finance Committee's proposals. Senator Underwood denounced the Finance Committee's scheme as "unfair, unjust, discriminatory, and bewildering." He challenged the Senate to attempt to say precisely what the proposals meant.

Senator Underwood characterized the committee's proposal to adjust the war profits tax on the basis of exemption on capital stock investment, instead of its original idea of pre-war net income, as a surrender to the opponents of the committee's original scheme. But, insisted Senator Underwood, the committee had drawn its new proposal in a way to make it a puzzle. He spoke of the committee having evolved a schedule that would let the big corporations escape taxes they ought to pay.

Most of the day's debate was taken up with interchanges between Senator Underwood and Senator Simmons. The latter defended the committee proposals as equitable and based upon a "scientific calculation of the profits the big and little corporations ought to pay." He conceded that the committee had been obliged to change its schedule because of opposition in the Senate, but he maintained that, as originally drawn, the war profits section was sufficient. The proposals as submitted to the Senate yesterday, he said, would yield $1,060,000,000 in excess war profits tax; but this was challenged by Senator Underwood. The Alabama Senator calculated that the schedule of Senator Bankhead would yield $600,000,000 of war profits tax, and he insisted that this would exceed the actual amount to be accumulated from the committee scheme.

Taxes Must Be Equitable.

"I believe it is the duty of every patriotic citizen of this Republic to respond to the draft on his purse with the same loyalty that our boys have shown when called to the colors," said Senator Underwood. "I have no patience with money-slackers. The man who finds his country in the throes of this great ca-

Reichstag Main Committee Demands Political Censorship Be Ended in Germany

BERLIN, Aug. 29, (via London, Aug. 30.)—The Reichstag Main Committee concluded its midsummer session this afternoon and adjourned until the assembling of the full session of the Reichstag late next month.

The committee was engaged today in discussion of the censorship and martial law. A motion by the Social Democrats and Independent Socialists recommending abolition of martial law failed of acceptance.

Resolutions presented by the majority parties, calling for abrogation of the political censorship and containing recommendations for modification of other censorial restrictions were adopted, as was a recommendation of the coalition parties for nullification of an order of the Federal Council, dated Aug. 3, subjecting motion pictures to rigid censorship.

MEDICAL STUDENTS EXEMPT FROM DRAFT

WILL RETURN TO COLLEGE

But Must First Be Discharged by Their Local Boards on Presentation of Proper Claims.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Under a supplemental regulation approved by President Wilson today, governing the operation of the selective draft law, hospital internes and medical students who have been more than a year in college are exempted from the draft if they enlist in the enlisted reserve corps. On the basis of the President's action, Provost Marshal General Crowder sent telegrams tonight to the Governors of the various States, giving explicit instructions as to how to act with respect to enlisted internes. In the telegram General Crowder says:

"Hospital internes, who are graduates of well-recognized medical schools or medical students in their fourth, third, or second year, in any well organized medical school, who have not been called by a local board, may enlist in the enlisted reserve corps, provided for by Section 55 of the National Defense act, under regulations to be issued by the Surgeon General, and if they are thereafter called by a local board, they may be discharged on proper claim presented on the ground that they are in the military service of the United States.

"A hospital interne who is a graduate of a well-recognized medical school or a medical student in his fourth, third, or second year, in any well-recognized medical school, who has been called by a local board and physically examined and accepted, and by or in behalf of whom no claim for exemption or discharge is pending, and who has not been ordered to military duty, may apply to the Surgeon General of the army to be ordered to report at once to a local board for military duty and thus be inducted into the military service of the United States immediately, to be discharged from the national army for the purpose of enlisting in the enlisted reserve corps of the medical department. With every such rquest must be inclosed a copy of the order of the local board calling him to report for physical examinations, affidavit evidence of the status of the applicant as a medical student or interne, and an engagement to enlist in the enlisted reserve corps of the medical department.

"Upon receipt of such application with the named inclosures, the Surgeon General will forward the case to the Adjutant General with his recommendations. Thereupon the Adjutant General may issue an order to such interne or medical student to report to his local board for military duty on a specified date, in person, or by mail or telegraph, as seems most desirable. This order may be issued regardless of the person's order of liability for military service. From and after the date specified such person shall be in the military service of the United States. He shall not be sent by the local board to a mobilization camp, but shall remain awaiting the orders of the Adjutant General of the army. The Adjutant General may forthwith issue an order discharging him from the military service for the convenience of the Government."

In disapproving a proposal by Representative Shouse of Kansas that all men engaged in agricultural pursuits last March 1 be exempted from military service, President Wilson today wrote the Congressman that a class exemption would lead to "many difficulties and to many heartburnings." He added, however, that he would like personally to see all the genuine farmers left at their "indispensable labors."

The President also called attention to Provost Marshal General Crowder's recent arrangement for calling men whereby most farm labor will not be drafted in service before Oct. 1, when, it is believed, most of the heavy farm work will be done.

Representative Shouse responded to the President's letter with the declaration that much of the Kansas wheat crop would not be in on Oct. 1, and that the labor situation in that State was critical.

The text of the President's letter follows:

My dear Mr. Shouse:

I have your letter of Aug. 25, and realize the very grave importance of the matter you broach. I cannot see my way, however, to making so wide and sweeping a class exemption as you suggest. The matter of leaving the farmers on the farms has been given the most careful and sympathetic attention by the War Department, and I have before me a letter from the Secretary of War from which I quote the following sentence:

"General Crowder had foreseen the practical need of enabling men in agricultural work to remain at their tasks until the close of the harvest season, and has ingeniously arranged the details of calling to the colors so that the men on the farms will practically all fall within the last group and will, therefore, not have to report for military service until on or about Oct. 1."

I feel that class exemption would lead to many difficulties and to many heartburnings, much as I should personally like to see all the genuine farmers left at their indispensable labors.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

WISCONSIN TOWN EXPELS PACIFISTS

FARGO PLAN ALSO GIVEN UP

New York Delegates Leave Without Knowing Where They Are Going.

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30.—The advance guard of the so-called People's Council of America was placed on a train by angry residents of Hudson, Wis., tonight and told never to return. Earlier in the day Hudson had been picked as the meeting place for the council's proposed convention following action by Governor Burnquist of Minnesota in banning the convention in that State and protests from citizens of North Dakota when Fargo was mentioned as a possible meeting place.

Milwaukee is now being considered by the council's advance agents. The special train carrying delegates from New York will likely be held in Chicago until a haven is found.

When the people of Hudson, a little city thirty miles from Minneapolis, learned that the council wanted to meet in their midst they called a mass meeting in front of the armory. At the same time the City Council of Hudson sent a protest to Governor Philipp of Wisconsin, saying that the peace-at-any-price convention was not desired there.

Louis P. Lochner, Executive Secretary of the pacifists, tried vainly to appear before the City Council; but the members would not hear him.

Seven Minutes to Leave Town.

A committee from the indignation meeting called on the peace advocates at the hotel and ordered the members from Hudson. Those in the People's Council party included Louis P. Lochner, William E. Williams, publicity director; Charles S. Kruse, President of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association; Florence Magolies of New York, Minnie Rimer of Seattle, and May Lennon and Moya Regan, stenographers.

Major Campbell of Hudson placed a petition before Kruse protesting against the conference and demanded that he sign it. Kruse declined.

"Get a rope," some one shouted. "Get the tar and feathers," said another.

The crowd pressed forward and a half dozen hands were laid on Kruse. County Attorney Varnum jumped on a chair and succeeded in restoring quiet on the promise of Kruse and the others to leave town at once. In seven minutes they were bundled into an automobile and rushed to the railroad station, where they were placed aboard a train for Minneapolis. Beyond hooting and hissing at them, no violence was offered on the way to the depot.

When Mr. Lochner and his assistants reached Minneapolis it was announced that the convention had given up its plan to meet in Hudson. "We will hold the meeting just the same," said Mr. Lochner. "We are not going back to Hudson."

Yesterday, despite the welcome extended by the non-partisan league Governor of North Dakota, citizens of both Fargo and Bismarck intimated that there would be serious trouble if the council delegates went to either place.

Following Russia's Model.

"The People's Council is an organization composed of American citizens," Lochner said. "We have no constitution, but to be a member one must be in sympathy with American ideals and principles of democracy. We have no aliens in our membership, and those of foreign descent are largely Russians and Jews. Persons of Scandinavian ancestry come next, and then those of German descent.

"The council, which is the outgrowth of the first convention of the American Society for Democracy and Terms of Peace, held in New York City May 30 and 31 last, is a clearing house for sentiments of peace and democracy. Our purpose is to crystallize sentiment in this country similar to the aims of the Russian Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, which stands for an early, general, and democratic peace, international co-operation to maintain peace and safeguards for labor standards."

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 30.—Governor E. L. Philipp denied tonight that he had given permission to the People's Council to hold a convention in Hudson. The Governor said that not only had he not given any such permission but the statement he had was made without any authority from him.

PACIFISTS IN A DILEMMA.

Leave City for Council and Don't Know Where They're Going.

One hundred and fifty pacifists gathered at the Weehawken Station of the West Shore Railroad shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were "all dressed up and no place to go." A reporter was told by some members of the party that they were going to Fargo; others said they were going to Minneapolis. The most reliable information came from the officials of the railroad, who said the train was going to Chicago, and the road didn't care where the pacifists went from that city, because their train had been paid for.

In the delegation were seen Crystal Eastman, sister of Max Eastman; Jacob Panken, the east side agitator, and Algernon Lee, who once ran for Governor. Morris Hillquit and Rabbi J. L. Magnes were not seen. In the vanguard of the delegation were two men distributing literature which bore the stamp of Mother Earth, which Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman ran until Marshal McCarthy stopped them.

ON DELIVERY AT CHICAGO

No. 1 Northern Spring the Basic Grade—Means $2.25 and $2.30 at New York.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The basis price of the 1917 wheat crop was fixed at $2.20 a bushel tonight by President Wilson, upon the recommendation of the commission headed by Dr. H. A. Garfield. The price is based on Chicago delivery. This is the figure at which the Food Administration will buy supplies o fwhat is known as No. 1 Northern Spring wheat for the United States and its allies.

It is expected that the wheat producers will fall into line without further dispute and make the price universal. The Food Administration, however, has power to inforce the basic price if there are any recalcitrants. This probably will be done through a system of licenses which may extend all the way to the retailers, should occasion arise for such a drastic procedure. Millers and wholesalers will be brought under this licensing system at once, it is stated, and the powers also will be exercised to prevent hoarding or cornering the market.

A schedule of prices of all grades and kinds of wheat, reduced to the $2.20 basis for No. 1 Northern Spring wheat, was submitted to the President by the Food Administration and was made public tonight. It provides for an additional 10 cents a bushel for wheat to the wholesaler in New York City as opposed to the $2.20 price in Chicago. This would bring the price of basic wheat in New York City to $2.30.

A reduction of 5 cents a bushel is provided for in this schedule for No. 2 grade, out of which a large part of the flour is milled. A flour expert tonight estimated that, deducting about $1.60 for by-products obtained, flour should be produced in the neighborhood of $9 a barrel under the prices fixed, and that unless wholesalers and retailers were permitted to "run wild" there should be a considerable reduction to the public from the present range.

In his statement accompanying the price-fixing report, President Wilson sounded a warning that the Food Administration would adhere rigidly to the price determined upon by the Garfield Committee, and intimated that the powers of the Food Control bill would be exerted to the full if any evidence was obtained that producer, miller, wholesaler, or consumer was attempting to take advantage of the consuming public.

The President's Statement.

The text of the President's statement follows:

The White House,
Washington, Aug. 30, 1917.

Section 11 of the food act provides, among other things, for the purchase and sale of wheat and flour by the Government, and appropriates money for the purpose. The purchase of wheat and flour for our allies, and to a considerable degree for neutral countries also, has been placed under the control of the Food Administration. I have appointed a committee to determine a fair price to be paid in Government purchases. The price now recommended by that committee—$2.20 per bushel at Chicago for the basic grade—will be readily adhered to by the Food Administration.

It is the hope and expectation of the Food Administration and my own also, that this step will at once stabilize and keep within moderate bounds the price of wheat for all transactions throughout the present crop year, and in consequence the prices of flour and bread also. The food act has given large powers for the control of storage and exchange operations, and these powers will be fully exercised. An inevitable consequence will be that financial dealings cannot follow their usual course. Whatever the advantages and disadvantages of the ordinary machinery of trade, it cannot function well under such disturbed and abnormal conditions as now exist. In its place the Food Administration now fixes for its purchases a fair price, as recommended unanimously by a committee representative of all interests and sections, and believes that thereby it will eliminate speculation, make possible the conduct of every operation in the full light of day, maintain the publicly stated price for all, and, through economies made possible by stabilization and control, better the position of consumers also.

Mr. Hoover, at his express wish, has taken no part in the deliberations of the committee on whose recommendation I determine the Government's fair price, nor has he in any way intimated an opinion regarding that price.

WOODROW WILSON.

Report of the Committee.

United States Food Administration,
Washington, Aug. 30, 1917.

To the President of the United States:

The undersigned committee has been asked by you to recommend the price which the Government should pay for the 1917 crop of wheat.

In its deliberations the committee has kept constantly in mind the three following factors:

1—The fact that the United States is at war.

2—The need of encouraging the producer.

3—The necessity of reducing the cost of living to the consumer.

The normal laws of supply and demand have been violently interfered with and Congress has undertaken to offset this disturbance by conferring extraordinary powers upon the President to stabilize prices. Each of the foregoing factors grows out of conditions which have received the careful

Asserts Kaiser Wanted to Declare War in 1909

PETROGRAD, Aug. 30.—Germany's military preparation was known to the Russian War Ministry, and it was also aware that Germany contemplated a declaration of war in 1909 and again in 1913, according to testimony given yesterday by General Michelsson at the trial of General Soukhomlinoff, former Minister of War, for high treason.

The witness was the Military Attaché of the Russian Embassy in Berlin from 1906 to 1911. He swore that he had reported Germany's military activity to the Russian War Office.

The President of the court asked General Michelsson with what power Germany proposed to ally herself in 1913 against Russia. The witness asked permission to reply to the President only, and the request was granted.

FIGHT ON U-BOATS BEGINNING TO TELL

American Patrol and New Devices Cut Loss of Protected Ships to Half of 1 Per Cent.

OUR NAVY CONVOYS VESSELS

Successfully Develops Depth Bombs for Attack—American Ingenuity Looked To Further.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—New devices, applied through co-operation of the British and American naval forces in European waters, have had a perceptible effect on German submarine warfare. In the case of merchant vessels that have had the benefit of the protection afforded by the new devices the losses have been reduced to one-half of 1 per cent The Navy Department is confidently expecting an even greater improvement in the methods of protection.

While officials of the Navy Department are reticent, they are satisfied that American naval vessels have sunk some U-boats—how many the department does not know, but the reports received seem to leave no room for doubt that in several engagements the Americans scored.

The caution of the department in making any statement is due partly to the discovery that U-boats are resorting to subterfuge to give the impression to enemy craft that the submarines have been sunk. The favorite subterfuge is to release after submerging a quantity of oil and débris, which comes to the surface and appears to furnish evidence that explosive shells fired at the German underwater boats have been effective.

One apparent result of the American addition to the submarine patrol is that U-boats are operating further out at sea. This extension may be attributed also, in part, in the opinion of some naval officers, to the larger submarines, with greater steaming radius, which the Germans have built. It is not known positively that there is a larger type of U-boat in operation, but naval officers suggest that only an unusually big submarine would proceed so far out to sea.

Now Conveying Vessels.

No American naval vessel or transport has been injured by a German submarine. This success is attributed to the new methods, which embrace a convoy system put into effect recently. For a time the Government was inclined to the policy of letting merchant ships proceed to Europe without convoy, but it has now adopted the British plan of giving the protection of warships to such vessels.

There seems to be the heartiest cooperation between the British and American naval forces in European waters, and naval circles give great credit to the British for splendid activity and assistance.

American naval vessels have found that the "depth charge," which the British are said to have introduced, is one of the most effective methods of dealing with U-boats. The depth charge is a bomb that does not explode until it is a considerable distance under water. It is dropped over places where U-boats have been seen to submerge. While the subterfuge of the Germans in releasing oil and debris has cast some doubt on the results, the reports from some American naval vessels received in Washington seem to show conclusively that depth charges have sent U-boats to the bottom.

Officials here are much encouraged over the submarine situation. They are preparing to put into operation new and more effective methods, which are expected to bring results soon. Naval men say that German U-boat commanders will learn before long that traditional American ingenuity has not failed in this war.

The effect of the increasing patrol, of the employment of airplanes, and of the addition of new devices to the anti-submarine weapons has been to force the U-boats under water to a greater and greater degree. Their effectiveness is limited in proportion. They cannot run down a merchant ship of average speed if kept under water. They can operate only against ships that almost stumble upon them. And all the time they are under water, they are consuming the stored power of their storage batteries, decreasing their range of underwater action, and compelling them to come up at night and lie idle on the surface while their oil engines are used to recharge the batteries.

Confinement to a Zone.

The underwater radius of the average U-boat is less than 150 miles under most favorable conditions. To get that distance it would have to travel at a rate of a very few miles an hour. It is argued, therefore, that if by means of aircraft, destroyers, and all other

WILSON NOTE AT VATICAN

Only London of European Capitals Has Published Full Text of President's Reply.

ROME, Aug. 30.—President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace proposals was presented at the Vatican today by Count de Salis, the British Minister.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—A number of prominent Germans and Austrians, whose arrival in Switzerland has been recently reported, are busying themselves, according to the Berne correspondent of the Journal des Debats, with a peace project, the object of which is to create difficulties and friction between the Entente Powers, thereby involving minimum concessions by the Central Powers.

Among those engaged in this intrigue are reported to be the former Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, who recently arrived at Ragatz; Prince von Buelow, former German Ambassador to Italy, whose headquarters are at Berne; Baron von Giskra, former Austrian Minister at The Hague, who is at Zug, and makes frequent trips to Berne; Count Goluchowski, former Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, at Interlaken; Prince Alfred Hohenlohe, Prince Johann von Schoenburg-Hartenstein, former Austrian Ambassador at the Vatican, now at Lucerne; Count Wolff-Metternich, former German Ambassador to Turkey, and Counts von Puckler and Wenkheim.

The efforts of these chief actors in the intrigues are supplemented by those of representatives of various nationalities. Some of these delegates, notably Baron Giskra, make a show of friendly sentiment toward Great Britain, while others dwell upon the discord, real or pretended, between Berlin and Vienna.

The Debats correspondent asserts that this discord is incontestable, and that it runs through all grades of official and military circles, though the object of its being put forward by representatives of Vienna working with representatives of Berlin in Switzerland, he adds, does not appear.

SEE A NEW MEANING IN PRESIDENT'S REPLY

Suggestion That Hit at Trade Leagues Meant a Possibility Under Pope's Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Some uncertainty as to President Wilson's meaning in criticising economic combinations of nations in his response to Pope Benedict's peace offer was cleared today. One interpretation of the President's expressions was that he had condemned the Entente Allies for making plans at the Paris Conference to engage in a commercial war on Germany after the present war. It was learned today, however, in an authoritative quarter, that the President's meaning had been misconstrued.

In his communication to the Pope the President said that "the establishment of selfish and exclusive economic leagues we deem inexpedient and in the end worse than futile, no proper basis for a peace of any kind." The authority mentioned said today, when his attention was called to the construction that was being placed on the President's words, that the seeming criticism should be considered in connection with what preceded it in the President's message.

The President had stated in the early part of his note in a reference to Germany that "to deal with such a power by way of peace upon the plan proposed by his Holiness the Pope would make it necessary to create a permanent combination against the German people, who are its instruments." It was stated that this sentence, taken in connection with the statement that implied criticism of the Entente economic agreement, showed that the President was seeking to make clear that ending the war on the Pope's terms would leave Germany and her partners the enemies of the world and would force the allied nations to combine in a commercial way to prevent the resumption of German ascendency for the purpose of resorting to war again when her strength justified and opportuntly offered.

The President's idea of peace is a peace in which the German people will have a voice. A peace in which the German people would have the say would enable the nations which are fighting Germany to feel that they had a guarantee that the menace of ruthless militarism would not be revived.

In these circumstances the President, it is understood, felt justified in pointing out that, in his belief, the Pope's plan would make necessary a bitter economic war with Great Britain, France, Russia, Italy, Japan, the United States and the Allies on one side and Germany and at least some of her partners on the other. To prevent this result the President desires a peace which the German people have a share in bringing about, so that it will not be necessary for Germany's enemies to undertake economic reprisals.

The Government, it was said in the authoritative quarter mentioned, must always consider the possibility of a stalemate, although no such outcome was really looked for. But should the conflict have such a conclusion and it became necessary to negotiate a peace with the present German Government, and not with the German people, then the United States would be obilged to become a member of a league, probably military as well as economic, against the German people, with whom, the President holds, this country has no quarrel.

It rests upon the German people, therefore, what kind of peace Germany obtains, according to the American attitude. If they desire to regain for Germany a place of equality among the nations, they must reform their Government along democratic lines. If they continue to support the autocratic power at Berlin and a stalemate is produced, the peace will be only an armistice.

This Government is waiting to see if the German Government permits the publication in German newspapers of the full text of President Wilson's response to the Pope. Should publication there be forbidden or garbled extracts only be printed, the State Department will adopt measures to have German translations of the note dropped by airmen in German cities and in the German trenches for the benefit of citizens and soldiers.

Dispatches from Europe seem to indicate that the full text of the President's response had not been printed in any European country except London. It is supposed here that this arises mainly from the failure of news agencies in the United States to cable it. Ambassador Page, it is thought, gave the text of the reply to the London newspapers.

According to the Washington view, supported by the eulogistic comment of the British and French press on the President's attitude, there seems to be no reason why any of the allied Governments should object to the publication of the response in full.

In fact, the Government believes that each of the allied nations will take means to have the note distributed textually in the language of the people.

LONDON DOUBTS EFFECT ON GERMAN PEOPLE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Opinions gathered today in highly representative quarters indicate that President Wilson's reply to the Pope is held here to possess even greater importance than the press comments appeared to assign to it.

This does not imply that the President's note did not have what the French call "a good press" here. Newspaper comments were laudatory throughout, for even those organs of extreme British opinion which do not share Wilson's hopes of regeneration of the German people and differ most strongly from him with regard to economic policies after the war judiciously refrained from pressing such points.

According to a highly authoritative view, the President has once again struck right at the heart of the situation and expressed a program which can enlist the full support of all right-minded men.

In one way his note is a most successful counterblast to the efforts of the well meaning but misguided pacifists, and will do much to check the development of "peace aspirations," which have derived their greatest strength from the fear that the war aims of the Allies were being diverted from their original purposes. A goodly proportion of the so-called pacifists of England will fight on willingly under Wilson's banner until the ends he sets forth are achieved. In this respect the President's note possesses a value which cannot be overestimated.

The best liberal opinion of this country has found in Wilson a strong and cheering ally. A prediction heard in many quarters today is that when the time to make peace comes it will be found that the British Government will be actuated and directed by representatives of the nation whose attitude throughout the conflict has been most closely and clearly in sympathy with the principles which Wilson lays down as the basis of lasting peace.

Another aspect of the Wilson note upon which stress is laid is that this document makes it plain that the objective for which the United States is fighting is the abolition of autocracy in Central Europe. Autocracy makes the whole world unsafe for democracy, for with the present and prospective increase in international communications and relationships, the Washingtonian theory of American disinterestedness in the Eastern Hemisphere has become an empty phrase, like Salisbury's about the "splendid isolation of England."

A third feature of the note which is emphasized here is that if the German people are sincerely desirous of peace, the path is shown clearly to them. Upon this "if," it is held, depends the question whether peace has been brought any nearer by the Papal intervention.

Speaking broadly, the balance of informed opinion here is that the German nation is not yet willing or ready to take control of its destinies into its own hands. It is pointed out that the disorganization of Russia probably counts for more in the eyes of the Germans generally than does the entry of the United States into the war, and while they remain in that mind they are unlikely to be responsive to the President's appeal.

Today's evening papers generally follow in their comments the lines of their morning contemporaries, but some points are noteworthy.

The Westminster Gazette says:

"The American word to Germany is: 'We will fight to the death against your Prussianism, but if an end is made to that and if you will help us to end it, we shall not attempt to ruin you, to put you outside the pale, to destroy your empire.'

"That, we believe, is the right note for for all the Allies, firm and defiant all the Allies, firm and defiant against the German system, but not threat- can be disestablished. It may not succeed. The German people and their system may be too much one for any disintegration from within, but there is no reason why we should perpetually stoke up the fire-eaters who are trying to persuade the German people that the Allies are bent on conquest and destruction and do nothing to help the growth of moderate opinion.

"President Wilson's definition of war aims excludes nothing that is essential for the Allies, but it defines these aims in terms that are rational and intelligent, and to that extent evokes moral forces which will be more and more important in the last stages of this war."

The Star says:

"This ultimatum to autocracy opens up grave possibilities. It may bring the German people to their senses and accentuate the parliamentary crisis in Berlin, which has become chronic. In that event it will hasten peace. On the other hand, it is a declaration of war which must drive kaiserism to bay, and we must not be surprised if Europe, like the demoniac, is torn asunder before the evil spirit leaves her."

The Evening News says:

"THE NEW YORK TIMES puts the situation in a nutshell when its says: 'Negotiations would result in scraps of paper. When the German Government went morally bankrupt it left a vacancy on the other side of the peace conference table.' In the present temper of the German people there seems to us no immediate prospect of the vacancy being filled."

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Manchester Guardian, in commenting on President Wilson's reply to the Pope, says that the position of the President is clear and logical. It gives several extracts from Premier Lloyd George's speech at Glasgow last June, which it says are much the same in spirit as Mr. Wilson's message to the Pope, and continues:

"President Wilson's policy comes very near to the formula, 'No peace with the Hohenzollerns,' but it would be unfair not to recognize the very narrow but deep gulf that separates him from that formula. The way in which he prefers to put his policy is that no peace can be durable without the guarantee of the German people. Guarantees given by the German Government, holding the views that it does, cannot be durable.

"Mr. Wilson has no desire to dictate to the German people their form of Government, but as a good American he has faith in the honesty and sincerity of democracy. He is not concerned to insist that Germany must have forms of government like our own, but only to assert the principle that in dealing with an autocracy like that of Germany we must in self-defense exact more severe guarantees than if we were dealing, not with a clique whose political vices have been made notorious by the war, but with a free people, who in the mass are never dishonorable, never cynical, never treacherous."

In going beyond the ruling caste to the German people themselves, says The Pall Mall Gazette, President Wilson may appear to some to be oversanguine.

"But for ourselves," the newspaper continues, "we believe he is right, because we see no alternative but complete military victory. When the enemy masses learn, as they must sooner or later, that it is the abominable doctrine of blood and iron which stands between them and their deliverance, we believe clouds will have gathered for the house of Hohenzollern."

The Evening Standard says: "Mr. Wilson brings us back to the bedrock fact that Germany is a leper State, and that until she has cleansed herself communion with her means corruption. He puts into plain English what our statesmen clothe in roundabout and unimpressive language. He is not afraid to call a liar a liar, even if the liar happens to be extremely well connected.

"In the light of the President's note the talk of Stockholm takes on an additional tinge of absurdity. Stockholm stands for communion with the unclean thing, for that very condonation of evil which the President repudiates."

The Globe says: "We perhaps are not quite ready, as is the President, to assume that the strangely pro-German spirit which permeates the suggestions of his Holiness is entirely free from all Austrian influence, nor are we prepared to admit that the German people do not share the culpability of their rulers for this desolating war, but these things are matters of opinion and do not affect the sincere concurrence of this nation in the main principles which Mr. Wilson has laid down."

WILSON REPLY CAUSES FALL IN DUTCH STOCKS

Papers Express Hope That Efforts for Peace Will Not Be Discontinued.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30.—Owing to the prevalent feeling that the Pope's proposal for peace probably will be unsuccessful, stocks which had risen in anticipation of a favorable reply by the belligerents to the Pontiff's note have again declined here.

The Standard, a Calvinistic newspaper, in an editorial today, says that, judging from American newspaper comment, President Wilson's reply to the Pope appears to be disappointing but that the Standard trusts the great cause with which it deals will remain henceforth in the forefront of discussion, although it seems hope must be abandoned that the fourth war Winter is avoidable.

The Roman Catholic Tijd expresses the opinion that peace is a step nearer. The Tijd takes the view that the requisite basis for discussion will be furnished if the Central Powers make the proposition of the Holy See even approximately their own, and it sees indications that the reply of the Central group will not be such as to make further negotiations impossible.

The Nieuwe Courant of The Hague also thinks that President Wilson's reply is not an unconditional refusal, and need not deter the Pope from taking further steps.

DISCUSSES PAPAL NOTE.

Berlin Commission Waits to Hear from Germany's Allies.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 30.—The commission appointed by the German Chancellor to consider a reply to the peace note of Pope Benedict held its first session on Tuesday, according to the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin.

Chancellor Michaelis presided at the meeting, which lasted about two hours and a half. It adjourned until the results of discussions over the note are available from Vienna, Constantinople, and Sofia.

J. H. SCHIFF PRAISES REPLY.

President's Response to Pope "Perhaps the Most Lofty State Paper."

Jacob H. Schiff, in a telegram to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Bar Harbor, expresses his opinion of President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace proposals as follows:

"The President's reply to Pope Benedict is perhaps the most lofty State paper ever framed on behalf of any people, lifting, as it does, the struggle into which we have been forced to engage to a plane that has never had its equal in the history of mankind. Can there be any doubt that the word of a great people, thus expressed by its Chief Magistrate, is certain to be heard and have its effect throughout the world?"

GERMAN PAPERS NOW CONFIRM PEACE OFFER

Assail Semi-Official Organ for Throwing Dust in the Eyes of the Public.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30.—The statement that an offer of a separate peace was made to Russia recently by the German Government is published in the Socialist newspaper Vorwärts of Berlin. It was brought out by the assertion of Premier Kerensky of Russia, in his speech at the Moscow conference, that Russia "a little time ago," replied indignantly to a proposal to conclude a separate peace, and that a few days ago "we witnessed another attempt, equally base, directed against our allies."

In this connection, the semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung is again accused by the German press of an attempt to throw dust in the eyes of the world and the German public by ostensibly denying Premier Kerensky's acount of the overtures to Russia and its allies, which is characterized as being no denial at all. The Tageblatt, Vorwärts and Vossische Zeitung call attention to the action of the semi-official organ in denying that such overtures were made by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, whereas M. Kerensky did not mention the former Chancellor, specifying that the proposal to Russia's allies was made a few days ago, that is, since the retirement of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg.

The Vorwärts adds that such an offer was actually made to Russia, although not by Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. It says that the organ of Chancellor Michaelis would be right in asserting that Germany had done what it could to open a path to peace by adoption of the Reichstag's peace resolution, if Dr. Michaelis had acted from the standpoint of the resolution without conditions, wabbling and reservations. Unfortunately he has not done this, the Vorwärts asserts, but has permitted the opponents of the resolution to claim him for their own.

The action of the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung is similar to its "denial" of the authenticity of Emperor William's communication to President Wilson at the outbreak of the war, recently made public by former Ambassador Gerard.

BLOUNT TAKES 30 GERMANS.

St. Louis Man to Get the War Cross for His Verdun Exploit.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Allen, son of Richard Blount of St. Louis, who joined the Foreign Legion in April, has written to his father that he has been proposed for the War Cross with Palms for taking thirty prisoners single-handed in the fighting at Verdun. He was wounded slightly in the hand.

Mr. Blount has considerably exceeded the expectations of his father, who said at the time of his boy's enlistment: "I want my son to account for five Germans."

PRESIDENT'S REPLY PLEASES THE FRENCH

Paris Believes the German Government Cannot Keep It from the People.

AND EXPECTS RESULTS

Unsettled Political Conditions in Berlin Are Regarded as Favoring Good Outcome.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—President Wilson's reply to the Pope has been received here, but only a summary was printed this morning. A good impression was produced in all circles, and the public eagerly waits for the full text. I have been able as yet only to sound American opinion, which is heartily enthusiastic. It is believed that the President made timely use of an outstanding opportunity to reach the German people with a statement they cannot wholly misunderstand, and that it will sink in. It will be difficult this time to suppress or distort even through brutal censorship.

The Pope's proposal expresses the German longing, probably even was approved by Michaelis before being promulgated.

The German people are listening intently for replies, especially one from America. The political ferment at the present moment would hardly permit strong-arm methods in shutting off discussion. Heretofore the President's utterances have not penetrated into Germany. It would seem that circumstances have made a tribune from which Mr. Wilson can address the people direct.

Another observation heard today was that previous efforts to get at the minds and hearts of the German people had not been so happy and that the military ring had been able to turn them so as to convince the public that the Entente was trying to break down the existing organization in order to render Germany helpless and destroy her. President Wilson's assurances heretofore were construed in the light of the European Entente's statement of terms, which were made to appear as aiming at complete annihilation of the German Empire.

Since America landed troops in Europe the tone of public thought and feeling in Germany has visibly changed. The people there are used to their European enemies and can be pretty cheerful against them, but American attack in war and antagonism in trade are a nightmare. They try "strafing," but it will not work long. They know there is neither hate nor ambitious design in America. From time to time fears are allayed by the brave talk of their Prussian masters, but they break out afresh. Even now the cry goes up: "What is this efficiency that subjects us to untold suffering and is now about to separate us from all our old friends and leave us alone in the world?"

Still another factor favorable to results from the President's reply is the unsettled political condition in Berlin. They are unquestionably "between hay and grass" in their reorganization schemes. The Kaiser and Hindenburg are unalterable. The Reichstag and people want peace and change. Between the two Michaelis is the vibrating hyphen. There is a state of unstable equilibrium. The moment is propitious to land a blow at Kaiserism.

Comment here finds in the synopsis evidence of the President's skill in approaching the German people with sincere good will while maintaining toward German militarism the stiffest possible attitude. The terms in which the Pope's proposal is rejected will brace the fighting spirit in every allied country. It is almost like a new and ringing declaration of war, and, coming at a time of hammer strokes on three fronts, will hearten the allied efforts.

This effect is gained without loss to the sincerity of the assurance to the German people. It is believed that this seed will fall on good ground. There is certainly an element, and growing, in Germany which believes that America means what she says, no more, no less; that she has no plans of conquest or aggrandizement; that there is no selfish alliance with other powers or vindictiveness against the people of enemy powers, and that finally America wishes very heartily that her going to war primarily for self-preservation may not only serve the cause of freedom in allied countries, but bring emancipation to the real Germany—the Germany of the German people.

A diplomatist to whom I showed this added the following: "While Germany is whining for peace Wilson is showing a set jaw, which only a crowbar can open."

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Only an eighty-word summary of President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict had reached Paris this morning, and consequently the newspapers withheld extensive comment.

"As far as it is possible to judge from the indications received," the Petit Parisien say, "President Wilson does not discuss the Pope's suggestions in themselves. His reply is a re-editing of the thesis familiar to those who have read his messages, that as long as German Imperial institutions are not modified, as long as the democratic spirit has not penetrated beyond the Rhine, as long as absolutism, based on oligarchy, persists, so long nations cannot have confidence in Germany's word.

"President Wilson thus brings up, just as France and England have done before him, the question of Prussian militarism, which is the safeguard of this absolutism and oligarchy. In rejecting the Vatican's offer the President indicates the conditions under which a useful conversation might be taken up. Once more he gives important advice to the German people. Will he be heard?"

The Matin says: "From what we know of the text, Mr. Wilson has endeavored to enter into the views of the spiritual power which is regarded by millions of his fellow-citizens as the highest religious authority in the world, but it is absolutely necessary that peace should be concluded only with absolute guarantees for the future, which the President believes cannot be given by the present rulers of Germany. He does not conceal the opinion, which he has already expressed, that the German people should be free from the present régime before an agreement worthy of a conference can be made with them.

"It is the view of a man who sees far, has always deliberated deeply on what he has done, and has not had the habit of consulting with any one in regard to actions of grave importance, but in the silence of his study reflects and decides. He has made an immense and powerful people understand the necessity of submitting to the hardest sacrifices to intervene in a European conflict. This historic action entitles him to credit, and every effort should be made to understand his personal conception of the conflict, its causes and ends."

KILLING SWEDISH CATTLE.

Fodder Shortage Causes Reduction—Storing Wood for Fuel.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30.—The number of cattle in Sweden has been reduced by approximately 15 per cent., owing to the anticipated scarcity of food for them in the Fall. Steps are being taken for salting and packing beef. The Government has licensed the exportation of 5,000 head of cattle to Norway or Finland, but not to Germany.

The Government scheme for cutting and transporting wood promises to be fairly successful in meeting the expected fuel shortage next Winter. Lack of sufficient fuel arises from the fact that Germany is withholding four-fifths and Great Britain virtually all of the usual coal exports to Sweden.

Many steamers are engaged in bringing wood to Stockholm. The splendid boulevards of the Swedish capital are half covered with huge piles of wood for Winter consumption. All other available open spaces are being used for storage purposes.

WOUNDED BRITISH GAY IN SWISS CAMP

WANT TO TRAIN AMERICANS

Eager to Get Away Before Snow Interrupts Outdoor Life—Some Rapid Recoveries.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

BERNE, Aug. 9.—This was a day set for a visit to the English internment camp at Mürren. It is four hours' ride by way of Interlaken and Lauterbrunnen. From the latter place there is a climb by a funicular railroad of about 2,000 feet, followed by a few miles' ride on the very edge of a precipice, with a matchless view of the noble peaks opposite.

Mürren occupies a peninsula about one-third of the altitude of the Jungfrau, which is altogether 4,167 meters high. It faces the great granite fortress which is the Jungfrau's base, and the walls of which seem less than a golf drive distant, but are actually more than two miles. The top of the Jungfrau would be five miles, as the crow flies, with the Mönch and Eiger in full view on the left. Between the granite base and the snow line are green stretches on which, they told us, chamois were at the moment grazing, but they were not visible to the naked eye.

There is nowhere in the world a finer scenic beauty than at and from Mürren, but one mustn't speak of it to the soldiers. They're "fed up" on scenery. All the same, when it's all over and they get back to Blighty and peace comes, with its chores and dull hardships, they'll recall many a time what happy days those were at Mürren.

Many from Prison Hospitals.

There are now about 400 British soldiers, including about 20 officers, interned at Mürren. The camp was opened in August, 1916. All but a small percentage are wounded men. Most of them came from prison hospitals in Germany. They recall their experiences in these hospitals with wry faces.

The men are mostly English, but Canada, Australia, and even America are represented. Maxwell, a Philadelphian of Scotch parentage, who enlisted as a private with the Canadians, has charge of the shop where watches are repaired. There are a carpenter shop, a printing office which turns out a camp newspaper about once a month, a tailor shop and a chauffeurs' school. The latter has graduated a number of men who are running cars in various parts of Switzerland.

There is a dentist who has treated 4,000 teeth in his camp, having pulled 1,400 and filled 1,000. His wife helps him and they have won the gratitude of the men for their devoted and skillful service. There is a good Y. M. C. A. organization with nice quarters and a hall where entertainments are given.

As it was a brilliant day, games were in full swing this afternoon. There were cricket, association football and hockey. "Not much sign of weakness and wounds in that lot," I remarked to the Lieutenant Colonel as we watched the gay scene from a bench which commanded a view of all three games. "Ah! but you should have seen them when they came here!" he replied. The football tteam was practicing for a go with the Berne team next Sunday. There is a baseball game now and again.

Veterans Who Have Glass Eyes.

There are a great many glass eyes. I talked with an Irish officer who had one almost as good to look at as the good eye. "I had some made in Geneva," he said. "Jolly good eyes they make in Geneva!" He was a young fellow about 24 or 25. At first I didn't recognize his race, and asked what part of England he was from. "I am not an Englishman," he snapped back. When I inquired where he was hit, he couldn't remember the name of the place for a minute or two and screwed up his face in the effort. "Oh, yes, Thiepval," he said, the bally name suddenly coming back to him.

All the world remembers Thiepval and the gallant work of his Connaught Rangers on July 1, 1916, but a Connaught officer shot that day has dwelt so little on the episode that he must have time to recall the name of the place. A rifle bullet entered his right cheek, passed through the eye, and came out above the bridge of the nose.

He was greatly interested in the Flanders battle. "Do you think that is going to be a really big show?" he asked. He was sorry that there didn't seem much chance of his going back home. He and all other officers I talked with were very keen on getting with the Americans to train recruits. They dread Winter at Mürren, not only because of the cold but because the deep snow covers the whole place except one street, which is kept open and affords the only chance for outdoor exercise.

The officer under whose guidance I looked about was a Captain in the Buffs. His battalion was wiped out at Loos in September, 1915, and he was badly wounded and captured by the Germans. He was a Stock Exchange broker and enlisted in August, 1914. His family have joined him at Mürren and they have a nice cottage on the side of the mountain.

Transplanting London Names.

The village itself is extremely picturesque. The streets, which are little more than walks and the prettier for being narrow and winding, have been rechristened with London names—the usual Piccadilly, Fleet Street, Strand, Edgware Road, and Regent Street; the plainer end is called Whitechapel further to carry out the illusion of the high city on the Thames.

The officers and soldiers are quartered in the well-known Hôtel des Alpes. The back building is given over to the Tommies, who have nice, neat rooms with two or three single beds in each. The walls of these rooms make you cry with their profusion of photographs from home—wives, children, fathers, mothers, sisters. How separation and suffering purify those dear loves!

It was a pleasant disappointment to find such a gay company and to see such good progress in recovery from wounds. The day impressed me anew with the wonderful recuperative power of man and his ability to adapt himself to almost any situation.

August 10.—I went with the American Minister to see some English Tommies start for home after a long internment in Switzerland. They were all typical wounded convalescents, this one lacking a leg, that one an arm, another an eye, a fourth paralyzed. There were two affected precisely alike and very strangely. Through shell shock or otherwise they had been so shaken that every minute was agony unless both hands were immersed in ice water. This relief had been worked out by wide experimentation in the hospital. They were provided with ice to last them to Paris. Except for the peculiar nervous trouble both men are physically fit.

An interesting chap who was on the platform to see the soldiers off was a young officer with one arm who is now an interne in Berne. He was an airman and his machine was brought down by a German avion. It fell two miles and was shattered to bits. The pilot was killed instantly. The young officer was terribly mangled and his case was regarded as hopeless, but he got well except that his left arm had to be amputated. He is a cheery chap and very popular in Berne society.

Minister Stovall and I walked away from the station toward the hotel, recalling the contrast between war times and when we had last met, (at the Baltimore convention in 1912.) A gentleman passed us and saluted the Minister. "That is a former President of Switzerland," he remarked. Mr. Stovall has found the work here interesting and congenial, but he keeps in close touch with his paper, The Savannah Press, which, under his ownership and management, has become a power in the public affairs of Georgia.

Mrs. Stovall, like Mrs. Walter Page and Mrs. Sharp, and perhaps others among the wives of American diplomats I have not had the chance of meeting, has fitted into the diplomatic environment most admirably and is universally esteemed.

RUSSIA PUNISHES REGIMENT THAT FLED

One of Two That Abandoned Trenches on Rumanian Front Dispersed — Line Restored

PETROGRAD, Aug. 30.—A large proportion of two Russian regiments in the Fokshani region on the Rumanian front left their trenches and retired yesterday, says today's War Office statement. The dispersal of one of the regiments followed, and measures have been taken to restore the positions affected in the battle now in progress. The announcement follows:

Western Front.—The firing was more intense in the direction of Vilna.

Rumanian Front.—In the region of Radautz on Tuesday evening the enemy attacked our positions in the neighborhood of Sochka. He was repulsed by our rifle fire and machine guns. In the region south of the village of Burla our scouts made a successful reconnoissance, taking ten prisoners.

In the Ocna region the enemy made several attacks on our positions in the sector south of Grozestchi. He was repulsed. In the direction of Kedzi-Vasarhely an enemy attack northeast of Soveia was repulsed. In the direction of Fokshani on Tuesday evening the enemy attacked our positions in the region east of Ireshti and dislodged our troops. The battle in this neighborhood was renewed yesterday. In the course of this engagement a large proportion of the men composing two of our regiments occupying trenches in this sector abandoned their positions and retired to the north, and following this one of the regiments was dispersed. Measures have been taken to restore the positions. A battle is in progress.

Caucasian Front.—In the direction of Pendjavin our troops occupied two villages southeast of Lake Zeribar, taking prisoners.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (via London.)—On the southern Rumanian front yesterday the Russians were ejected from Trechti and pressed back over the heights beyond the village in the direction of the Suchitza Valley, says today's official report from the eastern front. The bulletin reads:

Army Group of Prince Leopold.—Near Dvinsk and Smorgon there was a considerable revival of artillery activity, and also southwest of Lutsk. Near Tarnopol and at Zbrocz the Russian artillery was quieter than previously.

Army Group of Archduke Joseph.—Rumanian attacks south of Ocna and Turgul were repulsed.

Army Group of Field Marshal von Mackensen.—Tuesday's military success in the mountains west of Fokshani was extended yesterday. A powerful thrust by our tried attacking troops threw the stubbornly resisting enemy out of Trechti and pressed him back over the heights beyond the village in the direction of the Suchitza Valley. A regiment composed of Silesians and Saxons especially distinguished itself. Three hundred prisoners, numerous machine guns, and vehicles were brought in. Violent and relief attacks made by the enemy without regard to loss of life against the lines held by us northeast and north of Muncelul were unsuccessful and without influence on the attacking movement west of the Suchitza. On the Sereth and the lower Danube there has been an increase in military activity.

AUSTRIANS TRAPPED ON A MOUNTAIN

Italian Columns Surround Nakobil and Also Attack the Forest of Tarnovo.

EMPEROR AVOIDED TRIESTE

Rout of His Army Forced Him to Abandon Intended Visit and Hurry Back to Vienna.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Word reached Washington through diplomatic channels today that the successful progress of the Italian offensive against the Austrian front had forced Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary to abandon his intention of visiting Trieste. After witnessing the rout of his forces along the Bainsizza Plateau, the Austrian King hastened to Vienna without visiting the Queen City at the head of the Adriatic, which is the objective of the Italian offensive.

A military authority at the Italian Embassy expressed the opinion today that San Gabrielle and San Daniele Mountains would be occupied by the Italian forces at any time now, as both places are dominated by the Italian guns on the Bainsizza Plateau, which is held securely by the Italian forces. Tolmino is now in danger of being destroyed, but this will be avoided by the Italians if possible. General Cadorna is trying to deal with Tolmino as he did with Gorizia—invest the place and force its evacuation with as little damage to the city as possible.

The Embassy today received this cablegram from the Government at Rome regarding the progress of the Italian offensive:

"The Italian army advancing on the Bainsizza Plateau is gathering an enormous amount of material abandoned by the Austrians. In the meantime, the Italian troops are forcing the Austrian army to a further retirement. The western slope of Slemo has been captured. The Austrians are now making a stand on the Nakobil, over 2,000 feet high. Italian columns, however, have surrounded the Nakobil and attacked the forest of Tarnovo. Up to the present moment the Italian army has conquered about 300 square kilometers of new territory.

"The naval correspondent of the Tribuna telegraphs that during the last five days the Gulf of Trieste has been dominated by the Italian artillery and by the fire of the Italian and English monitors, escorted and protected by torpedo boats and motor boats. While on land the troops of General Cadorna are bombarding the Hermada [the principal obstacle to the occupation of Trieste] on the side, the monitors are shelling it frontally. A constant rain of shells is falling upon the Austrian defenses. The fire is directed by Italian airplanes furnished with radiographic instruments. The Austrian coast artillery has tried in every way to silence the Anglo-Italian monitors without success. During the whole action no Austrian aircraft has been seen. The Austrian Navy remains trapped at Pola, some twenty miles distant."

THROW AUSTRIANS BACK.

Italians Repulse Counterattacks and Take 560 Prisoners.

ROME, Aug. 30.—Austrian counterattacks in force were made yesterday against the new Italian positions on the front above Gorizia, the War Office reports. Everywhere the Austrians were driven back, and at some points the Italians made further gains. The announcement follows:

On the Bainsizza Plateau and east of Gorizia the enemy attempted, by counterattacking in force, to retake positions recently captured. He was driven back everywhere. Our lines were held firmly, and advanced at some points. We captured 560 prisoners.

Our aircraft successfully renewed bombardment of enemy batteries in Panovizza Wood, on the Carso, on Tuesday evening. An enemy attack between the Vippacco and Dosso Faiti was broken by our troops.

On the Trentino front, from Stelvio to Carnia, concentrated fire and numerous reconnoitring actions kept the enemy busy. In the Tofane region the enemy, after intense artillery preparation, attacked our positions at the mouth of the Travenanzes Valley three times and with great violence, but was repulsed completely.

STOP GERMAN ATTACKS ON THE VERDUN FRONT

French Also Take Prisoners in a Trench Raid in Champagne.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—German attacks on the Verdun front last night were repulsed completely, the War Office announces. Artillery duels prevailed today on both sides of the Meuse. The French penetrated German positions in Champagne, taking prisoners and a machine gun.

The afternoon statement follows:

There was pronounced activity by the artillery in the region of Braye-en-Laonnois and in the sector of Craonne. An attack by the enemy on our small posts south of Chevreux was repulsed.

In Champagne east of the Teton we succeeded, without sustaining any losses, in a detailed action in the course of which our troops penetrated the enemy line and brought back eleven prisoners and a machine gun. Two German attacks in the same region were repulsed after spirited fighting.

There was active artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse (Verdun front). German attempts north of Caurières Wood and against our small posts north of Vaux-les-Palameix met with a complete check.

The following official statement was issued tonight:

There was reciprocal artillery activity on both banks of the Meuse. The rest of the front was calm.

The number of artillerymen employed in the recent operations in the Verdun region was greater than the number of infantrymen put into the battle line. This surprising fact is explained by the correspondent of the Temps at Verdun as being due to the difficulty of the gunners' tasks, in addition to the immense number of cannon. Heavy shells had to be carried to the guns for hours at a stretch by men who were compelled to wear gas masks, which rendered breathing difficult and obstructed their vision.

The correspondent adds that the object of the artillery now is directed less to destroying enemy guns than to forcing the German gunners to suspend service and seek shelter. For this purpose, he says, gas shells are employed largely.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (via London.)—The artillery fighting in the Verdun sector reached a point of greater violence yesterday evening, says today's official communication, the text of which follows:

Army Group of the German Crown Prince: On the Chemin des Dames several reconnoitring attacks launched by the French southeast of Cerny broke down. Before Verdun the artillery duel again became more violent in the evening. Apart from reconnoitring engagements there was no infantry activity.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht: Further French fire against Thiaucourt has again been answered by a powerful bombardment of Noivant-aux-Pres

BRITISH GAIN A BIT AT YPRES.

Advance Slightly Northeast of the City, Taking a Few Prisoners.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—British Headquarters in France announces a slight advance on the Ypres battlefield to the northeast of the city. Tonight's official report says:

On the Ypres battlefield we advanced our line slightly today southeast of St. Jenshoek (northeast of Ypres) and captured a few prisoners. The enemy's artillery has shown considerable activity in the neighborhood of Lens and east and north of Ypres.

Following is the text of the afternoon report:

The enemy artillery was active during the night in the Nieuport sector. The weather was stormy and wet.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (via London, British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—General Headquarters has issued the following report of operations on the Flanders front:

Army Group of Prince Rupprecht: Military activity in Flanders yesterday was again limited to heavy firing in some sectors northeast and east of Ypres. Early this morning the British launched a violent attack northeast of Wieltje. It collapsed with heavy losses under our fire and in hand-to-hand fighting.

NEW GERMAN TROOPS AT LENS

Canadians Find Dead from Two Fresh Reserve Divisions.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Aug. 30.—The burial of the German dead who fell in the recent fighting about Lens has revealed the presence of further enemy forces not hitherto identified on this part of the front. Shoulder straps of the men of the 225th Regiment of the Forty-ninth Reserve Division and the Thirty-ninth Reserve Regiment of the Thirteenth Reserve Division have been turned in in sufficient numbers to indicate the presence of battalions from these regiments in some, at least, of the desperate struggles of the past two weeks.

At least sixty-one enemy battalions [nominally 60,000 men] took part in these battles, and in the light of these figures the victory is a remarkable one.

agencies for the detection of submarines a zone of 150 miles or less in width could be drawn about the German bases or the entrance of the North Sea in which a submarine could come to the surface only at rare intervals, the Germans would not be able to operate on a scale to threaten supply lines except inside that zone.

The decision of the Navy Department to spend $350,000,000 on new destroyers and destroyer building facilities, approved yesterday by President Wilson, is based on the effectiveness of the swift fighting machines, as proven by Admiral Sims's forces. Every effort to speed the new program as well as the old will be made, and during the next year the American destroyer force in European waters probably can be more than doubled. Destroyers now under construction are being rushed to completion, and reports on progress are satisfactory.

American experts have developed a depth bomb for use against submarines that is deadly at considerable range. The bomb, containing a high explosive, is dropped from a destroyer over a spot where the presence of a submerged U-boat is indicated. It is timed to explode at a certain depth. If the explosion occurs below the U-boat and within a reasonable distance, the hull of the underwater craft cannot withstand the pressure, but is crushed like an eggshell.

Airplanes are being used in conjunction with the destroyer work of the Allies along the French coast and in the English Channel. So far, the American destroyers have not worked with aircraft, but that means of detecting the presence of submarines will be used wherever practicable as the planes become available.

bourgeoisie and the Socialists. How strong it will be depends upon how far the wealthy classes help the Government to realize the reforms contemplated. The conference gave positive results, which have united so far as is possible the vital forces of the country."

General Alexieff, the former Commander in Chief, said: "Postponement of the reorganization of the army threatens the most serious consequences in the near future. Serious attention must be paid to the report and recommendations of General Korniloff."

M. Youreneff, the Constitutional Democratic Minister of Public Works, said: "If further concessions are made it will be possible to reach an agreement between the organized forces of the country."

M. Pleschehonoff, Minister of Supplies and National Socialist, said: "The union of the political group seems to have taken a favorable turn."

LONDON, Aug. 30.—At the conclusion of the Moscow conference Premier Kerensky announced the partial re-establishment of the death penalty as a necessary measure of army discipline, according to The Central News' Petrograd corespondent, who quotes the Premier as saying:

"As Minister of Justice I abolished the death penalty, but as Minister of War I decided it necessary partially to re-establish it. This re-establishment hurts to the very soul, but for the salvation of the country we will kill with all our souls. The army must be organized and disciplined, each combatant occupying his proper place and each recognizing his duty as well as his right.

"The disciplinary tribunals will be conserved and will receive the authority indispensable for the maintenance of the army as an efficient organization."

THANKS PRESIDENT WILSON.

Moscow Conference Resolution Acknowledges His Greeting.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The reply of the Moscow Conference to the greeting of President Wilson, in the form of a resolution, was received here today and follows:

"The message of greeting of the President of the United States to the Moscow State Council, being read in conference on Aug. 27, the council has manifested by enthusiastic cheers its gratitude for the wishes formulated by the President, emphasizing that the feeling of the great democracy and its faith in the common triumph of the Allies for the sake of justice and liberty are shared by all the people of Russia."

President Wilson again turned his attention to the situation in Russia at a conference today with Elihu Root, who headed the American Mission. Mr. Root and other members of the mission have been pressing the immediate necessity of material, as well as moral, assistance to the Provisional Government, and besides the recent $100,000,000 credit, other steps already have been taken toward that end. Further action may follow today's conferences.

After his talk with the President, at the latter's suggestion, Mr. Root, with other members of the mission, went over to the State Department and discussed Russian affairs with Secretary Lansing.

SCENES OF SPLENDOR AT CHURCH CONGRESS

First Meeting in Two Centuries Draws Huge Picturesque Crowds to Moscow.

MOSCOW, Tuesday, Aug. 28.—The bells of Moscow's 1,600 churches have been ringing continually since dawn on this, the festival of the Assumption, in honor of the opening today of the Ecumenical Congress of the Orthodox Church, the first congress held for more than two centuries of ecclesiastical officialism, imposed for political motives by Peter the Great.

Ever since the revolution of 1905 all ardent believers of the Church have been desiring a revival of the medieval practice of holding these periodical congresses, which they consider the only means of rescuing the Church from its erstwhile servility to the State, of cleansing its dogmas and ritual and inspiring its formalism with living faith and zeal for social, patriotic service. In this fervent spirit today all of Moscow and thousands of pious pilgrims from elsewhere congregated in the city, chiefly in and around the historic Kremlin, to witness the imposing inaugural ceremonies.

The event was made doubly significant by the presence of the newly elected prelates and long persecuted champions of reform, the chief of whom were the new Archbishops chosen after the revolution by popular vote, and by a Synodal decree yesterday invested with the rank and title of Metropolitan. With them have arrived sixty Archbishops, Bishops from all quarters of the country, representatives of the southern Russo-Greek churches, noted lay and ecclesiastical reformers, and the former Procurator of the Holy Synod, Vladimir Lvoff.

All last night there streamed into the city from neighboring villages shagged, bearded peasants, in many cases accompanied by their wives, bearing hempen packs on their backs and carrying rude images in their hands. These figures, mixing with the city population, moved in dense masses toward the historic Red Square under the Kremlin's walls where the ceremonial order provided that the vast "Procession of the Cross" should take place and the "All-National Service for the Salvation of Holy Russia" should be held.

At 10 o'clock in the morning, in the Cathedral of the Assumption in the Kremlin, in which still stand the eagled thrones on which for hundreds of years the Emperors received the crown, was held the dedicatory service. At this, in cloth of gold vestments and with mitres gleaming with precious stones, there officiated the leaders of the church.

The body of the Cathedral was thronged with mitred Bishops carrying staves and gemmed croziers, arch-priests in the purple biretta, coarsely-gowned and often ecstatic monks, and, mingled with them, laymen of note, the most prominent of the last being Premier Kerensky, who remained but a few moments, and former Premier Lvoff.

At the head of the procession of the cross came the church's most famous reformer, Andrew, Bishop of Ufa, whose life story, begun when he was leading a worldly life as a Prince and an officer, reads like a romance of spiritual regeneration by Tolstoy. Interspersed were choirmen in brocaded robes, acolytes carrying Episcopal staves, and hooded with gold cloths, and visionaries and mystics from the Northern forests, clad in rags and shod in birchbark, who, as they reached the historic spot, bowed and kissed the stones.

After the services in the Cathedral the three Metropolitans and the sixty Bishops proceeded to the monastery where are deposited the relics of Alexis, one of the most revered saints of the orthodox, and ceremoniously kissed the sacred objects. In the meantime the mass of the clergy and laymen marched through the Kremlin grounds and on through the Gates of the Saviour into the Red Square.

The 500 members of the congress will begin their discussions tomorrow in the Temple of the Saviour, built to commemorate the war of liberation against Napoleon.

WOMEN COVERED RETREAT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 30.—The correspondent of the Journal Az Est at the Austro-Hungarian front pays a tribute to the extraordinary bravery of the Russian women's death battalions. The women, he says, shamed their male comrades who deserted or retired in masses, sometimes in divisions, during the battle, especially at Fokshani and Soveja, while the women at great loss covered the retreat, fighting stubbornly, though badly supported by the artillery.

The correspondent concludes by saying it was impossible to distinguish between men and women, as they were dressed alike. The women lost heavily, one battalion being wiped out while holding an important hill.

BIG FIRES IN RUSSIA.

Kazan Swept by Flames—Two Factories Burned in Petrograd.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 30.—After the destruction by fire yesterday of an important factory in the Ochta quarter fire started in another great establishment. The damage is estimated at several million rubles.

It is suspected that the fires were started deliberately.

Many persons were injured in a fire which broke out in the city of Kazan, on the Kazaenka River, 430 miles east of Moscow, on Monday. The flames spread rapidly and caused such destruction that martial law has been proclaimed.

COLONEL AT THEATRE PRAISES THE TROOPS

SORRY HE IS NOW BARRED

Assails Those Who Preached That Unpreparedness Would Keep Nation Out of War.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt told an audience composed largely of soldiers at the Comedy Theatre last night some of his thoughts on the war. The occasion was an entertainment for the benefit of the Divisional Headquarters Corps's fund. Colonel Roosevelt occupied one of the stage boxes with Major Gen. O'Ryan, who introduced him to the audience. The Colonel touched upon many of his favorite themes during his address, which he delivered from the box.

He began by telling the men in uniform how proud he was of them, how proud he was of all men who were doing their duty in some branch of the service. He was as proud of the men in the draft army as of those in the National Guard or regular service, he said, and one of his greatest hopes was that when this war was over there would no longer be any need to draft men because universal, obligatory service had been adopted.

"No man is fit to be a freeman," he said, "who is not willing and anxious to be a soldier if he is needed. Of all the things that I am proud of in my public life, the one of which I am proudest is that I was permitted to serve my country as a soldier, and by so doing I claim the right of comradeship with you young men who marched today. The war I was in wasn't much of a war, but it was all there was, and it was not our fault if there was not enough to go around. I am proud today to be able to tell my children why I was in that war instead of trying to explain to them why I was not, and you, too, should look forward with contentment to telling your children what part you took in this war rather than having to tell them why you weren't in it."

A little later in his talk Colonel Roosevelt referred to the fact that in the present war he was not a soldier. "When I offered my services," he said, "I found that as far as I was concerned this was an exclusive war and that the Board of Admissions would not accept me."

Calls Objectors Selfish.

The Colonel dwelt at some length on the subject of the conscientious objector, repeating his suggestions made on former occasions that this class of individuals should be placed on mine sweepers and thus be enabled to do their share without having to fire a shot or endanger any one's life but their own, or made to dig the front-line trenches to be filled by the men who did not object to doing the shooting. There might be some few men of this class who were really conscientious, but more were selfish and followed the policy of "letting George do it." The conscientious objector, said Colonel Roosevelt, should be deprived of his vote if he was not willing to risk his life when his country was in peril.

"No nation can endure whose mothers do not raise their boys to be soldiers," he continued. "It is hard for parents to send their sons to war, but it would be harder for those who are worth their salt not to send them when they are needed. When you get to France you will find that my four sons are there." It was at this point that the Colonel expressed his regret at not being with them.

Our deplorable unpreparedness and those who had preached that unpreparedness would keep us out of war received Colonel Roosevelt's attention. He compared preparedness to fire insurance, and said that the one man in 500 who had a fire because he was insured was the Hun in the fire insurance business.

"The fact that we are now able, seven months after our entry into the war, to do the things we should have done one, two, and three years ago, is due to England's fleet and the army of France. I want to take advantage of the present opportunity to express my profound contempt for the wretched creatures who attack our Allies. They are safe in attacking our friends because our Allies are engaged in protecting our interests on the high seas.

"I think I am not misstating the facts when I say that we have not one airplane fit to be sent over the enemy's lines; that we have no field guns big enough to be pitted against those of the Germans or alongside those of the British and French, and that even in its present enlarged state our army is too small to cope with that of any well organized country.

"I fervently hope that this war will prove a lesson to us, and that never again will Uncle Sam be obliged to plead with some one else to protect us until such time as he is ready to fight his own battles. We must prepare in times of peace, so that no other nation may take us unawares. We must protect ourselves."

ALLIES ARE EXHAUSTING THE GERMAN RESERVES

General Maurice Sees Signs of Strain on Foe on the Western Front.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—"The last week has been marked by a pause on all the western fronts—a pause which was inevitable after the great successes of the previous week, a pause accentuated by the bad weather, which affected the operations all the way from the North Sea to the Italian seacoast," said Major Gen. F. B. Maurice, Chief Director of Military Operations at the War Office, in his weekly talk to The Associated Press today.

"At the moment it is the Italian front where the situation is the most interesting. Here, also, after a really important advance, there now comes a pause pending the readjustment of the artillery positions. There is much work to be done during these pauses. The problem is whether General Cadorna will be able to get his guns posted for the renewal of the operations before the Austrians get up adequate reserves, some of which are being brought from the Russo-Rumanian front. That is the problem in the pauses in all these battles—the race between the preparations of offense and defense.

"In Flanders the process of wearing down the Germans by continuous bombardment, continuous air fighting and continuous infantry raids is being kept up and is having a far greater effect than the man in the street realizes. This effect is shown in the constant necessity imposed on the Germans of withdrawing and replacing units. The best way to illustrate this is to refer to the battles of former times, in which, as the text books tell us, the first part of the day's battle was an attempt by each side to draw in and exhaust the enemy's reserves, thus preparing for the second phase of the day, namely, the decisive attack.

"So we are now in the first phase of the Flanders battle. We are exhausting with good success the German reserves, and later will come the second phase, to which we are all looking forward confidently.

"On the Russian front there has been another 'regrettable incident,' namely, the voluntary withdrawal of certain Russian units near Czernowitz. The result was negligible, but it serves to show, in conjunction with General Korniloff's speech, the state to which the Russian Army has come and makes it even more remarkable that the Germans have been unable to achieve more.

"On the Rumanian front Field Marshal von Mackensen's attack failed, owing to the gallant Rumanian stand and the necessity of Austrian withdrawals to the threatened Italian front.

"In the last month I have received a remarkable number of letters from the United States showing how widespread is the belief that the British have let the allied and colonial troops do the most of their fighting. This is part of the German propaganda in the United States. I have prepared for you a few statistics to show how far this is untrue.

"At the present moment the British troops in France are 6 to 1 as compared with all overseas troops, and the total casualties in France throughout the war have been in the proportion of 6.5 British to 1 overseas. In the Ypres-Lens fighting since July 31 the casualties have been 9 British to 1 colonial."

PERSHING 'REPORT' CHEERS GERMANS

Statements Attributed to Him by Spanish Newspaper a Basis for Jubilation.

MAJOR MORAHT VOICES IT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (via The Hague.)—General Pershing's report, the alleged contents of which have reached Berlin via Spain, has of course created satisfaction among Germans at large, though discriminating minds are somewhat suspicious about the American Government's reasons for spreading it broadcast. Major Ernest Moraht, the famous military writer, formerly of the Tageblatt and now with the Deutsche Tageszeitung, gave expression to this suspicion in conversation with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today. Since the report was transmitted by the special American correspondent of the Madrid paper "A B C," however, Moraht thought it deserved serious consideration.

"I have always found the A B C independent and in the best sense a neutral paper that ever since the beginning of the war has published reliable and valuable articles on the situation," he said. "If the report is correct, one can well imagine how badly the American mood of fighting must be influenced. I consider it quite possible that Pershing should cause such surprise to the American nation. He is a sober observer and a very clever and distinguished officer.

"It must not be assumed that an American officer of his name would be satisfied to simply accept French or English judgment. He would want to hear and see for himself. If Pershing did so he could not help but arrive at the conclusion set forth in his report. He must have received the impression that the German position was impregnable, because it must be remembered that up to now only advanced posts and crater positions have been attacked that were purposely weakly manned and not elaborately fortified. If, therefore, the English main bodies had such unsurmountable difficulties to even approach within range of the guns there cannot be any doubt that in front of the German main position they must come to a dead stop.

"Hindenburg's method is to spare his troops as much as possible, and for this reason Pershing is correct in saying that Germany's human material is inexhaustible and will always remain so. But not only Germany, but also Austria-Hungary has entered the fourth year of the war stronger and better organized than ever. Now that we have overcome the infantile diseases of the food question we cannot be defeated even by hunger, the occupied territories contributing not inconsiderably to our supply.

"I only hope that General Pershing's report will be thoroughly looked into and appreciated. We need not fear in the light of such reports and should be sorry if the United States sacrificed hundreds of thousands of her virile manhood."

The Major indicated that he would say something more about Pershing's report within a day or two in the Deutsche Tageszeitung.

AUSTRIAN'S PAPERS SEIZED.

Now Margulies Must Face a French Judicial Inquiry.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—An Austrian capitalist named Margulies, who recently was sent to a French concentration camp for subjects of enemy countries, after an interpellation by Georges Clemenceau in the Senate, is now to be the subject of a judicial inquiry.

Various documents were seized by the police at his villa in Nice. The nature of the documents and the character of the proceedings have not yet been disclosed.

DANIELS PROMISES FINISH FIGHT FOR PEACE

Says Preparation Program Won't Be Abated a Jot for Any Rumors.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 30.—Secretary Daniels, speaking here today at the breaking of ground for the Government armor plate and projectile plant, declared that America was not only fighting for the democratic nations of the world, but was waging "the battle of the people of the German Empire themselves."

"Germany began this war for 'a place in the sun,'" said the Secretary. "It has conducted it with the idea that it must have the place in the sun—and the only place. We believe that there can be no place in the sunshine for any nation on earth underneath the ominous shadow of the Prussian Eagle; no sunshine even for the people of Germany themselves.

"Unmoved by possibilities of material advantage or conquest, patient among aggravation and aggression, hoping against hope until the last moment that this madness of the Imperial German Government would pass away, America has at last drawn her sword, not only for her own rights, not only for her own existence, but for the very existence of freedom itself upon the earth, and it will not be sheathed until victory is won."

Mr. Daniels said that "in preparing for a terrible war the Navy is taking the surest means to bring about an early and effective peace."

"Let there be no fear that rumors of peace or possibilities of a cessation of the struggle will cause us to remit one moment our activities on sea and shore," he said. "Not until the peace treaty is actually signed will we remit one single item from our program of preparation. Our citizens need have no fear that we will be lulled into any relaxation or deceived by the mirage of peace which is no peace into slackening of our activities."

Mr. Daniels said that the ceremony of the day was "the concrete declaration of a new national policy in the making of weapons of war."

"We have at last learned," he said, "that the Government itself must be able to manufacture all kinds of weapons it needs for national defense and the maintenance of national rights. This does not necessarily imply that the Government must be the sole manufacturer of munitions. It does mean that it must have facilities for whatever it needs, in whole or in part, as conditions demand.

"We have too long looked almost solely to the private manufacture of weapons of war, with the result that when we entered upon this struggle our facilities were wholly inadequate for our needs. As a result, under pressure we have been forced to hastily provide increased capacity at large expenditure of money and loss of time. Neglect to build Government plants has made us dependent upon private corporations which were already crowded with orders from other nations. Most of them are responding to the call made upon them in a way to call for commendation; but if the recommendations of those who believed in larger munition plants and larger shipbuilding yards owned by the Government had been earlier adopted, the country would today be congratulating itself upon its foresightedness.

"If the Congressional appropriation had been expended when voted in 1907, this country would have saved any millions of dollars and would itself now own the necessary plants to supply its large program of construction. However, Congress, after long consideration, definitely adopted the principle of Government plants when it voted more than $15,000,000 to erect here a plant to make projectiles and armor plate, and to greatly increase elsewhere the production of big guns, torpedoes, powder and mines, and to fit up all navy yards to build ships for the navy.

"We do not expect the Government's plants to make all its munitions," he said. "It is best to have competition between Government and privately owned plants. Experience has shown beyond question that when the Government make a portion of its munitions, private manufacturers make reasonable bids, but where the Government has no plant the prices charged are not competitive and bear little relation to the cost of production."

Venizelos Says Constantine Thwarted His Plan to Seize the Dardanelles.

CAPTURE THEN EASY TASK

Would Have Prevented Bulgaria Joining the War and the Wiping Out of Serbia.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Athens correspondent of Reuter's, Limited, says that the full report of the speech made by Premier Venizelos on Aug. 26 throws a new and important light on the Dardanelles campaign and shows that if the plans he contemplated had not been arbitrarily vetoed by Constantine, then King, Serbia might have been saved, Bulgaria forced to keep neutral, and Turkey defeated early in 1915.

At the time he proposed intervention in the war—in February, 1915—Gallipoli was defended by only 6,000 Turks scattered among the different fortresses, with scanty supplies of ammunition. From the Greek representative at Constantinople it was learned that the Turks then were actually preparing to evacuate the capital, and, he declared, if his policy had been carried out a Greek army could have been secretly landed at Gallipoli and could have entered Constantinople within a fortnight.

"Thus," said M. Venizelos, "Turkey would have been destroyed, Russia would have had her food supplied by sea, would have been enabled to export her grain, and would have escaped the offensive of 1916. Bulgaria, seeing Greek and Franco-British armies on her rear, would not have dared to intervene, and Germany would have lost the east and the war would have ended one year earlier."

As it was, the Allies undertook the Dardanelles campaign more than a month after the Turks began their defense works at Gallipoli, having, said M. Venizelos, no longer any confidence in Greece.

POLISH UNREST GROWS UNDER GERMAN RULE

State Council's Resignation Ascribed to Objection to Sending Troops to Austria.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 30, (via London.)—While the Main Committee of the Reichstag is planning self-government for the occupied provinces of Lithuania and Courland, Polish autonomy is passing through a severe crisis.

The Provisional State Council at Warsaw, which has resigned in a body, has formed a committee to continue to perform the business of the State. Cracow papers say the resignation was due to an order by the Military Governor, General von Beseler, that the Polish corps of sharpshooters be separated from the Polish military organization and placed at the service of the Austrian Government. The State Council would not approve this and consequently resigned.

The trouble began when General Pilsudski, leader of the Polish Legion, asked for a seat in the State Council. The German authorities were rather inclined to welcome his co-operation for the stability of Polish affairs, but soon it developed, according to the Berlin view, that Pilsudski's Russian sympathies got the better of him and he was arrested on the eve of a flight to Russia, it was alleged, for which journey he had secured a forged passport.

Pilsudski was only one of the factors which caused the trouble. Much of the present condition, according to the opinion expressed here, is due to the Polish temperament, which gets impatient with German methods and cannot wait for a new order of affairs. Poland today represents very much the picture of dissension with which its history has abounded.

attention of the committee. Chief among them are: That the wheat yield in a great and important section of the country has this year been below the normal; that over against this situation is the crying need among the whole body of the population, especially the wage earners, that the rising tide of costs shall be stayed and reduced as rapidly as possible consistent with the welfare of the producer; that the Government is at the present time engaged in the great task of reducing and stabilizing costs of other staple commodities; that the wheat of the world is abundant for its needs, even disregarding the stores in Russia, but because of lack of shipping and war conditions the burden of supplying wheat to the Allies and to neutral nations rests for the time being on the United States and Canada.

Your committee has also considered the fact that the Government price for the 1917 wheat crop is, in effect, a continuing guarantee until the minimum price guaranteed by Congress for the crop of 1918 goes into effect, (July 1, 1918.) It has considered the relation of the 1918 minimum price guarantee to the price here recommended. It has also considered the effect which an early termination of the war would have upon the wheat markets of the world.

In reaching its conclusion the committee has been guided by the principles you have announced, that a fair price should be based upon the cost of production for the entire country, plus a reasonable profit. We have relied upon the cost estimates for the crop of 1917 furnished by the United States Department of Agriculture, checked by the results of our independent investigations and the evidence submitted to the committee by producers and their representatives.

The committee has considered the regulations recently established by the United States Food Administration Grain Corporation for the different grades of the wheat, through which all transactions in wheat are to be standardized and speculation to be entirely eliminated. Also that profits to the grain dealers, miller, and flour dealers have been regulated and reduced by the Grain Corporation, effecting a material reduction in the cost of flour.

In consideration of the foregoing facts and circumstances, this committee respectfully recommends that the price on No. 1 Northern Spring wheat, or its equivalent, at Chicago be $2.20 per bushel.

Respectfully submitted,

The Agreement Unanimous.

The Wheat Price Committee reached an agreement late this afternoon after several days of voting. At one time today it looked as if it would be unable to come to a conclusion, but just before 6 o'clock a compromise was reached, and the last vote was unanimous.

Representatives of the producers began by voting for a price of $2.50 and labor's representatives for $1.84. The two extremes eventually narrowed down until the votes were only a few cents apart and most of the day's voting showed only a slight difference. Both factions appeared uncompromising at the start.

The price fixed tonight is 20 cents higher than that named for the 1918 crop by Congress in the Food Control bill. The $2 price set by Congress was taken into consideration by the committee in considering a fair valuation for this year's crop.

All the members agreed in their discussions that the price fixed would permit of fourteen-ounce loaf of bread for 5 cents, allowing a fair profit both to the flour manufacturer and the baker.

The price differentials worked out by the food administration tonight are: Nos. 1 dark hard Winter, $2.24; hard Winter basic, $2.20; red Winter basic, $2.20; yellow hard Winter, $2.16; soft red Winter, $2.18; dark Northern Spring, $2.24; red Spring, $2.18; humpback, $2.10; amber durum, $2.24; durum basic, $2.20; red durum, $2.13; red walla, $2.13; hard white basic, $2.20; soft white, $2.18; white club, $2.16. No. 2 of each grade is 3 cents less, No. 3, 6 cents less, No. 4, 10 cents less.

Relative market basis: Chicago, Galveston, New Orleans, basic; Kansas City and Omaha 5 cents less than basic; Duluth and Minneapolis, 3 cents less; St. Louis 2 cents less; New York 10 cents more than basic; Baltimore and Philadelphia, 9 cents more; Buffalo 5 cents more.

At 5:30 o'clock this afternoon the committee members and Herbert Hoover left the Food Administration Building and went to the White House, carrying their reports. They had a short conference with the President, and then stated that no announcement would be made tonight, aside from what the President might see fit to present to the public.

Public to Benefit at Once.

The licensing machinery, under the provisions of the Food Control Bill, will go into effect on Saturday, and Mr. Hoover, it is understood, is prepared to start the work on the stroke of the clock. He is determined that the public shall benefit by the price fixing as well as the Government and its allies, and will keep the closest supervision over all branches of the industry.

The powers of the Food Administration as they affect wheat will be administered by the recently incorporated $50,000,000 grain corporation, which has the legal right to purchase the entire wheat output or any part of it and resell it if the situation confronted seems to demand that action.

Members of the Food Administration and Price Fixing Committee were of the opinion tonight that the price would be accepted with little complaint, although words of protest from some of the districts, such as North Dakota, may not be unexpected. It was the North Dakota branch of the industry which made the fight for a price of $3, hoping that a figure would be named, at least, somewhere in the neighborhood of $2.50.

MEANS $13 FOR FLOUR HERE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Fixing $2.20 a bushel as the price of No. 1 Northern Spring Wheat and limiting millers' profits to 25 cents a barrel means approximately $12.50 a barrel for flour at Chicago, or about 60 cents under today's prices. It means a price at New York, Boston, and Philadelphia of about $13 a barrel.

Today's Spring wheat was quoted at $13.10 a barrel, with new Spring and Winter wheat flours approximately $1 and $1.60, respectively, lower.

The market at today's close on No. 1 Northern Spring wheat was $2.38 to $2.45 a bushel, with No. 2 Northern Spring quoted at $2.30 to $2.40, No. 2 red at $2.20 and No. 2 hard wheat at $2.25 to $2.28. About 4½ bushels of wheat go to make up a barrel of flour weighing 196 pounds.

The announcement of the price fixing at Washington was preceded by promulgation of official regulations by J. F. Ball, Chairman of the United States Millers' Committee, fixing 25 cents as the maximum average profit on a barrel of flour and 50 cents a ton of feed. This was in accordance with an agreement entered into with Food Administrator Hoover by the Committee of Millers organized in Chicago last week. The new schedule of profits is to become effective on Saturday.

CUTS PRICE OF SUGAR.

Refiners of Cane Product Directed to Follow Beet Schedule.

Sugar refiners here have been requested by Food Administrator Hoover to sell cane refined sugar at about the same price as beet sugar, which is 7¼ cents a pound for granulated, beginning Oct. 1. This will mean a reduction in the bid prices for Cuban raw sugar to about 5 cents, cost and freight. At present granulated sugars here, based on Cuban raws at 6 cents, range from 8.40 to 8.50 cents.

2,000,000 CHEER GUARD ON PARADE

under Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt, which had the honor of heading the line. From Washington Square they marched westward to Eighth Avenue, and then to the Twenty-third Street ferry, where they crossed the river and entrained for Spartanburg. Although the other commands will not follow at once, and though fewer than two-thirds of what used to be the State guard were in line, the formal, even solemn, effect of the city's farewell to its own men was not marred.

They marched in service trim, these troops—their coats off and khaki shirts damp in the hot, muggy weather; some of the men wore blanket rolls, and the engineers, being about to leave, were burdened with the full military pack. Even though the artillery, cavalry, ambulance units, and trains were reserved to the end of the line after three brigades of infantry had marched past, the personal interest which the crowd felt in the various regiments counterbalanced this; and since at the head of each organization marched a man with a huge placard bearing its name, so that everybody might identify it, there was no trouble in picking out the particular organization that each spectator favored. There were many who grieved for the absence of the Sixty-ninth and the other regiments which have been assigned elsewhere; but the fact that they were New York's own men was enough to rouse the emotion which, while not manifested in wild outbursts of cheering, was obvious enough throughout the crowd.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the platoon of mounted police under Lieutenant Gumprecht, which had been assigned to lead the procession, swung into the avenue at 110th Street, followed by the police band of eighty pieces, in khaki.

Behind them rode General O'Ryan alone, followed at a short distance by the officers of his staff. The order in which the troops marched follows:

Division Headquarters, Major Gen. J. F. O'Ryan; Col. H. H. Bandholtz, Chief of Staff.
Division Headquarters Troop, Captain Davis T. Dunbar.
Twenty-second Engineers, Colonel Cornelius Vanderbilt.
Headquarters Third Brigade, Brig. Gen. James W. Lester.
Headquarters, First Brigade, Colonel Willard C. Fisk.
Seventh Infantry, Lieut. Col. Robert McLean.
Twelfth Infantry, Colonel Reginald L. Foster.
Fourteenth Infantry, Colonel James R. Howlet.
Headquarters, Second Brigade, Colonel William G. Bates.
First Infantry, Colonel James S. Boyer.
Twenty-third Infantry, Colonel Frank H. Norton.
Seventy-first Infantry, Lieut. Col. J. M. Hutchinson.
Provisional Brigade, Colonel Elmore F. Austin.

Second Field Hospital, Major Louis H. Gans.
Third Field Hospital, Major Arthur W. Slee.
Fourth Field Hospital, Major Frank Hamden.

Avenue Thronged.

All the western side of Fifth Avenue along the Central Park wall was lined with people, and the crowds on the other side of the avenue had overflowed on the stoops of the great houses boarded up for the Summer. In the windows of the clubs and apartment houses further down the avenue there were thousands of onlookers, as there were at the great hotels about the Plaza, where the crowd had seized upon the vantage point offered by the Pulitzer fountain and hung in clusters everywhere a higher position was offered.

Further on down the avenue both sides were lined with a dense mass of people, who overflowed into cross streets, while many thousands more looked down from windows. Seats in these windows, many of them, had sold for considerable prices, and some of the openings were crowded with as many people as could be jammed in. And this continued all the way down to Washington Square, where around the point of dispersal thousands from Greenwich Village, the Italian quarter, and the lower east side had gathered to get a view of the troops.

The throngs were thickest, however, around Forty-second Street. Just below were the two reviewing stands—the Mayor's, in front of the Public Library, and the Governor's, at the Union League Club; and around these two and around the crossing of Forty-second Street and the avenue the crowds were packed so densely that movement was almost impossible.

The 5,000 seats on the stand in front of the Library began to fill up at 9 o'clock, despite the predictions of persons who so far misjudged the celerity of the troops as to predict that the first marchers would not be there till nearly noon.

The color scheme in the stands was varied by the khaki of the army, the white Summer uniform of the navy, the brown of Great Britain, the horizon blue of France, and the blue coats and corded hats of the Grand Army of the Republic. There were almost as many women as men, and a good many children; and here, as everywhere along the line of march, special effort was made to accommodate the families of the guardsmen and give them places from which they could see everything.

Directly across the avenue from the Library, at Forty-first Street, acting Chief Inspector James J. Dillon, in charge of the 2,500 uniformed policemen, the 2,000 members of the Home Defense League, and the large body of plain-clothes men who were out to handle the crowds, had his headquarters, together with Inspector James S. Bolan, in command of the central part of the line; and from there, receiving reports by telephone and by occasional mounted courier, he directed the police activities all up and down the avenue. Police estimates put the number of people who saw the parade at two millions; whatever was the actual number, it was undeniably an enormous crowd.

Cheers for the Mayor.

At twenty minutes to 11 Mayor Mitchel drove down the avenue and was cheered all along the line as the crowds recognized him. He went to the Union League Club, and with the Governor viewed the first part of the parade from that vantage point. Meanwhile, a block of seats was held vacant for his party in the front of the stand before the Public Library; and Mrs. Mitchel and some friends, with leading members of the Mayor's committee, presently occupied some of them. Just behind them were a group of Red Cross nurses, who were warmly applauded when they drove up in an automobile.

The band from St. Malachy's Orphan Home kept the crowd about the Library interested in martial airs during the long period of waiting, and in the tense expectation which gradually developed most of the spectators found much to feed their curiosity in the marching here and there of detachments of Boy Scouts and the occasional passing of a few mounted policemen or cavalrymen. A shower fell shortly before the head of the parade appeared, and the umbrellas suddenly raised all over the stands roused caustic comment from persons in the back rows. But the umbrellas were lowered when the rain stopped, just about the time the mounted police were seen approaching far up the avenue.

All Rise for the Seventh.

Everybody stood up after that when the regimental colors passed, and nearly everybody stood up to look at and cheer General O'Ryan, Colonel Vanderbilt, Colonel Fisk, and other particularly popular officers. And everybody rose, too, as if by one accord, to greet the Seventh Regiment.

Behind General O'Ryan rode his staff, then the divisional headquarters troop, and after them came a motor truck into which, following the design of Major Edward Olmsted, had been built a headquarters office—an office on wheels, with tables, a typewriter, a mimeograph machine, filing cases, telephone instruments, electric lights, and all the equipment that a business man needs—all on a single motor truck. Then came the Twenty-second, with Colonel Vanderbilt riding at their head. His son, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., was attached to the divisional headquarters just ahead, and Mrs. Vanderbilt had watched the two marching past from her house at the Fifty-first Street corner.

The Twenty-second had many friends along the line of march, and the fact that they were going to leave at once added to their popularity. The throwing of roses began as they passed the buildings opposite the library. Many of them fell among the crowds on the sidewalks, but the friendly spectators picked them up and passed them on to the men on the flanks. The Twenty-second, as did the regiments that followed, marched in column of platoons, with its machine guns and baggage wagons bringing up the rear, and with them a huge automobile field kitchen, surmounted by a tall stack, which stirred a deal of curiosity and amusement in the crowd. The kitchen served uses, too, besides that for which it was designed, for two or three stragglers who became fagged in the damp heat were picked up and finished their journey upon its broad, flat top.

Behind the Twenty-second came General James W. Lester and the Third Brigade of Infantry, composed for the time of the Second and Third Regiments. These troops, as had the Twenty-second, split into columns of fours to get around the isle of safety at Forty-fourth and Forty-second Streets, and hurried to get into platoons again before they got to the reviewing stand, only to find that officialdom was still further down the street at the Union League Club.

Colonel Willard C. Fisk of the Seventh Regiment, commanding the Second Brigade, was received with a running fire of personal greeting all along the line, and the men of his old command, who headed the brigade, received the biggest ovation of any unit of the division. There were ceaseless shrill calls from lofty windows as spectators recognized friends in the marching line, and as the colors of the Seventh passed the reviewing stand a little white-clad boy of 3 or 4 years, lifted high in his mother's arms, stirred 10,000 people to sympathetic laughter in his loud screams of "Daddy! Daddy! Here I am—look at me!"

The five-minute halts that broke in on the parade were grateful to the troops; they stood at ease during the intervals, and not without some slight casualties from collision with the bayonets of comrades stooped down to pick up the gifts that were showered on them from above. A man who already had a rose would exchange another which he had caught out of the air for an orange which a comrade didn't want; and packages of cigarettes which were flung in profusion—one man, standing in a window of the Waldorf, showered hundreds of boxes upon the troops—were passed from one hand to another.

The marchers drank deep from their cloth-wrapped canteens, too, and then, with the stragglers who had fallen behind once more in their place, they shouldered their rifles and started away again at the word of command.

Recruits Without Uniforms.

Behind the Seventh came the Twelfth, and then the Fourteenth. At the very end of the Twelfth, behind the machine gun companies and just ahead of the train, marched perhaps a score of the very latest recruits—so recent that there were no uniforms and no arms for them. Unarmed, in civilian clothes, marshaled by a Sergeant, they strode along briskly and were received with more cheers than almost any other part of the division.

As the colors of the Fourteenth were passing the reviewing stand at the library, Governor Whitman and Mayor Mitchel, who had watched the first part of the parade from the Union League Club, and had left their position there during the halt a few minutes earlier, came into the stand and took their places opposite Forty-first Street. There was a burst of cheering as the crowd in the stand recognized the Governor and the Mayor, severe in silk hats and formal day dress, and then a louder outburst as the people saw, just behind them, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in a Palm Beach suit and Panama hat. The party went down to the front of the stand, and here the Governor and the Mayor stood side by side while the rest of the troops marched by. With them, besides Colonel Roosevelt, were Mrs. Whitman, Mrs. Mitchel, Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, commanding the Department of the East; Brig. Gen. Eli D. Hoyle, Major Gen. Daniel Appleton, Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, and a group of other army and navy officers and members of the Mayor's Committee.

The Second Brigade of Infantry, commanded by Colonel William G. Bates of the Seventy-first and comprising the First, Twenty-third, and Seventy-first Regiments, were the last of the infantry of the division. The three coast artillery commands—the Eighth, Ninth, and Thirteenth—had been formed into a provisional brigade of infantry under Colonel E. F. Austin for the occasion, and they, too, marched past. Then the crowd saw something new. This was the Second Battalion of the Second Field Artillery under Major Wilbur T. Wright, preceded by a Field Artillery Headquarters detachment under Major Leonard B. Smith.

The crowd cheered the three batteries of field guns which made up all the artillery forces which it had been found possible to include in the parade. The immaculate neatness of the equipment seemed to find favor, as did the smartness of the gunners sitting with folded arms. And then came a break. The cavalry of the division, through some slip in the transmission or interpretation of orders, had failed to come in on the heels of the artillery, and it was nearly half an hour before the procession was resumed. In the meantime the Governor, the Mayor, Colonel Roosevelt, and the rest of the party filed out of the grandstand into the avenue, marching down from Forty-second to Thirty-ninth Street amid cheers as voluminous as those that greeted the guardsmen.

They turned into the Union League Club, where General O'Ryan, having returned from Washington Square as soon as he had reached the end of the march, was reviewing the latter part of his command, and a buffet lunch was served.

Ovation for the Cavalry.

At last the cavalry appeared—the First Regiment, under Colonel Charles I. De Bevoise, followed by Squadron A, under Major William R. Wright. Some of the onlookers had grown weary by this time and had gone home, but the bulk of them were still there to raise a cheer for the city's crack troopers. Behind them came the machine-gun troop of cavalry, the military police, and miscellaneous trains, ending with a long line of ambulances, behind which rode another platoon of mounted police that closed the parade.

They were needed, these last policemen, for the crowds were sucked into the empty avenue behind the marching soldiers so promptly that they would have swarmed about the field hospitals if the police had not held them back. The same difficulty was met with at Washington Square, where the different units diverged to make their way back to their camps. As each regiment filed away through a street unprotected by the police line the crowds pushed forward and swept in around the men in their eagerness to follow them, so that progress at times was extremely difficult. But the showers which fell toward the end of the parade had helped to reduce the size of the throngs, and eventually the last ambulance passed under the arch, the last troops got out of the congested district without serious hindrance, and New York was left to go back to its normal pursuits.

The people had not seen quite everything in modern war; they had seen no heavy artillery, and only a fraction of the light artillery of the division; they had seen no airplanes, nor any of the other technical equipment which in these times does much of the work of fighting. But they had seen 25,000 well equipped and well drilled soldiers; they had seen specimens of the most modern types of field and machine guns, they had got some idea of the nature and extent of the impedimenta that an army carries with it; and, above all, they had seen their friends, their comrades, the troops of whom they had been proud for many years, dressed in their business clothes and marching away on the first lap of the journey to the battlefront. If there were any of yesterday's onlookers who had failed to realize fully that New York is in the war they realized it when they saw grim-faced soldiers marching with fixed bayonets on the road which thousands of other New Yorkers are soon to travel.

BAYONET 'SCRATCHES' THE ONLY ACCIDENTS

A Few Soldiers Overcome by Heat and Humidity—Surgeons Were Needed Mostly by Spectators.

Many of yesterday's marchers carried full equipment packs, and the leading companies of the various units had bayonets attached to rifles, an unusual martial display in New York streets, that was fully appreciated by the crowds. Yet these same bayonets inflicted wounds upon a score of soldiers and ripped the uniforms of many more of them. While most of those who were accidently jabbed remained in line and referred contemptuously to their hurts as "mere scratches," five of the bayonet victims dropped out for medical attention.

Joseph Burke, Second Infantry, Troy, was stabbed with a bayonet in the left shoulder, while taking position in line at 110th Street. He was attended by Dr. Vejoto at Harlem Hospital. G. Obertz, First Infantry, was stabbed in the left arm and was attended by Dr. Feldman of the Greenpoint Hospital. Roy B. Jefferson, Eight Coast Defense Command, was cut in the back during a halt at Forty-first Street. He was assisted to a Bellevue Hospital ambulance, where his wound was dressed.

Nearly all the mishaps were due to spectators throwing flowers and cigarettes to the marchers, who, in stooping to reach the gifts, allowed the bayonets to intrude upon the lines ahead.

Among the soldiers overcome by heat or illness during the parade were Harry Ford and Edward Gange, Company D, Third Infantry. Both men live at 55 West Albany Street, Oswego. Ford and Gange collapsed at the 116th Street subway station while their command was going to the assembling point. They are in Harlem Hospital suffering from acute gastritis. They will recover.

Emergency hospital and ambulance stations were placed at fifteen points along the avenue. The physicians were not called upon for any more serious accidents than the bayonet cases, but the heat and crowds produced fifty fainting women and prostrated men.

The police estimates of the crowds that witnessed the parade ranged from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000. At any rate, all who could get within the police lines packed Fifth Avenue its entire length and jammed the side streets, where all that could be seen were the hats of the paraders. The crowds everywhere were orderly, yet the crush was so great that the police were kept busy maintaining a clear road for the troops.

The bearing of the soldiers, who marched with serious faces, as befitted men about to engage in the hard business of war, was reflected in the demeanor of the throngs who watched them. There was enthusiasm, applause, cries of good wishes, of farewell; but the vast throng of citizen reviewers appeared to be thoughtful of what the parade signified as a step toward war, and their approval of men and organizations was of a reverent sort that went to the hearts of the marchers.

In upper Fifth Avenue the residents co-operated with the Mayor's Committee and permitted crowds to gather on steps and behind private yard railings. Some of the big houses opened their doors to relatives of the soldiers and permitted them to see the parade in comfort from wide windows.

Other relatives of the men had the street space reserved for them at Madison Square. Here women rushed frequently into the line to greet passing soldiers. It was a handclasp, sometimes a kiss for the man with the military pack, and the woman returning to the sidewalk with tear-dimmed eyes.

A humble pack-mule in the rear ranks of the First Cavalry forced a halt of the parade at Fourteenth Street, and caused amusement to soldiers and spectators. The avenue was slippery from the rain and oil drippings from automobiles and army trucks, and the mule, loaded with the parts of a machine gun didn't like it. He danced about for a moment as if he would like to go another way, then he skidded and fell, and brayed until a squad of men got him to his feet.

The American Women's League for Self-Defense had twenty-five automobile trucks loaded with orange juice, which they served to the marchers on the line of the march. Six additional trucks furnished refreshment to the men after dismissal of the commands at Washington Square.

FEAR NEGRO TROOPS IN SPARTANBURG

Citizens Make Protest When It Is Reported That Fifteenth Infantry Will Be Trained There.

POINT TO HOUSTON TROUBLE

War Department Denies That Negro Regiment Has Been Assigned to Spartanburg Camp.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WADSWORTH, SPARTANBURG, S. C., Aug. 30.—Following the receipt of a report that the Government intended to alter its original plan and include the Fifteenth Infantry, colored, in the troops to be trained at the camp here, the City of Spartanburg officially protested to the War Department against the sending of these troops, on the ground that trouble might result the Fifteenth refused to accept the limited liberties accorded to the city's colored population. Mayor J. F. Floyd, in his protest, called attention to the recent outbreak of negro troops at Houston, Texas.

That Colonel William B. Hayward's organization, one of the first of the city's regiments to reach its war strength, is unwelcome here is evident from the comments heard in the streets. The whites here are outspoken in their opposition to the plan and predict trouble if the War Department fails to heed the protest.

"I was sorry to learn that the Fifteenth Regiment has been ordered here," said Mayor Floyd tonight, "for, with their Northern ideas about race equality, they will probably expected to be treated like white men. I can say right here that they will not be treated as anything except negroes. We shall treat them exactly as we treat our resident negroes. This thing is like waving a red flag in the face of a bull, something that can't be done without trouble. We have asked Congressman Nicholls to request the War Department not to send the soldiers here. You remember the trouble a couple of weeks ago at Houston."

Chamber of Commerce Objects.

While the sentiment against the Fifteenth extended through all classes in the city, the opposition took form through the Chamber of Commerce, which put the matter before the Mayor.

"We asked for the camp for Spartanburg," said an official of the Chamber this afternoon, "but at that time we understood that no colored troops were to be sent down. It is a great mistake to send Northern negroes down here, for they do not understand our attitude. We wouldn't mind it if the Government sent us a regiment of Southern negroes; we understand them and they understand us. But with those Northern fellows it's different.

"I can tell you for certain that if any of those colored soldiers go in any of our soda stores and the like and ask to be served they'll be knocked down. Somebody will throw a bottle. We don't allow negroes to use the same glass that a white man may later have to drink out of. We have our customs down here, and we aren't going to alter them."

It was suggested that the Fifteenth might make an appeal on its own behalf to the military authorities at the camp. The reply was to the effect that it would be futile for the military authorities to attempt to regulate the customs of the country, and that the situation would simply have to be accepted. No attempt, it was said, would be made to alleviate things by the establishment of "Jim Crow" soda stores or restaurants, because there are already a number of such enterprises devoted exclusively to the negroes.

These shops, however, visited by newspaper men, proved to be almost without exception dingy and poorly stocked. It is believed that the soldiers will not be satisfied with these shops and will try to get something better.

In the event that the Fifteenth does come here, it is planned to send a committee of citizens to call upon Major Gen. O'Ryan and ask him to explain to the negro soldiers the difference between South Carolina and New York City. Then, if the Fifteenth is willing to accept the order of things, all will be well; if they chafe under the restriction, "the customs will be observed just the same."

Plans to Welcome Division.

As for the other members of the Twenty-seventh Division, Spartanburg and the big camp tonight are ready and waiting for them. It is figured here that about thirty hours will be required for the troop trains to reach here. At the camp the regimental camp sites have all been staked out, sanitary arrangements have been completed by a special detail of 107 men from the regular army Medical Service, and it is estimated that it will be possible to put three full brigades under canvas and thoroughly "settle" them within two hours after arrival. At camp headquarters the belief is that a much larger part of the division will be in camp by Monday night than was at first planned.

The 30,000 inhabitants of this city have been planning for weeks to welcome the New Yorkers, and with the report that several of the units would depart from New York tonight, the folks are having a hard time restraining themselves from going down to the railroad station and camping there so as to be sure to be on hand when the troop trains get in.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—It was denied at the War Department tonight that the Fifteenth Infantry Regiment of the New York National Guard had been assigned to the Spartanburg Camp. Officials declined to say where the regiment would be sent, but admitted that it had been assigned to a camp.

Colonel William Hayward, whose regiment the Fifteenth New York is the only negro regiment in the National Guard of this State, said last night that he had not received orders to proceed to Spartanburg.

AMERICAN SCHOONER SUNK.

U-Boat Destroys the Laura C. Anderson—Crew Reaches England.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The American schooner Laura C. Anderson was sunk by bombs from a submarine on Thursday. All the members of the crew were picked up and landed at an English port.

The Laura C. Anderson was a four-master of 960 tons gross. She was built in 1891 at Bath, Me., and was owned in Philadelphia.

IMPORTS LICENSED IN BRITAIN NOW

Food Controller to Take Over Entire Purchase of Bacon, Butter, Hams, and Lard.

AFFECTS AMERICAN GOODS

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The King today signed a proclamation prohibiting the importation of bacon, butter, hams, and lard except under license.

The object of this action is to enable the Government to take over the entire purchase of the import articles enumerated and concentrate the purchase in various countries into a single organization. The Food Ministry is establishing in the United States a single buying agency and will make all purchases through this agency beginning Sept. 3. All holders at the present time of cost, insurance, and freight and free on board contracts in bacon and lard with American shippers are required to furnish to the Food Ministry full information immediately.

Pending further arrangements, licenses will be granted certain importers of bacon, ham, and lard from other countries than the United States to continue imports. Consignments of Canadian bacon will be under the same restrictions as American goods. Imported in behalf of the Food Ministry, they will be distributed through the ordinary channels at fixed terms as to commission and profits, thus protecting the public.

A statement issued by the Food Ministry says:

"It should be borne in mind that importers' prices are mainly determined by the market prices ruling in foreign countries, over which the Food Controller has no control, and that they must be maintained at such a figure as to insure the regular shipment to this country of adequate supplies. Producers' prices also have been fixed for home-produced bacon, ham, and lard."

The Food Ministry is also fixing maximum prices limiting the profits on cheese and butter from Sept. 3.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 30.—Two thousand delegates from every part of the United States, in a great congress here today, made plans for the creation of a national political party for negroes. The leaders expect to get the approximated 1,165,000 colored voters to wield a great power in obtaining better conditions for their race.

Representatives, who are here from every State, say such an organization would make the negro a factor in elections with resultant recognition. Dr. S. L. Corrothers of Washington, D. C., was named President, and he will be the traveling organizer. Dr. R. C. Johnson will lead the movement in New York State.

HEAR THE VERDI WAS SUNK.

Six of the British Steamer's Crew Are Reported Lost.

Word was received here yesterday that the British steamship Verdi, of 7,120 tons, had been sunk and six members of the crew lost. A brief cable came to the agents of the steamer, referring to all of the crew being saved, with the exception of six, and the message indicated, it was said, that the vessel was sunk about five days ago. There were no further details.

The Verdi sailed from an Atlantic port on Aug. 12 and was bound for an English port. She carried a crew of 112, but no passengers.

SENATE VOTES ON TAX BILL SEPT. 10

lamity, engaged in this great war, and who hesitates to respond with his dollars, the man who wants special privileges nd exemptions from Congress at this time, so the burden of the war shall fall on others, is entitled to no place in this Republic, except one to bring on his head the condemnation and contempt of the people.

"Our great wealth is prepared today to meet a reasonable strain on its finances and to respond without injury to business. On the other hand, pyramiding war prices, increasing the cost of a man's daily bread every hour, and the fact that many of the food providers have been called to the flag make it difficult every day for the plain citizen of the United States who must toil for his living to raise the money with which to support the family he leaves at home. So every dollar of taxation levied upon consumption must fall, to a great extent, upon the family that is already in distress. I am not opposing the direct taxes in this bill, but I say we must bear these things in mind in imposing future schemes of taxes.

"I have no opposition to the Finance Committee's proposals for a tax on incomes, except that there are certain exemptions of great institutions of this country, and I shall vote against those when the time comes. I am not here to oppose levying a tax on war profits, for I favor it, but not the scheme worked out by the Finance Committee. It is the committee's method I oppose.

"This bill, as originally reported by the committee to the Senate, left out entirely a percentage basis of exemption, with the result that if a business was making no profits in the three years fixed by the committee as the pre-war period on which to base exemption, that business would be taxed under the higher rates; it would have no exemption. But if another business was making 100 per cent. during the pre-war period it would have 100 per cent. exemption before any taxation fell on it.

"That was manifestly unjust, and the committee itself, recognizing the injustice of that proposition, has tried to eliminate it by providing that the business that was making no profit should have as an exemption the average profits of concerns engaged in like business—a very doubtful, hazy proposition, the meaning of which no man can very well find out.

"The bill as presented by the committee is filled with twilight zones and dark places that are unascertainable and not understandable. I defy any Senator to take the Senate bill as reported here and definitely determine what it means. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to abstract from this bill its intricacies.

"The committee calls this a tax bill. Well, it is taxation, in a way, but its primary purpose is to exempt certain wealth from taxation. It would be a simple matter to reach all wealth along the lines of the income tax by merely multiplying the present rates by a fixed decimal number and bringing the ultimate equation to the amount of revenue desired. It's simple, very easy, to levy a tax that way, but it would be unfair to the great industries to levy it in that manner.

"I do not object to the proposal that certain wealth be exempted, but when there is an exemption it should be plainly set out, so all may understand what it means. Now, in this bill, as amended yesterday, the committee proposes that under its exemption no earnings under 6 per cent. shall be taxed and that the exemption shall end at 10 per cent. Why play favorites again? They yield to what I conceive to be a sentiment of the Senate to an extent, but why not yield to the main point?

"Under the bill as originally presented here one great corporation would have to pay a tax of nearly half its earnings and another would escape entirely. One big concern that had tremendous pre-war profits and big war profits might escape almost entirely from the tax, while another, with slight pre-war profits, but big war profits, would be penalized almost out of every dollar of profit.

"Now, under the bill as amended, the committee has adopted a system totally unknown to the finance of the world. It proposes to pyramid this exemption on percentages—not to levy the tax on percentages, but to pyramid the exemption. They do not say you are to have 8 per cent. exemption and then begin to pay 5 per cent. on so much of your earnings and 10 per cent. on so much more. No! They propose that the exemption rest on the earnings of the pre-war period, with certain limitations now put in the bill. Then they make their tax relate to the percentage of the exemption and the percentage of earnings. It seems to me that this bill is drafted on the principle of taking away from the man who hath not and giving to him that hath."

Exemption from taxation of dividends declared by banks and trust companies out of surplus and undivided profits accumulated or earned prior to March 1, 1913, was proposed in an amendment by Senator Pomerene. Another by Senator Ransdell would put a tax on cigarettes ranging from 2 cents on those retailed for not more than 5 cents to 50 per cent. on those sold at 25 cents or more.

Senator Hollis proposed to eliminate the provision lowering the minimum incomes to be taxed from $4,000 on incomes of married and $3,000 of unmarried persons to $2,000 and $1,000, respectively.

Senator Smoot, Republican member of the Finance Committee tomorrow will resume a speech opposing the Bankhead substitute. He is to be followed by Senator La Follette with a lengthy address in advocacy of much higher war profits taxation.

"Keep Kolynos in Your Kit"

Have you ever worked putting up a "comfy kit" for a soldier—placing in it tenderly one article after another, without the slightest idea of who, among the hundreds of thousands of men going to France, would receive it?

Have you asked yourself: "Which thing will he find the most useful—which will he thank me for most, as he unfolds the kit out there in the trenches?"

You have felt that the shoestrings will be exceedingly welcome—when one has been broken in his muddy shoes, and there is no stray string or thong about. Surely the absence of a shoestring can make one terribly uncomfortable!

But have you pictured to yourself the possible—and frequently probable—absence of a dentifrice? The air clouded with gun smoke and the gases of explosives being breathed into his throat—the parched mouth on the long march—the terrible throat strain of bursting shells—the discomfort of unclean teeth?

Surely, he will thank you most for the tube of Kolynos! It gives him assurance of having his teeth, mouth and throat in a sweet, cleanly, refreshed condition—correct sanitation at the very gateway of his being.

"Keep Kolynos in Your Kit" is a soldier's motto. Be sure that you place Kolynos in the kit you prepare for him.

COAL-SAVING PLAN ROUSES BERLINERS

LIGHTING SERVICE REDUCED

Churches, Museums, Movies, and Other Public Places to Go Unheated Next Winter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The German Government is conducting a great agitation for saving coal and all its products, including gas and electricity. There is, of course, plenty of coal in the German mines and great quantities await shipment to the centres of population, so that no actual dearth of coal exists. The reasons for the coal saving campaign are rather lack of labor and means of transportation. Even these are not very noticeable, but the Government, with its accustomed foresight and having received a lesson by last year's severe Winter, thinks it wise to save in time, so as to be provided when the cold days set in.

With the railways as well as other means of locomotion largely pressed into the service of the armies, and labor being so well paid at present that navvies for the handling of coal are not easily to be had, it is difficult even now for private individuals to accumulate stores for the Winter. Besides the Government will not tolerate hoardings of coal for the Winter by the wealthy when that would increase the price and decrease the possibility of providing the poor. So already we have had a census of coal hoarded by individuals as well as by factories and other like establishments, the idea being that if rationing of coal should prove necessary, rations shall be cut down in proportion to accumulated quantities.

The electric lighting of streets and public squares was reduced a few days ago to almost one-third while that of the railways and underground roads is only one-fifth of what it used to be. All public places, restaurants, cafés, theatres, &c., which used to be rather too glaringly resplendent at night, are now illuminated very discreetly.

But the saving of light didn't stop at the homes of the people. A committee of experts on gas and electricity in council with the Imperial Commissioner has decided that from now on no household shall be permitted to burn more than a certain percentage of last year's amount of electricity and coal. Sixty per cent. was the limit at first, but there was such a storm of indignation that the order was reconsidered.

The newspapers reported that the landlords intended to cut down the hot water supply to tenants, which in present conditions would mean a severe trial to the people, the quantity of soap being none too prolific anyway, and making it rather difficult to retain the usual standard of cleanliness. It was feared even that baths might be forbidden by the authorities and that the amount of hot water available for tea and coffee might be officially limited. The medical fraternity joined with the housewives in protest, with the result that the new rules have been postponed for a month.

Lately one hears only of a reduction of 10 per cent. in gas and electricity. Savings are now planned by refraining from heating public places, such as churches, museums, movies, meeting halls, &c., and also by compelling all stores and business places as well as factories, excepting munition works, to close early in the evening.

W. P. KNAPP DROWNED.

Wounds on Body at First Caused Suspicion of Murder.

Wallace P. Knapp, a lawyer of this city, who lived at the Hotel Nassau, Long Beach, recently attracted much attention by his daring swimming, and on Wednesday afternoon he is supposed to have gone out on one of his usual long trips. His body was found by a coast guard from the Point Lookout life-saving station yesterday. It was on the sand near the Lido golf links, about three miles from the hotel. The top of the bathing suit was missing and there were cuts on the body. This gave rise to rumors that Knapp had been murdered and the body carried to the place where it was found.

Chief of Police Pettit at first believed that a blow on the head was the cause of death, but Dr. W. Harold Runcie of Freeport said that water in the lungs indicated drowning and the wounds on the body were only superficial.

Mr. Knapp had been at the Nassau for a month. He was attended by a trained nurse, and it was said that he had suffered a nervous breakdown. Every day about 4 o'clock he went in bathing, and it was his custom to swim far out before leaving the water.

Lieutenant C. B. Miller, a brother-in-law, came from Plattsburg to Long Beach last evening and took charge of the body. The funeral will be from St. James, L. I. Mr. Knapp was 42 years old.

BENNET ATTACKS MITCHEL.

Compares Mayor with Tweed in Courthouse Enterprise.

William M. Bennet, who is contesting the Mayoralty nomination in the Republican primaries against Mayor Mitchel, opened his speaking campaign in Manhattan last night by addressing Republicans at the district clubhouse of the Fifteenth Assembly District, at Broadway and Eightieth Street. Most of the supporters of Mayor Mitchel, he said, were not Republicans, but Democrats who were grooming him as "a Democratic 'White Hope' for the Presidency in 1920." He attacked the Mayor for his attitude regarding the west side improvement and the purchase of Rockaway real estate by the city. He said:

"Mr. Tweed spent $11,000,000 and gave New York County a Court House. Mr. Mitchel has spent $13,000,000 and has given us no Court House. He has appointed a subservient Board of Education, in order to force upon the public schools a hybrid Gary system which is condemned by all who have any sympathy with the public school system."

Judson G. Wall, candidate for Controller on the Bennett ticket, and Frank D. Wilsey, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, also spoke.

Talk of Another Maximalist Rising.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30.—Another attempt at revolt by the Maximalist faction in Russia which will bring them into power is prophesied by M. Kirkoff, a Bulgarian Socialist, in an interview in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin. Kirkoff recently returned to Berlin from Stockholm, where he had been associated closely with the Russian Maximalists there. The signal for the revolt, he says, will be given from Kronstadt, which, as well as the Russian fleet in the Baltic, is under the influence of Nikolai Lenine and his adherents.

BLAME ALL BRITISH PARTIES

But Unionist Seceders Will Support Any Strong War Government.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The manifesto calling for recruits for a new national party "to promote reform, union, and defense," which was issued today, is signed by a small group of members of both houses of Parliament, who have hitherto belonged to the Unionist Party. Among them are Lord Ampthill, Earl Bathurst, A. H. Burgerine, Douglas Carnegie, Sir Richard Cooper, H. Page Croft, Viscount Duncannon, Lord Ebury, Lord Leith of Fyvie, Admiral Sir A. H. Markham, Lord Montague of Beaulieu, and Lord Stafford.

The purpose of the proposed new party is, in the words of The Morning Post, "to give effect to the universal demand for a constructive and consistent policy, founded on a democratic basis, which will give hope of an early, victorious and decisive termination of the war and provide the machinery for a peaceful process of reconstruction upon the conclusion of hostilities."

The manifesto says that the signatories have come to the conclusion that they can best assist the country in the present grave situation by severing their connection with the Unionist Party and by taking independent action, in which national considerations will be their sole concern. It proceeds:

"The Unionist, Liberal, and Labor parties are equally responsible in the coalition for delays in providing men, airplanes, and other mechanical needs, for failure to punish the incompetent, for permitting sectional interference in diplomacy, and for leaving the country in a state of uncertainty and discouragement as the result of vague statements in which the whole truth is rarely divulged.

FREE OF TAMMANY, HYLAN LEADER SAYS

"We Own Him, Body and Soul," Head of Business Men's League Asserts.

CANDIDATE KEEPS SILENT

Would Support Hearst if He Won at Primaries, Declares Joseph Yeska, Spokesman for the Judge.

A semi-official declaration of independence of Tammany Hall was forthcoming yesterday from the political headquarters of Judge John F. Hylan, designated as a candidate for the Mayoralty nomination in the Democratic primaries with Tammany's consent, if not with Tammany's approval.

The declaration came in reply to a question as to whether Judge Hylan expected to conduct a personal campaign or have a campaign conducted for him from Tammany Hall. The question was addressed to Judge Hylan himself, but was answered by Joseph Yeska, head of the Business Men's League, the organization that first placed the Judge in the field as a candidate for Mayor.

"We consider that we own Judge Hylan body and soul," said Mr. Yeska with the beatific smile of complete possession. "He is ours, for we saw him first, and then the Democratic Fusion Committee came in and indorsed him. So, you see, Judge Hylan is a business men's candidate running on a business men's platform. We hope and believe that we will have the support of the organization in the primaries, but if not —well, Judge Hylan will keep on being a Judge and we will still be business men doing business."

Judge Hylan does not intend to make a primary campaign even though the name of William R. Hearst should be placed on the Democratic primary ballot, above his own. That will occur unless Mr. Hearst, who is in California, should formally decline to become a candidate before midnight tomorrow. Of course, if Mr. Hearst should start an active fight for the nomination himself Judge Hylan may be compelled to make some sort of a campaign to keep up appearances.

"We are willing to leave it to the voters," said Mr. Yeska, with Judge Hylan listening attentively and in silence. "Whatever verdict the voters return we will abide by it. If Mr. Hearst wins, Judge Hylan will support him, and if Judge Hylan wins I have no doubt Mr. Hearst will give him loyal support in the campaign that follows the primaries. If a primary campaign should be found advisable by Judge Hylan it will be one, I am sure, that will leave no bitterness behind."

Tammany men said yesterday that Judge Hylan would have the loyal support of the organization in the primaries and after. There is no misgivings at the Hylan headquarters regarding the outcome of the primary fight, even if Mr. Hearst should get actively into it.

Judge Hylan was the guest of honor at a luncheon given yesterday at the Democratic Club by Nathan Hirsch, a manufacturer, who was mentioned as possible candidate for Controller in the preliminary conferences of the anti-Mitchel Fusionists. Charles L. Craig, the Democratic designee for Controller, and Alfred E. Smith, designee President of the Board of Aldermen in the Democratic primaries, and about fifty other guests attended the luncheon.

Samuel Untermyer, Thomas W. Churchill, County Clerk William F. Schneider, President John H. Riehle of the Democratic Club, Representative Thomas F. Smith, and Senator James A. Foley, from Murphy's district, were among those present at the luncheon.

THE LEADER.

The position of leadership which President Wilson has assumed among the Allies in dealing with the questions raised by the Pope's note is chiefly due to America's own position. Germany charges all the other Allies with evil motives, even including Belgium and Serbia, and is undeterred from her confident repetition of these brazen falsehoods by the obvious absurdity of them. But in the case of the United States she has been unable to invent anything plausible, for her unblushing assertion that we are going into the war to protect our investments is not to be so described; and if it were not only plausible but true, of course we should jump at the chance to protect them by making the kind of peace the Pope proposes, instead of putting our investments to further hazard by declining his proposal.

Therefore the one nation whose motives cannot be caricatured with any hope of impressing even the foolish has spoken for all the Allies. In putting his foot down upon the proposal to wage unnecessarily a "war after the war" against Germany, to punish her indefinitely by economic vengeance, the President speaks, of course, with the assent of our European comrades, but it is a fair conjecture that the subject of putting an end to that dangerous program was suggested by him and accepted by them. The language of the note shows clearly that it was no composite work, but proceeded entirely from his own hand. His views were no doubt communicated to them, but they have stood aloof from his presentation of them, and have left him in the position not only of spokesman but of leader.

Yet while this country is entitled to take pride in this position as one largely created by the country's own position in the war, it is not to be forgotten that it is chiefly due to President Wilson that she was placed in that position, that he is virtually its creator. Nor is it to be denied that the universal respect which is paid to him is paid not only to President Wilson as the embodiment of the United States, but to the man Woodrow Wilson, who has succeeded in impressing himself upon the imagination of the world not only as the incarnation of what America stands for, but as himself a man of natural leadership. That the position of America is so impregnable is greatly due to him. That patient endurance of German insults and outrages, those continually repeated and almost monotonous attempts to deal with the German governing clique as with gentlemen and men of honor, excited the derision of the hasty, but in the long run they made America's position absolutely unassailable. The man who appeared before Congress last April and asked for a declaration of war could not be charged with excitability, blood lust, desire of conquest, levity, or any blameworthy motive or impulse whatsoever. He allowed Germany to go so far that not even a fool could mistake her swaggering contempt of us and her evil ambition and her contempt of good faith, nor the patience and fairness of our own attitude. He allowed her to go so far that our motives were made as plain to the world as hers, so far that an unmilitary and reluctant country was welded into a solid whole behind him, so far that the unanimity of our support was matched only by the unanimity with which all the outside world came to understand and respect our intentions. This it was that gave him this position of leadership among the nations, even those which once saw in him a man afraid to fight, but which now see in him the patient man roused and the strong man thrice armed by the demonstrated righteousness of his cause.

OYSTERS.

The "r month" theory and practice of oysters were triumphantly refuted in the 20's and 30's by Mr. Snow, one of the indistinguishable twin oystermen of the Massachusetts Cambridge. President Felton of Harvard, an accomplished Grecian who devoured oysters with Rufus Choate and Dickens and Thackeray in the days of oyster bays and oyster saloons, when the oyster dripped with a Dickensesque sauce, loved to repeat the opinion of the indistinguishable twin Snow, and Mr. Lowell repeats it after him:

> When oysters are good, they air good; and when they ain't, they isn't.

This decision of Snow, Jr., comes to mind as Sept. 1 gets near. The oyster planters of the Eastern Coast raised prices last year, and they are going to raise them again on Sept. 1. Sixty-five cents to $1.25 a hundred for little stew oysters. If ancient jokes tell truth, it is not the number of the oysters in a stew that affects the price thereof. The other ingredients are at least high enough already. Frying is discouraged by the food controllers. Broiled, scalloped, steamed, in the luxurious biting cocktail, how will you have this old friend, reappearing? Raw he should be cheapest, but the doctors have frightened many amateurs. Whatever his price, he is another source of food, avoided by fanatics of the Summer; and the oystermen say that, even under the new tariff, he will be cheap and plenty.

If a man is what he eats, may all pacifists, anti-conscriptionists, soapbox orators and troublemakers, solitary or leagued, fill their midsts with this model of discretion and reticence!

SOLDIERS' INSURANCE.

The Soldiers and Sailors Insurance bill, which has been reported favorably to the House, has the great and solid merit of providing a substitute for the pension system. The abuses of that system have been notorious. Under it pensions have been too often treated as political favors. Neither the need nor the merit of the applicant, or of whole classes of beneficiaries, but the political interest of parties and Congressmen, has been the ruling consideration. The just obligation of the people to its defenders has been turned into a political obligation, and pensions have been made, in too large a measure, a part of the spoils.

The Pension Committees of the House and Senate are naturally averse to the proposed change, and the insurance companies tremble at its immense cost. No doubt, it may cost a great deal of money. The country is ready to pay for it. The cost of pensions for the men in this war, continually increased for and always subject to political motives, could be estimated by a mathematician of high imagination, familiar with the relation between pensions and votes. The Government is now paying some $160,000,000 a year for pensions. Apply the old system to the immense armies which we are raising, and the disbursements for pensions would reach an incredible figure.

The Government should be fair, just, and liberal to the soldiers and sailors and their dependents. It must be just to itself also. The Soldiers and Sailors Insurance bill seems to answer both requirements. It gives compensation for death or disability, provides a graduated scale of payment to dependents in proportion to number or degree of relationship, offers to officers and men optional insurance of from $1,000 to $5,000 during the war only, and insures educational and vocational training for honorably discharged soldiers and sailors.

Aside from the devotees of the old pension habit, the partisans of a supposed economy, and especially the insurance men, are perturbed. The optional insurance for the war only at the estimated rate of $8 per $1,000 alarms the insurance people. Without doubting their sincerity or disinterestedness, we do not share their alarm, even if it be true that some of the companies will not insure soldiers and sailors for seven times or more than the estimated Government rate. The Government is really insuring itself when it insures its defenders. It can afford to do it. It cannot afford not to do it. The tremendous, terrible machinery of contemporary warfare should not make us forget that the rate of mortality is not high. Let it be higher than the highest known, and still it will be cheaper for the Government to insure than to pay pensions.

The Soldiers and Sailors Insurance bill has been improved in committee. It may be improvable in details in the House. Its principles and structure are sound.

SUFFRAGISTS AT SARATOGA.

The campaign conference of the New York State Woman Suffrage Party at Saratoga is surcharged with a hope and an enthusiasm unintelligible to most of us, whose enthusiasm and hope are now given to the cause of free civilization. It seems a curious time for any communicable ardor about the "emancipation" of women, multitudes of whom prefer their present chains and slavery. To be sure, the suffragist women recite with pride their labors and activities for the country. They are to be praised and thanked for these, but have the anti-suffrage women been any less industrious, patriotic, and self-sacrificing? And what is the unilluminate mind to think of the suffrage theory of patriotic and public values as expounded by an illustrious emancipatrix, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw?

> You have been splendidly organized, and through that organization have been able to do unparalleled work for the nation since war came. But now, for the next two months, let me tell you that nothing you can possibly do for the Government will be equal in value to the work you do to carry this State for equal suffrage next November.

Are feminists, however charming, whose notion of public exigency and public duty is here so naïvely expressed, likely to enrich the electorate with wisdom?

The conference was not wholly fortunate in the contributions of its distinguished coadjutors. Governor Whitman spoke of "the right" to vote and compared the sophistries of the opponents of woman suffrage with those of Germany defending her misdeeds. Gracious tact is natural to the Governor, but even so acute an intelligence as Mayor Mitchel's was betrayed into this singular admission:

> Women have demonstrated, despite unfortunate instances, such as Miss Rankin's vote in Congress on the declaration of war, that they are no more a prey to mawkish sentiment and visionary sentimentality than men.

The expense of elections is to be doubled for the sake of adding to the electorate a class of voters no more foolish than men. That is not a flattering estimate of woman suffrage.

Even the great name of Mr. Wilson, and his just influence and the profound public regard for him, cannot make his letter to the suffragists have other than the effect of recalling the seditious persecution of him by the Extreme Left of the suffragists. He magnanimously pardoned one set of these disturbers. The scandalous show, dishonoring to its participants and offensive to the nation, has gone on. The Woman Suffrage Party of New York, the majority suffragists of the country, regret and repudiate those violences of the minority. They are not to be blamed for them or held responsible for them by right reason, but Mr. Wilson's letter cannot but revive, if the continuous folly of the picketers permitted it to sleep, the general disgust, not so much with woman suffrage as with woman suffrage making itself offensive or strident, in this time of all times.

The New York suffragists do well to disown the conduct of the extremists. What if so conspicuous a leader as Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt said, or is reported to have said, as the anti-suffragists tell us, in Cooper Union, in April, 1916:

> Has anything been achieved without pestering? The Barons pestered King John for Magna Charta. The revolutionists pestered King George for independence. We will continue to pester.

"Pestering" may not include "picketing," or Mrs. Catt may have grown more conservative. Be they conservative or radical, these women, whose earnestness and persistence and old skill in campaigning we all know, how do they expect to interest the people of New York in their "wrongs" or their "cause" in this year 1917? The State has other things to think of, life-and-death matters, cardinal, supreme.

THE PARADE.

The throngs along Fifth Avenue yesterday, from 110th Street southward to the Washington Arch, expressed, in their outbursts of enthusiasm and the unmistakable feeling of gravity they could not conceal, more than a farewell to the veterans and recruits of our National Guard, clad in the olive drab of modern warfare and accoutred for serious military business. They expressed the feeling of the united nation in this great hour of trial. They were speeding onward to the performance of their duty a comparatively small contingent of the armed American citizens who are to uphold with force the cause of justice on the European battlefields, but their cheers and their suppressed emotions were also for the whole American Army, that immense force of heroic men sworn to uphold the honor of this country in the conflict with injustice, an army partly formed and equipped, partly in readiness for the severest service, and partly in the process of formation, as the bulk of it, the million young citizens who represent a nation which has volunteered en masse, has not yet passed through the early stage of enrollment. Yesterday's splendid parade was symbolical of the aroused war spirit of the country, a spirit awakened not by thirst for conquest, not by envy or wrath, but by a grim determination to see justice and liberty established throughout the civilized world.

It was actually an army the spectators on the avenue saw. One who stationed himself at any point to see the whole parade remained at his post five hours, and before him filed officers of all ranks, men of all arms, infantry and cavalry, artillery, the engineers, the signal corps men, together with the medical corps and the ambulance and supply trains, and all actually ready, except in the case of a few new recruits placed in the line at the last moment, in equipment for war. One could not derive a better idea of an army of warriors on the march by trying to stand for fifty hours to see 250,000 men pass. This parade of 25,000 comprised all the military and auxiliary elements of a complete army except the armored motor cars and the air squadrons.

A thrilling, stirring sight! File upon file, hour after hour, of well-set, clear-eyed, determined men, some young and yet to be hardened in the training camps, others, and many of them, made fit already by experience to take up their final training in the fields and trenches behind the battle lines in France. They marched like men who know their destination and are eager to reach it, no hikers moving in a circle to get their muscles of locomotion in order. Martial music filled the air, as all music is martial when real soldiers keep step with it. The waving flags meant more than they have meant in many years. Probably to thousands in the throng of spectators the actuality of the war was manifested for the first time. These men are going. Hundreds of thousands will follow them. In looking upon yesterday's parade you could imagine yourself looking upon them all. Extend Fifth Avenue northward to Plattsburg, southward to the Carolinas and the Gulf, imagine intersecting streets stretching eastward and northeast to Maine, westward to San Francisco—the tramp of American soldiers fills them all. It is useless to compare this pageant with those of our past. We have never faced such a war as this, we have never had such an army as we now have in the making. Yesterday, therefore, was one of the most noteworthy days in New York's history.

THE SECOND-CLASS ZONES.

The Senate, having abandoned the ill-conceived plan to impose a special profits tax on all publications listed as second-class matter, has adopted an amendment to the War Revenue bill, proposed by Senator McKellar of Tennessee, establishing a zone system for second-class matter and a new system of rates ranging from 1 cent a pound for the first zone, under 300 miles, to 6 cents for the eighth zone, over 1,800 miles. Obviously, the adoption of this system as a means of increasing the revenues will work no injustice in the case of the magazines which circulate in large numbers all over the country. The magazine publisher can save himself from loss by a slight increase in the selling price of his publication, and the increase can be made so small that it will not perceptibly affect his circulation. In the case of the daily newspapers, however, the increase of governmental revenues would be small under the proposed plan, while the publishers would inevitably be subjected to losses.

Very few newspapers circulate extensively beyond the 300-mile zone. For the few copies, comparatively speaking, that go to distant points, the price of the newspaper cannot well be raised to meet the increase of rate. A newspaper sells at retail for one to three cents. Some of the more prosperous journals, to be sure, circulate far beyond the city of publication, but in diminishing numbers of copies as the distance increases. If the rates are raised according to Mr. McKellar's plan, the daily newspapers would have to raise their prices for the mail circulation from 50 to 100 per cent. This is out of the question, and in most cases the proposed increase of second-class postage on newspapers mailed to distant points would give no revenue at all to the country, as the distribution to those points would discontinue.

This is clearly not the idea of Senator McKellar, to cut off any source of revenue. As a matter of fact, the daily newspapers should not be classed under the law with the weekly and monthly publications selling for comparatively high prices. The daily newspapers are cheap and should be within the reach of all. They represent public opinion. Any restriction of their circulation will be a public deprivation. The opinions of certain papers are so eagerly looked for in all parts of the country that they are often telegraphed to distant points when a matter of great public importance is under consideration. The amendment affecting second-class matter should be further amended to separate the daily newspapers from other publications. They constitute a very small proportion of the bulk of mail matter beyond the 300-mile limit, the revenue gained by the increased cost of postage would be inconsiderable, and the Senate would serve its purpose better by fixing a fair rate which would not tend to diminish circulation.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

We Endure from Lack of Courage.

A writer in Newspaperdom—a periodical which, in spite of its name, has been suspected of devoting most of its attention to the advertising end of journalism—makes against the hat check evil as it exists in hotels and restaurants all over the country a protest not the less passionately sincere because it is humorously worded. And the vehemence of his plea for the abolition of this particularly abominable form of unmitigated and inexcusable extortion is no greater than the subject deserves.

He has figured out, it seems, that though he pays only $3 for his hats, it costs him $73 a year to have them protected and stored while he takes his meals. As that sum is reached by assuming as necessary the payment of two tips of 10 cents each, every day in the year, to the guardians of his hats, the writer of the article must be one of the unfortunates who have to eat constantly at public tables. Not many people are as heavily punished for their sins as to be under that stern compulsion, but even in the course of moderate traveling and outside dining, one is forced to spend, or at any rate one does spend, several times the cost of his hat in paying for a sort of protection which innkeepers after their several orders are by law as well as by common sense under obligation to furnish free.

And the bestower of this always reluctant largess is a notably unsophisticated person if he thinks that it goes to the young man or maid who collects the coin. Neither the one nor the other receives more than a minute weekly salary, paid by the corporation that employs him or her. All the rest, and by far the larger amount of the total hat check receipts, is divided between that corporation and the proprietors of the hotels and restaurants, who farm out this most obnoxious "privilege."

But to scold these invisible beneficiaries of the miserable system—miserable because it combines in about equal proportions beggary and blackmail—is a waste of time. The thing pays. Therefore it will continue just as long as the public meekly submits to thinly veiled robbery. And that, seemingly, will be forever. At any rate, no movements of revolt have yet been made, except by a few brave souls who can stand the charge of "meanness," whispered or looked by creatures whom they despise.

A Thousand Miles in Ten Hours.

War continues to bring out new possibilities residing in that marvelous American invention, the airplane. To write more accurately, it continues to increase the possibilities already known to be possessed by that machine. As reported yesterday, Captain Giulio Laureami, an aviator in the Italian Army, made this week a continuous flight from Turin to Naples and back to Turin again. Precisely how long his journey was cannot be known, but it must have been more than 920 miles, which is the distance he would have traversed had he gone in a straight line both ways. The time used in making the journey was 10 hours 33 minutes, and the speed therefore can safely be put at about 100 miles an hour, and probably it was something more.

The achievement earns equal credit for the aviator and for his engine, for the wear and strain on both were such as could be met only by a close approach to perfection. It is not to be believed that such exploits will cease with the end of the war. Peace, too, has its needs for rapid transportation of passengers and mail—not such desperate needs as those of war, indeed, but sufficiently pressing to make it worth while to pay well for them.

An aviator able to carry 1,000 pounds of dead weight besides the live weight of himself—and that is within the present limit of capacity for airplanes—would have no difficulty getting a full load several times a week, if not every day, of letters for the carrying of which between New York and Chicago, for instance, postage of 10 cents an ounce would not be considered too much, if the letters were delivered within ten hours of departure from one or the other city. That would pay the incidental expense of man and machine, and leave a good profit besides.

We do not feel much need for such a service—we get along well enough without it—but that proves no more than did our like freedom from a sense of want before the telephone came into existence and use. Now, life without a telephone would seem next to impossible for no small part of the American population, and certainly we should miss it enormously and cruelly if it were taken from us.

Medical Students Exempted.

"Where there's a will there's a way" shares with other proverbs the peculiarity of not being always and fully true, but it also shares with most of them the other peculiarity of having enough veracity to justify the popular belief in their credibility. And the large element of truth in this particular proverb is illustrated by the fact that as soon as the military authorities in Washington really tried to meet the widespread demand that medical students be exempted from army service until after they had completed their studies and become far more useful to their country, potentially, than they would be as soldiers in the ranks, the needed way to grant this simple and reasonable demand was promptly found.

Congress did not even have to change the law. A departmental order changing the regulations as to the law's enforcement sufficed. Medical students and hospital internes of more than one year standing are to enlist in the Reserve Corps and then be discharged to continue study or practice as civilians for the time being. It is the expedient of discharge, evidently, that solves the difficulty that was raised as to paying a government salary to men not rendering government service.

The limiting of this special exemption to men who have already studied medicine for a year is entirely proper, as it shuts the doors of the medical school and the hospital to those who might endeavor to enter them merely to avoid the dangers of war. So the new ruling helps neither the pacifists nor the pro-Germans, and that's as it ought to be.

COLLAR HYGIENE IN ARMY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondents have called attention to the discomfort which the American soldier is forced to undergo on account of the high and tight collar of his uniform. But the discomfort of it—bad as that is—is a small matter in comparison with its unhygienic character.

We know now more definitely than ever before the enormous importance, for the preservation of health, of keeping the functioning of the skin at its highest possible point of efficiency. Invalids are now sent South in the Winter not for the sake of a balmy air to breathe, but in order that, the body not being swathed in heavy warm clothing, the skin can be kept in its most active possible condition.

Clothing that is loose, as porous as possible, and no heavier than warmth demands is indispensable to good health. To force the poor soldier, who will need, in the trenches, all his powers of endurance, to wear clothing so tight in the neck that there is no inflow of air to the skin of the body is to give him a not inconsiderable, and a wholly unnecessary, handicap.

It has been stated in the dispatches from Washington that this matter of clothing loose at the neck, (such as is worn by the English soldier,) is to be taken up at once by the War Department. Certainly no time should be lost in making this change, so far as the uniforms yet to be made are concerned.

The foolish way that men who are not soldiers have of sticking to their high, tight collars, as well as their woolen clothing, throughout the heat of the American Summer, since there is no official regulation of the matter, can only be an instance of the unreasoning character of the human mind.

THE DARK BEFORE THE DAWN IN WAR.

Depression in the North in 1864 Cited as Illustrating the Unwisdom of Accepting Present Conditions in Europe as a Stalemate.

By HENRY S. BURRAGE,
State Historian of Maine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial of Aug. 27 entitled "Dr. Eliot's Plan," you have done a good service to the country in calling attention to conditions in the third year of the civil war. It furnishes a much-needed lesson for many well-meaning persons who have become more or less depressed with reference to the outcome of the present European war.

The darkest period in our civil war was in the Summer of 1864. Two things contributed to cloud the hearts and minds of many of the people of the North at that time. Dissatisfaction with President Lincoln was one thing. Opposition to his re-election by prominent Republican Senators developed early in that year.

In February a secret circular made its appearance in the interest of this movement. It soon got into the newspapers. Prominent among the Senators who wished to have a change in the Presidency were Benjamin F. Wade, James W. Grimes, and Henry Winter Davis.

Early in the year the depression in the country was not strongly marked, but it was increased as the efforts of the opposition continued. On Aug. 14 a meeting was held at the house of David Dudley Field in New York City, at which Horace Greeley, Parke Godwin, Henry Winter Davis, and twenty or more others were present; and as a result of their conference a committee was appointed to request Mr. Lincoln to withdraw as a candidate. Even Charles Sumner, it is said, shared in the opinion these men held as to Mr. Lincoln's "limitations," and thought a change of candidate desirable, "but only with Mr. Lincoln's free and voluntary withdrawal." The same position was taken by Senator Collamer and the Hon. John Jay.

A week later Thurlow Weed, in a letter, wrote: "When, ten days since, I wrote to Mr. Lincoln that his re-election was an impossibility, I also told him that the information would soon come to him through other channels. It has doubtless ere this reached him. At any rate, nobody here doubts it, nor do I see anybody from other States who authorizes the slightest hope of success. Mr. Raymond, [editor of The New York Times,] who has just left me, says that unless some prompt and bold step be now taken, all is lost. The people are wild for peace."

Evidently Thurlow Weed's emphatic way of declaring the impossibility of the President's re-election, together with the "information" that doubtless soon reached the White House "through other channels," made the designed impression. Indeed, on the very day in which Mr. Weed wrote to Mr. Seward, the President penned the following memorandum:

"This morning, as for some days past, it seems exceedingly probable that this Administration will not be re-elected. Then it will be my duty to so co-operate with the President-elect as to save the Union between the election and the inauguration, as he will have secured his election on such ground that he cannot possibly save it afterward."

The depression in Democratic ranks found expression in the nomination of General McClellan on a platform designating as a "failure" the attempt "to restore the Union by the experiment of war."

This depression in the North, occasioned by political conditions, was very much deepened by military conditions. I was wounded at the battle of Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864. When, with the wounded, I was moved to White House Landing, where we were transferred to steamers which were to take us to Washington, as the ambulances stopped a member of the Christian Commission, a clergyman, whom I had known as a fellow-student in college, came to the ambulances to assist in removing the wounded. He secured for me needed assistance, and, as the surgeon was attending to my wound, he said: "We are never going to beat those fellows."

He had been in the rear of three great battles, had been impressed by our great losses and also by the pessimistic reports of army followers. I assured him that there was no such feeling in the army, which had unshaken confidence in General Grant and his ability to bring the war to a successful end sooner or later. I told him I hoped I should have opportunity to remind him after the war of his low state of mind at that time. But following the lack of success at Cold Harbor came the failure of Grant to take Petersburg on the advance of the army against that place, and the mine failure at the close of July. The depression evidently had deepened throughout the country.

The South, meanwhile, had not been a disinterested spectator at the progress of political dissatisfaction at the North. The importance of the growing opposition to the re-election of Mr. Lincoln had been clearly recognized by the leaders of the Confederacy, who believed that Lincoln's defeat would be followed by peace. Hon. Benjamin H. Hill, Senator from Georgia in the Confederate Congress, writing to Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, expressed such belief, and added:

"I think, therefore, that policy, as well as necessity, indicates that we should now make a direct appeal to the people of the United States against Lincoln and his policy and his party, and make them join issue at the polls in November—we shaping that issue."

Such men regarded with satisfaction the efforts of Northern peacemakers with reference to the Presidency. The Charleston Courier of Sept. 7 giving expression to this general feeling in the South in the following words:

"All of us perceive the intimate connection existing between the armies of the Confederacy and the peace men in the United States. These constitute two immense forces that are working together for the procurement of peace."

The actual situation, from a Southern point of view, could not have been more accurately described.

But Lincoln was renominated. The day following that on which Thurlow Weed wrote to Mr. Seward stating that he had told the President he could not be re-elected, Mobile surrendered. A few days later Sherman captured Atlanta. The first of Sheridan's brilliant victories over Early in the Shenandoah Valley was won on Sept. 19, and the nation was thrilled by the victor's report, "We have sent them whirling through Winchester."

On Sept. 20 Thurlow Weed wrote to Mr. Seward, announcing the collapse of "the conspiracy against Mr. Lincoln." Sept. 23, at Fisher's Hill, Sheridan again defeated Early, capturing sixty cannon and 1,000 prisoners. But most thrilling of all in this valley campaign was the announcement of the great victory at Cedar Creek on Oct. 19, when, hurrying from Winchester after a short visit in Washington, Sheridan arrived in season to turn defeat into a crowning victory—an announcement that awakened contagious enthusiasm throughout the North, and forever silenced the voices of those who had declared the war a failure.

In fact, before the close of September, Lincoln's doubts as to his re-election had fled. The September elections in Maine and Vermont were interpreted as prophetic of coming victory. The October elections of the great States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana emphasized the significance of the September elections.

If there were those who still looked forward with grave apprehensions to Nov. 8—as there were—the President was not one of them. When Hon. E. B. Washburn of Illinois, one of Mr. Lincoln's strong supporters, wrote to him on Oct. 17, "It is no use to deceive ourselves. * * * There is imminent danger of our losing the State," Mr. Lincoln wrote on the envelope, "Stampeded." Mr. Lincoln's victory was complete, the President receiving 212 electoral votes, while only 22, those of New Jersey, Maryland, and Kentucky, went to McClellan.

From that time the Confederacy began to crumble rapidly. The men in Lee's army began to desert in larger numbers as the months went by, and the remnant of the veterans who so stoutly withheld us at Cold Harbor numbered at Appomattox only about eighteen thousand!

There can be only one righteous end to the great world war, and peace will come when those who brought it on, and have waged it with such barbaric methods, are ready to lay down their arms and agree to conditions that shall make all further efforts for world dominion impossible.

Objects to the Term "Conscripts."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The word "conscript" should not be used, because it is un-American, unwise, representative of servitude rather than service, makes class distinction, and tends to create discontent and bitterness.

The American is drafted into service, not conscripted into servitude, which latter is the Prussian method. The war came so suddenly we did not have time to coax an army together, so we had to draw one together, and before the war is ended we may see a drafted American leading a volunteer contingent into action.

We must remember that all Americans do not catch on to facts and conditions alike, and among us there is bound to be difference in degree as to education, intelligence, and opinion, but that is no reason why we should not all be equal as Americans. So it is no real reflection that some did not enter the service until drafted into it. They will fight just as hard, and it is not fair to call them "conscripts." YANKEE.

Demands Unconditional Surrender.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

President Wilson cuts short all discussion of the Allies' terms to Germany. In substance, he repeats Mr. Balfour's alternative, lately quoted in The Times: Germany powerless or Germany free. Germany powerless means the surrender of the German Government to the Allies; Germany free means the surrender of the German Government to its own people.

Proposals as to annexations, indemnities, reparations, restitutions, restorations, fall into their proper and secondary place. They are not terms for consideration by Germany, but subjects for discussion among the Allies. If and when free, the German people would have their share in the debate.

Wilson as Spokesman for the Allies.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

President Wilson's answer to the Pope's missive admirably defines the American position in regard to peace.

Particularist answers from each of the Allies would invite the German Government to compare all the texts and falsely to magnify to the German people verbal, if not substantial, differences in phrasing as revealing a serious conflict in aims.

Surely none of our allies rejects the general spirit of our answer. Why, then, will not each seize the opportunity to convince the German people of the real and steadfast solidarity of the great alliance by sending identical answers shortly, confirming the American note?

Dumping Sand on Riverside Drive.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The deplorable condition of the sidewalks on Riverside Drive, at least that portion of it extending from 143d Street to 181st Street, leads me to ask space in your columns for this protest, which each succeeding year makes more imperative.

Below 157th Street the sidewalks of the Drive need only some pretense at being kept reasonably clean by means of occasional sweeping. Above 157th Street the case is far worse.

Not only is a street sweeper of any description never to be seen on any part of this section of Riverside Drive, except that contiguous to Fort Washington Park, unless there be a snow plow after an unusually heavy fall of snow, but it is the annual custom in the Autumn of the Department of Roads, when the main roadbed is to be repaired, to dump cartloads of sandy gravel upon the sidewalk. Heretofore, these mounds of gravel have been placed toward the outer edge of the sidewalk and, though objectionable enough in any case, have allowed at least some passage way for pedestrians.

This year, through a refinement of contempt, they have been dumped squarely over the strip of flagging and, spreading out on both sides, allow no clear passage way. One must wade ankle deep through the gritty, sandy mixture. By the time this has been done by many pedestrians through many days, the gravel is distributed over the pavement for its entire length. Since, as before said, no broom ever touches this sidewalk, the flagging remains a detestable, gritty place for months, to the detriment alike of one's patience and shoe leather.

Is it too much to expect that some intelligent supervision by the proper departments should be brought to bear in this matter? ROBERT ADGER BOWEN.

Senator Brown Advises Food Study.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called of late to the food problem and the literature upon the subject. I have been impressed with the need of a study of the subject by a much larger number of our people as a means of getting the best solution.

We are only at the threshold, but a considerable body of literature has sprung up as a result of the experience of France and England. I find in conversing with Americans that they are mostly without a point of beginning, and would suggest a reference to the following thoughtful articles upon different branches of the question:

Rural Prosperity of France and Agricultural Co-operation in Germany, in the April Quarterly Review.

The French Solution of the Bread Problem, in the May Nineteenth Century.

The Fundamentals of the Food Policy, in the July Edinburgh Review.

An article on prices in the July Quarterly Review.

SENATE PAYS HONOR TO JAPAN'S ENVOYS

JAPAN IN THE WAR TO STAY

Because "Only by a Complete Victory Can There Be Made a Permanent Peace."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Japan's mission, headed by Viscount Ishii, was received today by the Senate at a ceremony in which Senator Saulsbury, President pro tem., welcomed the visitors in the absence of Vice President Marshall, and Viscount Ishii made an address bearing a message of friendship and good-will between the nations.

Applause by Senators and spectators frequently interrupted Viscount Ishii as he read his address in English, and prolonged applause followed his statement that Japan declared war upon Germany because a solemn treaty was not to be considered "a scrap of paper" by Japan.

The visitors were received with great ceremony. They entered the main door and were escorted down the centre aisle while the entire audience arose. The audience also arose before and after Viscount Ishii's address, and as the mission left the Chamber after shaking hands with Senators and representatives.

After having assured his hearers that the whole Japanese people appreciated America's entrance "into the struggle against the insane despoiler of our civilization," and paying tribute to the American ideal as proclaimed by Jefferson, Viscount Ishii said:

"I assure you, gentlemen, that the Japanese ideal of national life is, in its final analysis, not so very far removed from yours. We conceive of our nation as a vast family held together, not by the arbitrary force of armed men, but by the force of a natural development. We shall call the common force that animates us a passion of loyalty to our Emperor and to our homes, as we shall call that of Americans a passion for liberty and of loyalty to their flag.

"These two passions—passion of loyalty and passion for liberty—are they not really one? Is not the same control working in both cases—the intense desire to be true to our innermost selves and to the highest and best that has been revealed to us? You must be free to be Americans, and we must be free to be Japanese. But our common enemy is not content with this freedom for the nation or for the individual; he must force all the world to be German, too! You had hoped against hope that this was not so, but that noble hope fled and your admirable patience was exhausted. You did not then hesitate to face the issue and the foe, as you are facing it, with that great American spirit which has loved and still loves liberty, which loves the right more than peace and honor more than life.

"We of Japan took up arms against Germany because a solemn treaty was not to us 'a scrap of paper.' We did not enter into this war because we had any selfish interest to promote or any ill-conceived ambition to gratify. We are in the war, insist on being in it, and we shall stay in it, because earnestly, as a nation and as individuals, we believe in the righteousness of the cause for which we stand, because we believe that only by a complete victory for that cause can there be made a righteous, honorable, and permanent peace, so that this world may be made safe for all men to live in and so that all nations may work out their destinies untrammeled by fear.

"Mr. President and gentlemen, whatever the critic half-informed or the hired slanderer may say against us, in forming your judgment of Japan, we ask you only to use those splendid abilities that guide this great nation. The criminal plotter against our good neighborhood takes advantage of the fact that, at this time of the world's crisis, many things must of necessity remain untold and unrecorded in the daily newspapers; but we are satisfied that we are doing our best. In this tremendous work, as we move together, shoulder to shoulder, to a certain victory, America and Japan must have many things in which the one can help the other. We have much in common and much to do in concert. That is the reason I have been sent, and that is the reason you have received me here today.

"I have an earnest and abiding faith that this association of ours, this proving of ourselves in the highest, most sacred, and most trying of human activities, the armed vindication of right and justice, must bring us to a still closer concord and a deeper confidence one in the other, sealing for all time the bonds of cordial friendship between our two nations."

In presenting the Viscount, Senator Saulsbury said that the occasion symbolized the "complete international fraternity which common consciousness of international honor has brought about."

Referring to German propaganda Senator Saulsbury said evil attempts had been made to breed distrust and hatred among friends of the United States.

"Japan," he continued, "joins our great young nation in pledging anew a continuance of our old friendship which the troublemakers of the earth have tried so hard to interrupt.

"We now know how industriously insidious attempts have been made by the Prussian masters of the German people to bring about distrust and hatred in the world. The yellow peril was made in Germany, and Shantung was seized; the Slav peril was made in Germany, and Serbia was overwhelmed and Russia was invaded; but the thick-witted, smug, self-centred supermen of Germany, entering their last attempt at conquest, have roused a real peril—a real peril to themselves—and the free nations who believe in international honor, in the binding force of treaties, and in the pledged word are grimly, though so sorrowfully, engaged in creating, perfecting and bringing to successful issue an alliance for the benefit of all earth's people, which will protect the rights of nations, small and great, and enable them to lead their lives in peace, and lead them unafraid."

LEAGUE REGRETS CHARGES.

Accepts Report and Withdraws Accusations on Mare Island Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—In a statement today the Navy League announced its acceptance of the report of the Naval Board on the Mare Island explosion and expresses regret that in a former statement it gave currency to an opinion that the investigation was being hampered by the Navy Department under the influence of powerful labor interests. The statement in question led to the bitter controversy between the league and Secretary Daniels.

The league also expresses regrets that in referring to labor influence it did not make it clear that it was not speaking of the standard labor unions, but of "the Germanized I. W. W."

Today's statement, which is issued with the approval of Colonel Robert M. Thompson, President of the league, says the organization is convinced that there were no "hampering instructions or restrictive direction as to the method of investigation."

While the Navy Department was investigating the explosion which killed five and injured more than thirty in July, the league issued a statement asserting that a reliable informant had told it that a time fuse leading to the black powder magazine had been found, but that the investigation was being blocked by powerful labor influences.

This charge was the occasion of a bitter controversy with Secretary Daniels, who at once cut all navy connections with the Navy League, ordered all of its members excluded from naval ships or stations, and refused to accept for the navy contributions of comforts being made for seamen by thousands of women throughout the country.

The official report of the Mare Island disaster, made public a little later, confirmed the report that a time fuse had been found, and charged a criminal conspiracy by persons unknown, but denied that the investigators worked under any restrictions.

The league's acknowledgment and expression of regrets is expected to lead to a resumption of relations with the navy.

WEST POINT CLASS OF 1918 GRADUATED

For Second Time in Its History Academy Has Held Two Commencements in a Year.

YIELDS 152 NEW OFFICERS

C. C. Courture of New York Leads Class—Baker Gives Them a Heart-to-Heart Talk.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 30.—For the second time in more than a century the United States Military Academy has graduated two classes within a year. The first time was in 1861, at the outset of the civil war, when the class of '62 was graduated nearly a year ahead of time, and today the class of '18, which under normal conditions would have been commissioned next June, was hurried into the line of the regular army to do its part, as the Secretary of War said, "in the great emergency."

Secretary Baker came to West Point this morning to preside for a second time in less than four months at a graduation. The Secretary gave the 152 young officers a heart-to-heart talk, and he did not mince words in picturing to them the stern duties that lay ahead of them, duties which he made plain might require the sacrifices of their lives for the honor of their country.

"The great thing today which gives strength and courage to America," said Secretary Baker, "is not that we hate our enemy, but rather that we deeply love our cause."

Secretary Baker, accompanied by Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Chief of the General Staff, arrived at West Point at 10 o'clock. At the station he was greeted by Colonel Samuel E. Tillman, the Superintendent, and Lieut. Col. Guy Henry, the Commandant of Cadets. A troop of cavalry acted as the escort to the Plain.

No Salute Fired.

As the Secretary's automobile came up over the hill there was no military saluting squad on duty, and for the first time in history the arrival of a Secretary of War was not signaled by the firing of the customary salute of seventeen guns. Until the war ends no more salutes will be fired at American military posts.

Immediately following the arrival of the Secretary of War the Corps of Cadets was paraded in his honor. For the last time the men of the class, which was that of 1918, exercised command over their brother cadets. A great crowd witnessed the splendid picture the 800 cadets made as in perfect alignment they swept past Secretary Baker. It was all over in less than fifteen minutes, and then came the ceremonies.

The exercises began with a prayer by the Rev. H. P. Silver, the West Point Chaplain, who besought of the Almighty victory "in this war against tyranny and oppression."

"This is an occasion the like of which," said Colonel Tillman in presenting the Secretary of War, "but once before has been witnessed at West Point. Each year in a century of West Point history, except the years 1861 and 1917, there has never been but one class sent into the army from West Point. In 1861 the course at West Point was five years, and the class which West Point today gives to the country has been graduated after a shorter period at West Point than any other class in one hundred years. Today our country faces a great trial, and you young men are graduated in order that you may do your part in accomplishing what we wish, what our allies expect, and what the President has so nobly expressed in the last two days. I present the Secretary of War."

"Only the greatest of emergencies could justify this procedure," said Secretary Baker. "The President in his recent reply to his Holiness the Pope remarked that the Central Empires are today at war with four-fifths of the civilized people of this world. The autocratic rulers of the Central Powers started this war in the hope and belief that it would be possible to reshackle and rechain the liberated peoples of other lands. For decades the people of those Central Pawesr had been taught to believe that the will of the Prince is the highest law and that men were born into this world with no inherent rights except those of the State."

Fight for Human Rights.

"Now and then," added Secretary Baker, "one hears the question asked, 'Do the American people understand what this war is about?' I have absolutely no misgivings on this subject," the Secretary said, "and the heart of America is right on this point, for it knows that when there is a fight for human rights on hand, America's place is in that fight and at the front. We wage this war in that spirit. There is none of that personal hatred which characterized the struggles of other centuries. Our strength and our courage is not that we hate our enemies, but rather that we deeply love our cause. And we shall triumph.

"When you go into the great army now about to be organized," said Secretary Baker, "I want to ask you to remember that every one of the enlisted men intrusted to your care is somebody's son, and that every one of them is a soldier of your country and his. Do your part to make ours a disciplined but a democratic army; a clean thinking, a clean living army. Set for your men, always, an example of the highest courage and true democracy."

Secretary Baker personally handed to each graduating cadet the diploma that made him a Lieutenant of the regular army. Those young men, with the numbers indicating their class standing preceding each name, are as follows:

GETS WEST POINT DIPLOMA AND WEDS

Lieut. Hiram B. Ely Marries Miss Zelie de L. Porter in the Cadet Chapel.

CLASSMATES ARE USHERS

One of the largest military weddings ever held at West Point was that of Miss Zelie de Lussan Porter, daughter of Mrs. Josephine Florence Buckingham Porter of Field Point Road, Greenwich, Conn., and Lieutenant Hiram Baldin Ely, son of Captain Addison Ely of Rutherford, N. J., which took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Cadet Chapel, in the presence of about 300 guests. The Rev. Percy Silver, chaplain of the Military Academy, officiated.

Miss Adelaide MacLetchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLetchie of Intervale Place, Greenwich, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were the Misses Eva Hutchison of Yonkers, N. Y.; Clara Ely, a sister of the bridegroom, of Rutherford, N. J.; Marjorie J. Currie and Catherine Webb of Greenwich. Harold Cooney was best man. The ushers, all classmates of the bridegroom, were Glen Anderson, Willard Murphy, John Bissell, Emile Krause, Frank Reed, and George Hirsch.

On either side of the chapel battle flags were draped, while the platform was banked with palms.

The bride's gown was of white satin and chiffon cloth embroidered over silver cloth, with an embroidered court train of silver cloth lined with shirred white chiffon hung from the shoulders, and dotted with sprays of orange blossoms. She wore a tulle veil, which fell from a Greek headdress. She carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss MacLetchie was in pale green chiffon, trimmed with bands of violet ribbon, and wore a violet tulle poke bonnet, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of violet colored sweet peas.

Mrs. Porter, mother of the bride, was dressed in orchid colored Georgette crepe over silver cloth, trimmed with filet lace, and a lage black velvet picture hat. The best man and ushers were in full military uniform.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom walked down the aisle under crossed swords. A reception was held in Cullum Hall, after which the couple left on their honeymoon trip.

$700,000 FOR CANTEENS.

Red Cross Makes Appropriation to be Spent in France.

The American Red Cross announced last night that it had appropriated $700,000 to be expended between now and Nov. 1 in France. The appropriation was made following the receipt of the following cable message from Major Grayson M.-P. Murphy, U. S. A., the American Red Cross Commissioner in France:

> Great assistance can be given the French army by co-operating in the organization of canteens, resting and sleeping quarters for men passing to and from the front. At points where trains must be changed, ordinary station facilities are absolutely inadequate, and men returning, tired and dirty, from trenches wait many long hours and often over night for train connections and sleep on exposed platforms and in all available corners.
> Buffets are wanted beyond any possible capacity. These men, averaging several thousand at each station daily, should be provided with proper hot food at low prices, proper sleeping and reading rooms, and given facilities for washing and disinfection from disease-carrying trench vermin, which otherwise would be brought into homes, while men returning to the front would be given additional stimulus and enthusiasm through special attention on the part of American women, all of which tends to develop better morale as well as physique.
> The entire plan will be carried out in accordance with the views of General Pershing and the French army. We are working in close touch with the Young Men's Christian Association, who are entirely in accord with our undertaking this work in certain definite districts. To carry on the work which in our judgment we should undertake would require probably from $100,000 to $200,000 per month, depending upon the amount of work. The work will be handled at first by American women already in France.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The placing of the Conscription bill on the statute book was followed here by the worst exhibition of violence since the agitation against conscription started. Only a strong charge by armed police, following smashing of windows and firing of blank cartridges, prevented more serious rioting. The police were received with a storm of bricks and other missiles and were forced to club the rioters into submission.

The disturbance had its origin in a mass meeting in the French quarter of the city, at which a collection of $161, including one check for $100, was taken up "for the purpose of buying rifles and ammunition with which to resist conscription," as the collectors stated and as the announcer of the amount taken reiterated. The riotous proceedings developed in the course of the parade which followed the meeting.

Simultaneously with the outbreak in Montreal another took place in Quebec, where the rioters contented themselves with smashing the windows of the residence of the Hon. A. Sevigny, one of the few French-Canadians in the Cabinet who backed the Conscription bill.

EXEMPT BRYANT WASHBURN

Movie Actor Makes Dependency Claim Before His Local Board.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Bryant Washburn, a motion picture actor, was exempted from military service because of dependency to day, despite the fact that Major B. M. Chiperfield, who represented the Provost Marshal General in Chicago, had advised the local board to deny Washburn's claim. Washburn is married and has a child. He admitted that he was earning $200 a week and had a bank account.

The actor's exemption was certified by the district board only. His claim has yet to come up before the Appeal Board.

On orders from Washington several hundred aliens held for failure to register will be released, it was announced today. The Government desires to incur no expense in their prosecution.

RAFAEL MERRY DEL VAL DIES

Once Eminent Spanish Diplomatist Was Father of the Cardinal.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 30.—Rafael Merry del Val, formerly an eminent diplomatist in the service of the Spanish Government, having been Ambassador to London, the Vatican, and Vienna, is dead. He was the father of Cardinal Merry del Val, the Secretary of the Supreme Congregation of the Holy Office and of Alfonso Merry del Val y Zulueta, the Spanish Ambassador at London.

It was while he was accredited to the Court of Austria that his son, who was attached to his mission as Secretary, suddenly resigned his commission, entered upon holy orders, and joined the household of the Pontiff, with whom he stood in high favor. Don Rafael, Marquis Merry del Val, was descended from the branch of the Waterford family of Merry, established in Spain, his wife being the only daughter of the late Don Pedro José de Zulueta.

HENRY F. GILLIG DEAD.

Henry F. Gillig, founder of the American Exchange in Europe, a former capitalist and patron of grand opera, died suddenly on Wednesday at Bellevue Hospital in his sixty-third year. Death was due to gastric ulcer. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock today at the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street.

Mr. Gillig was the friend of foreign nobility, his many acquaintances in Europe including the late King Edward VII., when he was Prince of Wales, Prince Bismarck, and many others in all walks of life. When ocean voyages for Americans were not so common as they are today, Mr. Gillig had the distinction of having crossed the Atlantic 116 times. At the time of his death he was President of the International Music Festival League. He was also a member of the Brooklyn Press Club. He made his home at 192 Lexington Avenue.

7,000 PASS ACTOR'S BIER.

East Side Mourns for Morris Morrison, of Yiddish Stage.

A crowd of residents of the east side, estimated by the police at more than 7,000, filed in slow procession for four hours yesterday past the bier of Morris Morrison, one of the foremost Shakespearean actors on the Yiddish stage, who died on Tuesday. The body lay in state in the rooms of the Hebrew Actors' Club, at 108 Second Avenue, from where it was later transferred to David Kessler's Theatre, 35 Second Avenue, for the funeral services.

Prominent actors and actresses from both the Yiddish and German stage in this city and out of town were present at the services and heard the life and work of Mr. Morrison extolled by Abraham Cahan, editor of The Jewish Daily Forward; Jacob Adler, and David Kessler.

M'MILLAN ARRIVES AT HIS MAINE HOME

Brings Records Left by Dr. Kane in a Cairn on Aug. 29, 1853.

SAW DR. COOK'S ESKIMOS

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, Me., Aug. 30.—Donald B. MacMillan of this town returned tonight from four years spent in the arctic. He is for a few days the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. C. Fogg, and on Monday he plans to go to New York, where he will begin the task of classifying the specimens which he has obtained for the American Museum of Natural History.

During his search for Crocker Land, which he proved does not exist, E-Took-a-Shue, an Eskimo, who was Dr. Cook's right-hand man, and who traveled about 6,000 miles with MacMillan, pointed out what he said was the location of the furthest north camp that Dr. Cook made, it being located at a point between Cape Thomas Hubbard and Cape Colgate. Macmillan also interviewed Ah-Pel-Lah, another Eskimo, who was with Cook. He said that on a map Ah-Pel-Lah traced Cook's route across Ellesmere Land, and that it was identical with the one that had been traversed by Macmillan and E-Took-a-Shue.

Among the most important specimens are eight eggs of the Tringa Canutus, or knot, one of the rarest birds of the arctic regions. The party found two nests of this bird. More than 4,000 negatives illustrating every phase of arctic life were taken and have been sent to New York. The entire collection filled 400 cases, which took an entire express car.

Mr. MacMillan is enjoying excellent health and was kept busy receiving congratulations from his many friends here. He has brought to Freeport with him a record which Dr. Kane, the American explorer, left in his furthest north cairn on Aug. 29, 1853, and also the lining of Dr. Kane's cap, which that explorer used to wave as a flag when he decided to turn back at Rensselaer Harbor. He also had the record and a piece of an American flag which Admiral Peary left in a cairn on a hill 1,400 feet high at Cape Thomas Hubbard while on his dash to the pole.

MACMILLAN'S BOTANIST HERE.

W. Elmer Ekblaw Came by a Different Route Than His Chief.

W. Elmer Ekblaw, the geologist and botanist of the MacMillan Crocker Land Expedition, arrived in New York yesterday. Donald MacMillan, head of the expedition, is expected here the first of next week from Sydney, N. S.

Mr. Ekblaw came home by a differen route than Mr. MacMillan. For a time he had thought that he would be in the north for months after his comrades had reached civilization. He left North Star Bay with Dr. Harrison J. Hunt in December of 1916, and with him reached South Upernavik in January last. There were not enough provisions for both, and he persuaded Dr. Hunt to go on alone.

He made his way to the coast, and was taken to Godhaven, Greenland, in a motor boat by an official of the Danish Government. He reached there after the steamship Hans Egede had been gone a week. The Danish Government notified him that the relief ship Neptune had gone north in a search for the members of the Crocker Land Expedition and would stop at Godhaven on her way back. He was overjoyed when the Neptune came into Godhaven and he rejoined his comrades on their way to Sydney.

John L. Murray, Restaurateur.

John L. Murray, restaurateur and long proprietor of Murray's, died yesterday in his apartment in West Forty-second Street, following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Murray had been spending the Summer out of the city, and returned yesterday to witness the farewell parade of the National Guard. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Murray started in the restaurant business at Columbus Avenue and 104th Street, later going to Broadway and 106th Street, and then moving to Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street. Twelve years ago he opened Murray's Roman Gardens. Mr. Murray was born fifty-two years ago in County Roscommon, Ireland.

GOVERNOR IN TEARS AS MOTHER PLEADS

Mrs. Mulholland Makes Final Appeal in St. Regis Lobby to Save Her Condemned Son.

WHITMAN GREATLY MOVED

But He Declined to Stay Execution Last Night of Mrs. Nichols's Slayer.

After listening yesterday to the third appeal of the mother for her son, Governor Whitman declined to interfere in behalf of Joseph Mulholland, who was put to death in Sing Sing Prison last night for the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols on Sept. 8, 1915. The final interview between the Governor and Mrs. Mulholland, the condemned man's mother, occurred in the lounge of the St. Regis just after the parade of the National Guard yesterday afternoon, and Major F. L. V. Hoppin, Governor Whitman's military secretary, stated that never had he seen the Governor so deeply moved.

Mrs. Mulholland attempted to see the Governor at the Union League Club just before the head of the guardsmen's parade marched past the reviewing stand, but she was told by George T. Wilson, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, that the Governor would see her late in the afternoon at his hotel. Supported by her niece, Mrs. K. Shields, and Mrs. K. Hannan, a friend, Mrs. Mulholland entered the St. Regis and waited for the Governor. Clutched in her hand was a letter she intended to submit in case she should be too overcome to speak.

Mrs. Mulholland told the Governor that yesterday, the day her son must die, was her fiftieth birthday and she besought him to at least stay the execution. Although her son was thirty years old, she spoke of him as though he was a little boy.

Her husband is a paralytic, Mrs. Mulholland said. He is a janitor of an apartment on Park Avenue, and his wife does his work for him. Their son was their only child. What few relatives she had, Mrs. Mulholland told the Governor, seemed to shun her since her son's trial, with the exception of her niece, Mrs. Shields, who had been her constant companion, even accompanying her to see her son in the death house. Her husband had been kept in ignorance of all that had happened to the son since Mrs. Nichols's murder, and to do this constant watch had to be kept to keep any newspapers dealing with the case coming to his notice. Her son's sentence, her relatives' desertion, and the strain of keeping her husband ignorant of the case, in addition to performing her husband's duties as janitor in the apartment, Mrs. Mulholland told the Governor, had made life almost unbearable.

As gently as he could, Governor Whitman told the white-faced woman, who seemed utterly crushed, that, while he had only the deepest sympathy for her, he would not prevent the execution. In spite of this declaration, Mrs. Mulholland said to the Governor that she still had hope that he might intervene. She saw her son in the death house Wednesday, she said, but she had been refused permission to see him yesterday. At the conclusion of the interview Governor Whitman told Mrs. Mulholland that she might see her son, if she wished, once more.

Major Hoppin and Mrs. Mulholland's two companions assisted the woman to a taxicab, and with the tears still in his eyes Governor Whitman went to the elevator. It was some time before he came down to the lobby again to see the newspaper reporters.

"I have no right to interfere," said the Governor. "This man's guilt is positive and unquestioned. The case of the mother is very pathetic, and she is the greatest sufferer. She is a good woman and a remarkable woman, and I am sorry I am unable to do anything for her, especially as today is her birthday."

Joseph Mulholland was executed last night for his part in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, the widow of a wealthy wholesale grocer, who was either strangled or frightened to death at her home, 4 East Seventy-ninth Street, on the night of Sept. 8, 1915. Aside from Mulholland, three men were implicated in the plot to murder Mrs. Nichols and rob her house of the valuable jewels she was known to keep there. One of the participators in the murder, Arthur Waldenen, was put to death at Sing Sing July 12 last. Onnie Talas, the butler who admitted the men to the Nichols house, is serving a life sentence. Another man, Edward Lehto, who is accused of having participated in the murder, is still at large.

BABY'S DEATH STIRS FLEET.

Three Warships Help a Bereaved Sailor to Get Home to Funeral.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—"Some day I'll come back to you, little boy," said Lionel Thorogood, Naval Militiaman, as he gravely returned the smiling salute of his 3-year-old son Donald, and said good-bye to the boy and his mother one day in April, before returning to his ship.

Somewhere in the Atlantic last Monday Thorogood was taking his turn at the watch on a United States battleship. Suddenly there came a spitting and rattling from the wireless cabin. An officer stepped up to Thorogood and handed him a message reading:

"Your son Donald dead. Funeral Wednesday afternoon. Can you come?"

The Captain of the battleship was appealed to. He decided that Thorogood, one of his best seamen, should see his baby before they buried him.

Then a race began. The battleship, several hundred miles out in the Atlantic, began sending wireless messages to sister ships in the vicinity. Soon a gray form appeared, a boat was lowered, and the father was transferred to another vessel. After a few hours a torpedo boat, which had received a wireless message from the battleship as it was returning to port, was sighted, and Thorogood was transferred to this.

A port was reached, and a taxicab rushed the father to a train bound for Cleveland. Another taxicab rushed him from the train to his home, where he arrived an hour before the funeral took place.

AVIATOR M. P. IS KILLED.

Lieut. McLaren's Airplane Falls Into the Sea on a Practice Flight.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Flight Lieut. Francis W. S. McLaren, member of the House of Commons, was killed this morning while flying at Montrose. He was fully a mile at sea when the airplane fell to the water in a nose dive. He was rescued, but died from internal injuries.

Lieutenant the Hon. Francis McLaren, second son of Lord Aberconway, entered the army in the first days of the war and was commissioned Lieutenant for service with an armored motor car section. He was transferred in January of last year to the Royal Flying Corps, to which he has since been attached. He was elected to the House of Commons for the Spalding Division of Lincolnshire in 1910. He was a Liberal, 31 years old.

Coast Guard Escorts Bernhardt.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 30.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt received a cordial welcome to this city this afternoon. The New London Ship and Engine Company's band in uniform and a squad of Coast Guard boys acted as guard, assisting the local police.

The actress arrived in her private car at 1:15. A big crowd in waiting cheered her as she was placed in J. N. Lapointe's automobile, behind the band which headed the parade up State Street to Lyceum Theatre, where she appeared this afternoon and evening.

Both performances were crowded and beautiful floral pieces were presented to Mme. Bernhardt.

'THIS WAY OUT' TELLS A JOKE

Craven's Comedy Centres in Trifling with Marriage Advertisement.

THIS WAY OUT—A comedy in a prologue and three acts, by Frank Craven, founded on a story by J. U. Giesy and Octavius Roy Cohen. At the Cohan.

It required a prologue to develop the fact that the hero of "This Way Out" was a practical joker whose inventions miscarry; and, though the play had bright moments and some good acting, it is to be feared that the final verdict repeated that of the prologue.

It is all about an advertisement for a husband. Joe Franklin thought it would be amusing to answer it, promising marriage, and sign the name of his dearest chum, whose wife was jealous. The advertiser appears in person to claim her lord; and, to save his chum, Franklin is obliged to impersonate him. As he is himself engaged, the complications which result are sufficient, in number at least, to furnish forth a farce.

To actual forgery and prospective breach of promise Franklin adds burglary of the lady's purse, which, supposed to contain the incriminating letter, actually does contain $120. It requires a seemingly aimless prologue and two uninspiring acts to show the way into this entanglement. The last act, which shows the way out, is at times really funny; but it can hardly save the play. A young woman bent upon pinching a husband is not an easy object to laugh at, and especially when, as in this case, she is a lonesome derelict who really wants a matrimonial job and is honestly resolved to deserve it.

Frank Craven is an actor of sound comedy method and highly humorous personality. In his previous play, "Too Many Cooks," he had a really novel idea, which he worked out with a delightfully fresh comedy touch. In last night's offering, which was based on a magazine story, his material was well-nigh impossible. The touch of homely, familiar character was there, and now and again a really telling comedy line; but the general effect was of amateur theatricals.

The people on the stage had many friends in the audience, who applauded liberally and laughed with a will; but all up and down the aisles case-hardened first nighters rubbed their eyes and wondered.

The wonder did not cease when, on departing, they found that both sides of the foyer were placarded "This Way Out."

Offers Prizes for Patriotic Plays.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Drama League of America, according to an announcement today, offers prizes of $500, $250, and $100 for the three best patriotic plays suitable for performance by amateurs.

"The Federal Bureau of Education," says the statement, "is so convinced of the need and value of plays of this character that it has offered its cooperation to the fullest extent in bringing the winning plays to the attention of the schools throughout the country."

BRUN SUES VICE SOCIETY.

Editor of Washington Square Says His Book Was Suppressed Unjustly.

Guido Bruno, who acquired some public notice through publishing books and a weekly paper from a garret in Washington Square, and finally through being arrested on the complaint of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice on the ground that one of his books contained improper passages, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against the society and its superintendent, John S. Sumner, for $100,000 damages due to his arrest.

Bruno says in his complaint that before his arrest he was "well and favorably known throughout the cities, towns, and villages of the United States and foreign countries," as a publisher, editor, bookseller, and literary critic, and derived a lucrative income through publishing Bruno's Weekly, and various books, and through selling books at 105 Fourth Avenue and elsewhere. He alleged that on Dec. 13 last the defendants conspired to prevent the publication of his weekly and his books by causing his arrest and sending him to a prison cell with drunkards and persons of low and immoral character. He alleged that the charges against him were dismissed on April 30 last.

Bruno says that as a result of his arrest his income was curtailed and creditors began pressing for immediate payment, as the result of which he was "pained and harassed," and was compelled to file a petition in bankruptcy. He says he has been "shunned and avoided by friends and associates," and subjected to scorn and abuse.

We Cannot Say that people go into spasms of delight and become inarticulate with admiration upon entering Shanley's, as it seems they do elsewhere, but we can say that they give the impression of enjoying themselves hugely.
This is partly due to the cabaret of twenty feature numbers—evenings from seven to one.

Imported Two-Year-Old Beats Rivals in $30,600 Race at Saratoga "Getaway."

WINS $59,505 IN SEASON

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Aug. 30.—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's imported colt Sun Briar retained his place at the head of the two-year-old division when he captured the Hopeful Stakes this afternoon from one of the largest and best fields that has started this season. In a driving finish, over a track fetlock deep in mud, the son of Undridge fought for supremacy all through the last sixteenth of a mile with his rival, George W. Loft's Papp, and the verdict was in favor of Sun Briar by the narrow margin of half a length.

For the first time Sun Briar met August Belmont's early Spring champion at even weights, and Lucullite finished in seventh place. Rosie O'Grady, the pride of the Whitney stables, showed brilliant speed in the great test, but weakened at the finish, and was nosed out for third place by T. P. Thorne's Sycamoor, one of the outsiders. There were excuses to be made for both Papp and Lucullite. The latter may have been ruined for future racing by a severe kick received at the post.

The Hopeful is a comparatively recent stake, that has risen rapidly in importance and value, so that it bids fair to overshadow even the Futurity. Of a guaranteed value of $25,000, the event was so liberally supported that Sun Briar's victory netted his owner $30,600, which is more money than has been won by a two-year-old in any one race in this country since 1910, when racing received its setback.

Sun Briar Earns Fortune.

Sun Briar and Papp have been keen contenders for two-year-old honors since Saratoga opened a month ago. They have met four times, and on three occasions Sun Briar has led Papp at the finish. The victories of Mr. Kilmer's champion includes the Saratoga Special, the Albany Handicap, The Grand Union Hotel Stakes, and today's rich prize, the biggest of all. The total winnings of the colt is $59,505. He is by far the largest money winner of the year.

Standing out as prominently as Sun Briar in the closing day of the meeting was the great three-year-old, Omar Khayyam, owned by Wilfred Viau, a Canadian. He made a clean sweep of his races here by galloping to win the historic Saratoga Cup, and beating two older horses opposed to him over the trying route of a mile and three-quarters. Previous to this afternoon Omar Khayyam had won the Kenner and Travers Stakes, both confined to horses of his own age. He proved today that he is far above the average quality by running away from James Butler's Spur, a horse that also won the Travers a year ago.

A more disagreeable setting for two of the best events carded for the meeting could scarcely have been imagined. A steady downpour made the track so muddy that the winners splashed their way to victory.

Eighteen Youngsters Start.

The rich prize in the Hopeful was particularly alluring, and out of the over-night entry of seventeen only two were scratched. This was more than offset by additional starters, three being added, making a total of eighteen lined up at the post. Four owners were doubly represented. Mr. Loft sent Arrah Go On to keep Papp company, H. P. Whitney started both Rosie O'Grady and Happy Go Lucky, A. K. Macomber had War Cloud and War Machine saddled, while Gifford A. Cochran added both Nepperham and Bughouse.

With such a large field to handle, it was little wonder that Starter Cassidy had a hard time getting the frisky youngsters under control, especially as Papp cut up his usual capers. There was a delay of six minutes before the long string of animated thoroughbreds sprang into motion, with James Butler's Top Coat away like a flash on the rail. Papp was not quite ready for the break and hung for a moment, making his journey more difficult.

Robinson was alert on Rosie O'Grady and hustled the daughter of Hamburg along so that in the run along the back stretch she was half a length behind Top Coat. The Western crack, Escoba, was another smart beginner, and when the field was straightened out he was in third place. Sun Briar was well up with the leaders, but was not being hurried.

Top Coat and Rosie O'Grady made the most of their forward positions, and as they turned into the stretch were fighting for the lead. Meantime Papp had been well handled by Allen, and, closing ground gradually, was in a contending position as he made the turn, though still several lengths behind Sun Briar.

Rivals Battle to Finish.

Sun Briar quickly snatched the lead, but a relentless opponent was pursuing him, and, stride by stride, Papp reduced the distance, until at the sixteenth pole he was almost on even terms. However, Papp had run his race, passed nearly every one of the eighteen contestants, only to meet an unconquerable spirit just as victory appeared to be within his grasp.

Knapp, on Sun Briar, took no chances. There was no need to look around and study the opposition. It was right there beside him, and, working like a Trojan, until safely past the judges, the recently reinstated rider kept Sun Briar's head up so that he gained his greatest laurels by half a length.

While the two leaders had drawn five lengths away from the others there was a flash of blue and white stripes weaving through the early pace followers. They were carried by T. P. Thorne's Sycamoor, another imported horse that was bred, as was Sun Briar, in France. Tommy Davies put up one of his old-time finishes on this unconsidered youngster, and he got up just in time to gather the neat amount of $1,500 for third place.

Much regret was expressed after the race at an accident to Lucullite. He was kicked inside the near hind leg so badly that Trainer Hildreth took three pieces of fractured bone out of the wound. Debadou, which kicked Lucullite, ran for the first time in the colors of the Greentree Stables, being bought by Mrs. Payne Whitney before the race.

There is a little story to tell of the race for the Saratoga Cup, which was first run in 1865. Roamer was withdrawn and only Spur, a four-year-old, and Fair Mac, an aged imported horse, opposed the three-year-old champion. Butwell on Omar Khayyam took charge of the pace making, while Keogh kept Spur up close until near the end of the back stretch when Omar Khayyam drew away to a lead of a length and a half. Butwell shook up Omar Khayyam going around the turn, and he bid a lasting good-bye to his pursuer to gallop in five lengths in the lead. Fair Mac had anything but a fair trip, and was forty lengths behind Spur.

After James MacManus's Chief Lally had spreadeagled his field in the last race for two-year-olds, the band played "Auld Lang Syne," and the race goers reluctantly abandoned one of the most successful meetings ever held by the Saratoga Association.

PURSE TO BERTHA McGUIRE.

Trotter Gets First, Third, and Fourth Money in Grand Circuit.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 30.—A heavy shower coming at the end of the second heat of the Guy Axworthy 2:17 class for three-year-old trotters this afternoon made necessary a postponement of the Grand Circuit races until tomorrow.

Bertha McGuire had won the three-year-old event, North Spur a heat of the 2:17 trot, and Little Frank D. a heat of the Directum I. 2:05 pace before the downpour came. The fact that three starters were distanced gave Bertha McGuire first, third, and fourth money in the colt race.

Tomorrow's card will consist of the two unfinished races and a special trotting event between Mabel Trask and St. Frisco.

SCOTT CANNOT COMPETE.

Half-Mile Champion Will Not Appear in St. Louis Competitions.

The officials of the metropolitan association of the A. A. U. announced yesterday that they had received word from the Southern Association at New Orleans that Don M. Scott, the national half-mile champion, now a Lieutenant in the United States Army, would be unable to make the journey to St. Louis for the national track and field championships which begin there tomorrow.

Scott has advised the Southern Association that his furlough expires Aug. 29. Scott won the half-mile title at Newark last year, and was expected to defend his laurels this year.

STARS GATHER FOR GAMES.

New York and Chicago Athletes Go to St. Louis for Nationals.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Track athletes of the Chicago Athletic Association, Illinois Athletic Club, and the University of Chicago, together with a number of stars from New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, left here tonight for St. Louis to compete in the National A. A. U. championship meet, which starts tomorrow.

Avery Brundage, the present all-around champion, will end his athletic career in the St. Louis games, because of the press of his business interests in Chicago.

FULL BOXING CARD OFFERED.

Three Ten-Round Bouts Tonight at St. Nicholas A. C.

The first boxing card featuring three ten-round bouts to be held in this city in many months is scheduled for this evening at the St. Nicholas A. C., where several of the country's leading boxers will appear. The principal event will be between Ted Kid Lewis, the English boxer, who recently won the welterweight championship title, and Albert Badoud, a French welterweight. Badoud is a rushing, heavy-hitting type of boxer, and is expected to force the clever and hard-hitting Lewis to his utmost.

Another contest between a sturdy, aggressive boxer and one more educated in the finer points of the game is that of Joe Welling, a Chicago lightweight, and Tommy Touhey of Paterson. The principals in the other event will be Frankie Burns, the veteran Jersey City bantamweight, and Frankie Brown of the east side.

Other bouts arranged for tonight are:

Bob Vernon Dies Suddenly.

Robert C. Vernon, stakeholder in the Jeffries-Johnson and a dozen other prize fights, died yesterday at the Polyclinic Hospital after a short illness. He was a native of Wales, 51 years of age, and leaves a family at his recent home on Coney Island.

LORD SEATON WINS AT NEWPORT SHOW

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, Aug. 30.—Both the army and navy were largely represented at today's session of the Horse Show, the feature of which was the reappearance of Judge Moore's famous Lord Seaton, an international champion and winner of hundreds of prizes in his career. The Judge drove him to victory in the class for harness horses under 15.2, in which he had to defeat such crackerjacks as Walter Hanley's Rainbow and James Cox Brady's remarkable harness mare Senstaion. This he did after a show in the ring which was remarkable for the carriage and action of the competitors, as well as the reinsmanship of the handlers.

Miss Constance Vauclain of Philadelphia won a blue with The Whip—her favorite harness horse—in the class for hackneys shown to harness. This veteran of the show ring was in such excellent form that she defeated both Judge Moore's Bountiful and Mr. Brady's Sensation, both animals of the first rank among harness horses. Miss Vauclain also won in the class for ponies to harness, in which she achieved a victory with Bumble Bee over A. W. Atkinson's showy Sandy McDonald.

Walter Hanley of Providence, who had to be content with second ribbons in so many classes, was successful in one of the pony classes with a smart one, Powder Puff, and with Brother Jed and Topper was first and second in the conformation, pace, and action class, in which Miss Vauclain's many times winner Lady Dilham could do no better than get fourth honors, her ill-luck with this high-priced animal continuing to follow her.

The principal awards:

Class 32, Ponies, 12.2 to 14.2.—Won by W. H. Hanley's ch. m. Powder Puff; Godfrey Preece's ch. m. Sweetmeat, second; Miss Lorraine Liggett's blk. m. Harmony Girl, third.

Class 12, Horses, 14.2 to 15.2, judged on conformation, pace, and action.—Won by W. H. Hanley's b. g. Brother Jed; same owner's b. g. Topper, second; R. S. Moore's br. g. Aventine, third; Miss Constance Vauclain's br. m. Lady Dilham, fourth.

Class 35, Hunters, up to 200 pounds.—Won by Glen Riddle Farm's b. g. Bally Heather; same owner's b. g. Clinker, second; Isaac H. Clothier, Jr.'s, b. g. Safety First, third.

Class 19, Ponies in harness, 12.2 to 14.2.—Won by Miss Constance Vauclain's ch. g. Bumble Bee; A. W. Atkinson's ch. g. Sandy McDonald, second; Mrs. Charles H. Allaire's ch. g. Invader, third.

Class 5, Horses under 15.2.—Won by W. H. Moore's b. g. Lord Seaton; W. H. Hanley's b. m. Rainbow, second; Hamilton Farm's b. m. Sensation, third.

Class 14, Registered Hackney Harness Horses over 15.2.—Won by Miss Constance Vauclain's ch. m. The Whip; W. H. Moore's b. m. Bountiful, second; Hamilton Farm's b. m. Sensation, third.

Class 7, Pairs of Horses Under 15.2.—Won by W. H. Hanley's Rainbow and Sunshower; W. H. Moore's Lord Seaton and Mathias Pick-em-up, second; Hamilton Farm's Pirano and Regal, third.

Class 15, Four-in-hands.—Road team—Judge Moore's grays, no competition. Park class—Won by Hamilton Farm's team; A. W. Atkinson's team, second.

Class 29, Park and Road Hacks.—Won by A. W. Atkinson's ch. g. Sparkling Moselle; Mrs. James T. Schweiger's ch. m. Aloha, second; W. H. Hanley's gr. g. White Raven, third.

Class 39, Jumpers, open to all classes.—Won by J. H. Collins's b. g. Rolling Stone; Hamilton Farm's ch. g. Equality, second; Glen Riddle Farm's b. m. Nancy Pansy, third.

PLAN RED CROSS REGATTA.

Yachtsmen Arranging Big Race Meet for Saturday, Sept. 8.

Members of a number of the yachting clubs on the Sound have under consideration a plan for holding a general inter-club regatta for yachts and clubs in the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound on Saturday, Sept. 8.

De Forest Hicks, an active member of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Club, who races the yacht Barracuda, is Chairman of the committee, which includes Richard A. Monks, Chairman of the Regatta Committee of the Indian Harbor Club; Howell C. Perrin, Chairman of the Regatta Committee of the Larchmont Club; Ernest G. Draper of the Stamford Club, and Frank Bowne Jones, Vice President of the Yacht Racing Association, who are arranging for a general regatta which shall include all boats of all classes in commission on the Sound, in order to get one good, old-fashioned day's sport.

It will be a Red Cross regatta, and if the plans carry will give an opportunity to all clubs to raise a handsome sum for the Red Cross organization, as well as have a day's racing which most of the yachtsmen are so anxious for in this season of sentimental inactivity. It is proposed to have all the clubs make as generous a contribution as they are able to do to a fund, which may be swelled by individual contributions, to be presented to the Red Cross. The prizes are to be medals issued under sanction of the Red Cross Society, the cost of which will come from the fund contributed by the clubs out of moneys they would ordinarily have spent for regatta prizes during the season.

No entrance fee is to be exacted from any of the competing yacht's owners, the idea being that as the yachtsmen forego the chance of winning a prize of value they are contributing that much to the fund by sailing their craft and thus helping to make this the biggest regatta of the season they are doing their bit fully.

It has been decided to hold the regatta over the course off the west end of Great Captains Island, as that course will probably be the most convenient to the greatest number of participants, as well as affording one of the sportiest of courses at that time of the year, with the then prevailing southwest winds.

Several clubs have already promised participation as organizations, among the first to accept the invitation being the Manhasset Bay Yacht Club and the New York Athletic Club, both members of the Yacht Racing Association. The committee has assurances from a number of yacht owners that they will have their yachts at the line, among them some of the large yachts which have not competed even in friendly races this season. Other yachts now at Newport and New London will come down to the waters of the Sound in order to help make the regatta a success.

The largest fleet of the year in any regatta is already a certainty, as the opportunity to help along such a good cause appeals to the yacht owners as individuals, no matter what the position of their clubs may be as to the advisability of regattas at this time.

HANDICAP YACHTING ANNUAL

An 11 1-2-Mile Run Off Echo Bay on Sept. 9.

Sunday, Sept. 9, has been fixed as the date for the eleventh annual race of the Handicap Yacht Racing Class, with which they customarily wind up their year's activities.

As usual the race will be sailed off the entrance to Echo Bay, this time over a course of eleven and a half nautical miles, which will take the competing craft over a course running from the starting line east by north four miles to a buoy off Parsonage Point, thence across the Sound, south by west to the spar buoy between Mott's Point and Prospect Point, a distance of four miles, and then back to the finishing line, three and a half miles.

The first division will start on their journey at 1:40, the three other divisions following at five-minute intervals. Handicap allowances will be announced the Friday before the race.

Sox Buy Strike-Out King.

DES MOINES, Aug. 30.—Pitcher Paul Musser of the Des Moines Club has been sold to the Chicago American League Club, to report next Spring, it was announced today. Musser has struck out more than 300 batsmen this season. Terms of the sale were not announced.

RED SOX HELD TO DRAW.

Athletics Not Beaten When Darkness Stops Game.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Boston and Philadelphia battled to a ten-inning tie in the first game of their series here today. The score was 1 to 1 when the game was called on account of darkness.

The home team made its run in the second inning on Walker's double and Gardner's single. Philadelphia scored in the eighth when Johnson singled, Jamieson walked, Grover beat out a bunt, and Bodie's sacrifice fly to Walker sent Johnson home.

BROWNS HELP OUT CICOTTE.

White Sox Handed Six Runs and Pitcher Twenty-first Victory.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Eddie Cicotte won his twenty-first game of the season today when Chicago defeated St. Louis, 8 to 4. The locals won in the second inning. Chicago made only two hits in that inning, but erratic fielding, bases on balls, hit by pitched ball, a fielder's choice, and a sacrifice fly brought over six runs.

BENDER'S HOME RUN HELPS BEAT BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—Philadelphia split even with Boston today, the home team winning the first game 4 to 3 and Boston the second 3 to 0.

Home-run hits by Bender and Cravath featured the first game, which was the sixth straight won by the Indian pitcher. Hughes received excellent support in the second game and only one of the home players reached second base.

LOCAL TEAMS LEFT IDLE.

Rain Forces Postponement of the Yankee and Giant Games.

The scheduled opening of the series between Bill Donovan's Yankees and the Washington Senators at the Polo Grounds yesterday started in a light drizzle, but had not proceeded one full inning before the rain increased to a heavy downfall, and the contest had to be abandoned. What was played, however, held much for the Yanks and little for the Senators. Urban Shocker mowed down the first three visitors to face him, fanning both Menosky and Shanks and forcing C. Milan to foul out to Nunamaker.

Starting the Yankees off, High got a clean single to centre, and went to second when Gilhooley drew a pass. Peckinpaugh then popped an infield fly to Catcher Ainsmith. Donovan thought that Ainsmith had dropped the ball and let it fall on foul territory. Umpire Connolly ruled Peck out, and just when Wild Bill was getting warmed up in his conversational efforts, the arbiter called time, at which everybody on the field sought the protection of the Yankee bench. After a wait of the usual half an hour, the 1,200 or so faithful on hand were apprised of the fact that the game had been called.

There will be a double-header at the Polo Grounds between the Yanks and Senators this afternoon and another tomorrow.

The Giants' intended opening skirmish with the athletes of Charles H. Ebbets at the Brooklyn ballyard also was washed under in the downpour that came along about game time. The teams will play a double bill this afternoon, the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Maine Colleges to Play Football.

WATERVILLE, Me., Aug. 30.—Robert L. Ervin, Graduate Manager of Athletics at Colby, announced tonight that the college would have a football team as usual this Fall. He added that the Maine intercollegiate series would probably be played and that Colby was arranging post-season games with Tufts and Brown.

CALIFORNIANS WIN AT NET.

Miss Browne and Strachan Play Great Tennis at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—Bright sunshine, the first in days for the national patriotic tennis tourists, resulted in the fastest net play ever seen here, and also in further glory for Miss Mary K. Browne of Los Angeles and John Strachan of San Francisco.

Miss Browne defeated the Norwegian star, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, United States national champion, in straight sets at 6—3 and 6—2. Strachan defeated the young Elizabeth (N. J.) star, Harold Throckmorton, in a smashing match, 6—2, 6—1.

A match in men's doubles developed a long deuce set which trdilled the gallery. Throckmorton, paired with Fred B. Alexander of New York, defeated Strachan, playing with Charles Garland of Pittsburgh, national junior champion, 6—2, 10—8.

TENNIS LEADERS TO PLAY.

Best of Local Talent to Meet on Atlantic Yacht Club Courts.

Tennis matches to raise money for the Ambulance Fund of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association will be played on the courts of the Atlantic Yacht Club, at Sea Gate, Sunday afternoon. Miss Marie Wagner, women's indoor national champion, and Mrs. Charles Vernon Hitchins of Mexico City, who won the Middle States tournament this year, will take part. The men who have agreed to play are S. Howard Voshell, men's national indoor champion; Leonard Beekman of Bronxville, Watson M. Washburn of New York, and Joseph J. Armstrong of Philadelphia. The latter are ranked in the first ten of the country. The schedule calls for the following matches:

Men's singles, one set—Voshell against Beekman. Women's singles, one set—Miss Wagner against Mrs. Hitchins. Mixed doubles, two out of three sets—Mrs. Hitchins and Washburn against Miss Wagner and Armstrong. Men's doubles, two out of three sets—Washburn and Beekman against Voshell and Armstrong.

NOTES OF THE GOLF LINKS.

Goodly Sums Gleaned for Red Cross in Recent Play.

The recent Professional Golfers' Association display held over metropolitan links accomplished the object of the organization, in that more than $4,000 was raised and is now available for any war relief purpose desired by the Government. The professionals worked diligently to make the affair a financial and physical success, and any spectator who witnessed the sterling matches will attest that the professionals more than achieved their desires.

The itemized income from the week of golf is interesting. Englewood, where the mixed foursomes and the open 36-hole medal play competition was held, collected $644 from the gallery, and James Barber, an ardent Englewood enthusiast, contributed $500 to the fund. At Baltusrol, where the first of the team matches was held, the beautiful army of girls who did the collecting separated the gallerites from $784.25. The Siwanoy "nurses" added $263.75 by appealing to the chivalry and pocketbooks of mere man. At Garden City, where the final team matches were held, $681.70 was added to the fund.

Hackensack held a fourball match, with Bobby Jones and Perry Adair one of the contesting teams, and this attraction brought $62. The appearance of Walter Hagen and Jim Barnes against Jack Dowling and Tom Kerrigan at Scarsdale got $198 from the Westchester Club. Westfield collected $66. The advertising sale of program books netted $1,100.

Arrangements for the intercity foursomes between Boston's leading golfers, Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford, and New York's peerless amateurs, Jerome D. Travers and Oswald Kirkby, have been completed. The first thirty-six holes of the affair will be held at Braeburn in the Boston district tomorrow and the quartet of experts will appear at Baltusrol for the final thirty-six hole encounter Sept. 8.

Francis Ouimet has been playing exceptional golf throughout the season. His victory in the Western championship is a notable achievement, but not more so than his victory over M. J. Brady of Oakley, Massachusetts open champion, in their home and home engagement of 72 holes held recently. In the first half of this affair, played at Oakley, Brady got a commanding lead of six holes by making the two rounds of the Oakley course in 139, a truly remarkable score, notwithstanding that Oakley is slightly under championship rating.

When the pair appeared at the Woodland Golf Club, home of Ouimet, for the final thirty-six holes, Ouimet's task seemed insurmountable, but he played wonderful golf, especially on his final inward journey, which he made in 33, and finished two strokes ahead of the famous Oakley professional. Ouimet made two rounds of the difficult, hazardous Woodland course in 148 strokes, which gave him a total of 293 for the 72 holes, against 295 for Brady, who needed 156 strokes at Woodland to add to his 139 at Oakley.

Miss Stirling is doing her utmost to help in Red Cross exhibitions. She has just finished playing through the Middle West and is at her home resting up for more exhibitions. She is scheduled to appear at the Chevy Chase Country Club in Washington, D. C., in October as one of the participants in a rather notable fourball contest. She will play with Chick Evans, the national amateur and open champion, against Mrs. W. A. Gavin, the women's metropolitan champion, and Gilbert Nicholls of Great Neck, former metropolitan open champion and one of the leading professionals of the country.

Gilbert Nicholls and Alex Smith, two of the most prominent metropolitan professionals, have been enjoying an unlimited fourball leadership this season, but they will have to extend themselves to hold their leadership Sunday when they are called upon to face Walter B. Hagen of Rochester and James Barnes of Whitemarsh Valley. These veteran rivals are to meet at Wykagyl, the home of Alex Smith, in a 36-hole contest, which is being looked forward to as one of the attractions of the Wykagyl season. Smith and Nicholls have played Wykagyl often enough to know every blade of grass on the course. Their defeat of Jerome D. Travers and Oswald Kirkby at Wykagyl proves their dependability.

GOLF TITLEHOLDER DEFEATS OLD RIVAL

Mrs. Letts Revenged in Title Tourney on Miss Allen for Three Former Defeats.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Fred C. Letts, Jr., of Chicago, Western woman golf champion, had complete revenge for three defeats at the hands of Miss Elizabeth Allen of Rock Island, Ill., by disposing of the Iowa champion, 7 up and 6 to play, in the second round of the championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association at the Flossmoor Country Club. The champion, formerly Miss Marjorie Dodd of Cincinnati, had previously met Miss Allen in the national, the Western, and the Iowa championships and lost all three matches.

Mrs. Letts played splendidly today, while Miss Allen was erratic. The title holder started with a birdie 3 on the first hole, and with par or better for the rest of the first nine, scored 41 to 50 for Miss Allen, and was 6 up at the turn. Pars on the next three holes ended the contest and entitled the champion to defend her title in the semi-finals tomorrow with Miss Vida Llewellyn, champion in 1909, who today disposed of Miss Lois Stumer, a sixteen-year-old player of Ravisloe, 5 and 4, by playing close to par all the time.

The only out-of-town player to reach the semi-finals was Miss Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee. She owed her victory to strength and coolness, both of which fathered brilliancy at several holes, allowing the seventeen-year-old Wisconsin champion to overcome, by 2 and 1, Mrs. F. S. Colburn of Glenview. Only five of the seventeen holes played were halved. The younger player had much more in reserve than her opponent, holing longer putts and hitting longer drives.

Despite a three-hole lead at the end of the first half, Miss Hadfield found herself only one up at the seventeenth tee, having lost the fifteenth through topping into a creek and the sixteenth by missing a putt. With 461 yards to cover to reach the plateau green of the seventeenth hole, the Milwaukean drove 240 yards and brassied 200 more to the foot of the bluff, whence a niblick to fifteen feet of the cup and two putts clinched the victory, Mrs. Colburn taking 7.

Miss Hadfield tomorrow will meet Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, North and South champion, who today approximated an 88 on the basis of the fifteen holes played, and defeated Mrs. J. W. Douglass of Westmoreland, 5 and 3. All four semi-finalists have played persistently well during the week, seldom going over 90 for the long, difficult course.

DENY DRAFT APPEAL OF 379 CONSCRIPTS

District Board Also Reverses Local Boards Which Had Exempted 174 Men.

The District Exemption Board for New York City, of which Charles E. Hughes is the Chairman, handed down decisions yesterday in 530 cases, of which 461 were appeals from the decisions of local exemption boards. The appeals were denied in 379 cases and granted in 151. To date the board has handed down decisions in 2,402 cases brought up on appeal from lower boards, or applications made direct to the board on industrial or agricultural grounds. The appeals have been denied in 1,788 cases.

The board also handed down a blanket decision covering 176 cases appealed by the Government from decisions of local boards, which granted exemption on dependent grounds. Under the regulations all such cases must be appealed. In these cases the decisions of the local boards were upheld in 174 and reversed in two cases.

One of the appeals denied yesterday was that of Philip Dewasky, certified for service by Board 164. Mr Dewasky is a manufacturer of hats, and informed the board that he has $200,000 invested in his business. He said that if he had to give up his business his income would be gone and he would not be able to pay an income tax to help support the Government. Joel Jack Isaacs, passed by Board 129, asked exemption on the ground that he manufactures ladies' neckwear and employs twelve persons. The board decided that was no ground for exemption.

Deputy Attorney General Roscoe S. Conkling, in charge of the draft law examinations in New York City, announced last night that he expected to send out the Government's final instructions for the mobilization of the first selective draft contingent some time today.

Call to Reserve Officers.

Before the Guards were done marching yesterday the Mayor's Committee on National Defense announced plans for making next Tuesday a gala day for the men of the draft army on the eve of their call to the colors.

The Marshal of the parade will be Captain A. L. Boyce, U. S. R., who for weeks past has been drilling 2,500 of the new men daily at Governors Island. At Captain Boyce's suggestion, the Mayor's Committee issued a request to all reserve officers in town to come and help officer the parade. As soon as Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, commander of the Department of the East, heard of Captain Boyce's plan, he expressed his approval.

"I strongly urge all Captains and Lieutenants of the United States Reserve Corps now in the city to meet Captain Boyce's request," said General Bell. "The parade has the full approval of the War Department. These men of the new national army are the men the reserve officers will train and command, and I hope the reserve officers will accept this invitation to help make the first march of the new army a success."

There are probably 4,000 reserve officers in town fresh from the training camps, and awaiting their assignments, which are not likely to reach them before the middle of next week. Captain Boyce wants them to accept temporary commands next Tuesday to handle the new men in the line of march. He urges reserve officers to meet him tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the drill ground at Governors Island. The ferry from the Battery leaves every half hour, the boat at 4:15 being the most convenient. Captain Boyce will then assign the various reserve officers to the mobilization points of the parade.

National army send-off day will be marked not only by parades but by other features. The Manhattan parade will include also the men from Queens and Richmond. The Bronx committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense, of which Elisha H. Janes is Chairman, has arranged a similar parade there. In Brooklyn the parade plans are all made. Every selected man that day will wear a distinctive device, which the Mayor's committee is having made.

The ball game at the Polo Grounds that day will be free to the men. There will be community singing. For the evening entertainments are being arranged by various organizations.

City Still Pays Drafted Employes.

Although the District Exemption Board has decided that the Fenner law, which provides that the city shall pay its employes called into military service the difference between their military and municipal salary, is unconstitutional, it was learned yesterday that the city will continue to pay such salary differences until the matter has been settled by the civil courts. Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast, it was said, are both in favor of continuing such payment until the law itself shall be upset.

In the absence of Corporation Counsel Lamar Hardy, who is on a vacation, no opinion was forthcoming from his office, but it was said that a test case may be made within a few days. This may be in the nature of a taxpayers' suit, as the decision of the Exemption Board would have no standing in law. The ruling regarding the status of the city employes called into military service was requested by the Provost Marshal General, who sought to clarify the situation regarding the liability of policemen and firemen to military service.

The question was brought to an issue through the case of Patrolman James A. Donahue of 219 Macon Street, Brooklyn. He has a wife, mother and sister dependent upon him, and asked exemption for that reason. The case was before the board three times. The first time it was recommended that a discharge be granted, which was done. It was reopened when Louis Marshall pointed out that under the Fenner law Donahue's salary would be paid were he called into military service.

Meyer Steinbrink, a member of the board, then challenged the constitutionality of the Fenner law, and in this he was upheld by Edgar M. Cullen, former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals; George L. Ingraham, former Justice of the Supreme Court, and Mr. Marshall. On the argument that the city was without the right to pay anything but for service rendered, Donahue was granted a discharge. The ruling will affect about 800 former city employes who are now in the army and are being paid regularly the amounts due them under the State law. Such payments have been paid since last April, and some of the ex-city employes are now in France and others on warships.

"It would be too great a hardship on hundreds of men with dependents to cut off without warning the pay they are now receiving from the city, even if there should be a question of the constitutionality of the act permitting the city to make these payments," said Controller Prendergast. "Of course the whole matter will now have to be adjudicated by the courts. Until that is done, I believe the Controller will interpose no objection to a continuation of the payments."

M'ADOO'S BOND BILL NEARS COMPLETION

4% INTEREST ON BONDS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The $11,538,945,640 War Bond and Certificate bill will in all probability be completed by the House Ways and Means Committee tomorrow and will go to the House practically as proposed by Secretary McAdoo.

In no important respect was the bill altered today, after a long executive session of the committee, and only one important change was proposed and is still pending. This was a suggestion by Representative Hull of Tennessee to limit the conversion feature of this and other bond issues, so that if the Government found it necessary at any future time during the war to issue bonds at a higher rate than that which would be carried by the pending issue, the bonds already issued might not be changed to the higher rate. The Hull amendment will be discussed tomorrow at the Treasury Department with Representative Kitchin and Representative Hull, in consultation with Secretary McAdoo.

It has been tentatively decided that the rate of interest on the forthcoming bonds will be 4 per cent. Under the Hull plan the existing Liberty bonds at 3½ per cent. could be converted to the new 4 per cent. class, but that would constitute the last conversion the holders of Liberty bonds could enjoy.

The committee today did not fix the rate of interest on the forthcoming certificates of indebtedness nor on the war savings securities, but has decided practically to allow the Secretary of the Treasury to fix these rates. This part of the bill was the subject of considerable discussion today, particularly regarding the war savings certificates. These will be issued in small denominations, probably as low as $5. Several committee members expressed the fear that if the interest on these securities was placed as high as 4 per cent. savings banks would suffer, but they were not able to change the bill so as to limit the rate.

However, the committee did not follow the terms of the original bill respecting taxes. Instead of subjecting the bonds to all war taxes, the bill probably will be reported with a provision subjecting the bonds to income and super taxes only.

The sum of $28,000,000 provided in the bill for advertising and exploiting the bonds was slightly reduced. It was originally proposed that one-fifth of 1 per cent. of the total amount of the issue be appropriated for this purpose. The committee today changed that percentage to one-seventh of 1 per cent.

Another amendment approved today, which is understood to have the approval of the Treasury, provides for the creation of committees of auditors to inspect the military expenditures of the army establishment outside of Washington. This will allow an audit system to be put into effect in France.

LIBERTY LOAN IS ALL PAID IN.

Nearly $400,000,000 Deposited in the Federal Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Nearly $400,000,000 was paid into the Treasury today in the final installment of the Liberty loan. Approximately $1,615,000,000 has already been paid in, representing principal and interest on the Liberty bonds.

Today's payment completes the financial transaction with the issue of the bonds, and it is thought likely that the bonds themselves will be ready for distribution within a short time.

The fifth and final installment on the $2,000,000,000 Liberty Loan was paid into the Federal Reserve banks yesterday. The payment at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York amounted to $19,500,000, and it was estimated that an additional $5,000,000 was in the mail and would be received this morning. Yesterday's installment called for 30 per cent., but inasmuch as the great majority of bond subscribers in this district had previously paid up in full, the receipts were relatively small. The allotment of Liberty bonds in this district amounted to about $617,000,000.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Leon Marks, who has been identified with the women's retail garment business for many years, recently as merchandise manager for Siegel, Cooper & Co., Chicago, will embark in the retail business on an elaborate scale in Cincinnati about Dec. 1. Among the lines to be carried are coats and suits, waists, dresses, and skirts, millinery, petticoats, underwear, sweaters, and furs. Oscar Abel, resident buyer, will handle the Marks account in this city.

President Menocal of Cuba has issued a decree suspending the export tax on iron ore and copper. When the Cuban Congress meets next Winter these taxes will be repealed. According to a commerce report the export duties referred to were embodied in a provision of the recent law authorizinz a Government loan of $30,000,000.

RECRUITING IN STATE SHOWS FALLING OFF

Only 63 Men Were Obtained for the Army Wednesday, When Entire Country Furnished 656.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Pennsylvania—the banner State in regular army recruiting—went ahead of New York in Wednesday's enlistments for the army. A total of 90 recruits were obtained in Pennsylvania, while New York stood second with 63. The four banner States, with the number of army recruits they have furnished since April 1, are Pennsylvania, with 22,457; New York, with 22,119; Illinois, with 17,634, and Massachusetts, with 10,041. AUTO MEN INDICTED UNDER SHERMAN ACT

Federal Grand Jury Reports Against 38 Manufacturers and Jobbers.

The Federal Grand Jury yesterday indicted thirty-eight manufacturers and jobbers of automobile supplies on the charge of having conspired to create a combination in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust law. The indictment was the result of three weeks' work in examining witnesses and overhauling records of the National Association of Automobile Accessory Jobbers, whose headquarters is in Chicago. According to Assistant United States District Attorney Henry A. Guiler, the association asserts that it represents 91 per cent. of the automobile accessory trade in the United States. It was said that efforts were being made to gather in the other 9 per cent. The firms and individuals indicted are:

William M. Webster, Commissioner of the National Association of Automobile Accessory Jobbers; Willard W. Low, Thomas M. Brooks, Sidney F. Beech, Electric Appliance Company, Automobile Supply Company, and the Motor Car Supply Company of Chicago; Fred Campbell, William K. Norris, W. L. Ferrier, McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Company, and the Fred Campbell Auto Supply Company, St. Louis, Mo.; J. Stanley Clemence and Ballou & Wright, Portland, Ore.; George E. Edmunds and Edmunds & Jones Corporation, Detroit, Mich.; Sidney B. Dean and Nicols, Dean & Gregg, Inc., St. Paul, Minn.; Edward C. Graham, Washington, D. C.; F. Hallett Lovell, Jr., Newark, N. J.; Richard R. Englehart and Sieg Company, Davenport, Iowa; Harry R. Williams and the Gibson Company, Indianapolis, Ind.; Fordyce B. Caswell and the Champion Spark Plug Company, Toledo, Ohio; Charles E. Faeth and Motor and Machinists' Supply Company, Kansas City, Mo.; Grant F. Discher, Gemco Manufacturing Company, Henry P. Andrea, and Julius Andrea & Sons Company, Milwaukee, Wis.; William Sparks and the Sparks-Withington Company, Jackson, Mich.; Emil Grossman and the Emil Grossman Manufacturing Company, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Arthur M. Moody and the Wetmore-Savage Company, Boston, Mass.

Evidence laid before the Grand Jury alleged to show that at a meeting held by the association in the Hotel Astor resolutions were adopted providing that "this organization discourage the practice and condemn in the strongest possible terms the furnishing of catalogues and granting of special discounts by jobbers to dealers." The resolutions also condemned the "promulgating, issuing, and circulating throughout the automobile accessory trade in the United States of a list of eligible or legitimate jobbers." It was said that this proved the intention of the alleged conspirators to blacklist all jobbers whose names did not appear on the lists approved by the association and was to serve as a guide for jobbers when purchasing goods from manufacturers.

The automobile accessory trade in the United States exceeds $100,000,000 a year.

LONDON TRADESMEN LONG FOR TOURISTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—London tradesmen have watched the increasing share the United States has taken in the war with a keen eye to their own chances. They have missed the free-handed American tourist for the last three years, and they have hopes that he will reappear in the wake of the American troops. The recent march of United States soldiers through London aroused general interest in what America was doing, and since then many requests have reached the American Consulate from hotel keepers, boarding house managers, and others that, in case visiting Americans ask for recommendations for lodgings, they may not be forgotten.

The London General Omnibus Company, which controls practically all the bus lines, shares in the same hope of American patronage and has begun a series of advertisements pointing out those parts of the metropolis which are of special interest to Americans. Thus the fact is recalled that Benjamin Franklin used to live in a side street near Charing Cross while he was agent for the Colonies before the revolution.

American officials here, however, believe that these expectations are doomed to disappointment. Of course, as the number of American forces on this side of the Atlantic increases, there is bound to be an influx of soldiers and sailors on leave and of officials of one sort or another, but it is not thought likely that Washington will permit any Americans to come over unless they can give good reasons for doing so.

The experience of the Canadian authorities is a warning of the difficulties that arise when an army is followed by an unorganized host of civilians. The wives of several hundred Canadian soldiers came to England, wishing, naturally enough, to be near their husbands while the latter were training, and to be on hand in case they were wounded. Before very long, however, it was discovered that they presented a serious problem. In the best possible circumstances the husbands were for months away in France, and the wives had nowhere to go and little money to live upon, and those whose menfolk were killed found themselves stranded far from home and help.

London tradesmen and hotel keepers would welcome their old American patrons with enthusiasm, but the officials, likely to be faced with the many problems an American tourist invasion would create, have no intention of gratifying them.

KEELEY BACKS GERARD.

Chicagoan Says Germany Did Propose Invasion of Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—James Keeley, the Chicago publisher, said here today that he had personal knowledge to confirm James W. Gerard's published statement that before the war Germany had proposed to Great Britain a joint intervention in Mexico and an ending of the Monroe Doctrine.

"Last Winter, when in London, I read a long editorial in a well-informed London paper," Mr. Keeley said, "which stated that England might have had peace any time within the preceding nine months by consenting to give Germany a free hand in Central and South America. I already had appointment with the British official in question, and I asked him whether any such proposal had been made to his Government. So far as he knew, he said, it had not been made in documentary form. But he said it had been made to him personally.

"This official then told me that just before the war started the German Ambassador in London had sought an appointment with him for a personal representative and close friend of the Kaiser. It was granted. The German had not conversed with the British official two minutes when he said:

"'Would it not be a good thing for your Government and my Government to block the evident design of the United States for a conquest in Mexico? I am ready to give you the highest official assurances that your country and my country would have no difficulty in arranging our respective spheres of influence in Mexico.' To this the British official replied: 'I had not known you were coming here for such a proposal. Neither I nor my Government has any desire to discuss the question. I now bid you good afternoon.'"

This remarkable proposal was known to officials of the British Government, Mr. Keeley stated, though he had not known that it had been talked of in Germany, the source of Mr. Gerard's information.

BILL TO BAR GERARD HONOR.

Senate Proposal to Forbid Acceptance of Foreign Titles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A bill that would prevent former Ambassador Gerard from accepting the Order of the Bath, recently conferred on him by King George, was introduced today by Senator Overman and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

It would prohibit any citizen of the United States from accepting any present, emolument, office or title from any King or foreign Government under penalty of a fine of $10,000 and forfeiture of citizenship.

The only prohibition of the kind existing now is constitutional, but it affects only persons holding office under the United States.

said there were 300 in the delegation. A count showed 152 persons who got on the train.

The council issued a long statement last night in which it said in part:

"The Constituent Asesmbly of the People's Council of America, barred from convening on Sept. 1 in Minneapolis by the drastic edict of Governor Burnquist of Minnesota, later invited to meet in Fargo, N. D., by Governor Frazier, will be held in Hudson, Wis.

"This change in plans was telegraphed to the headquarters of the People's Council, 2 West Thirteenth Street, yesterday by Louis P. Lochner, Executive Secretary of the council, shortly after the special peace train bearing 300 delegates to the assembly had left at 2:30 o'clock from the Weehawken station of the West Shore Railroad.

"At Hudson, which is about an hour's ride from Minneapolis, and which lies across the river from St. Paul, the biggest hall, the Arena, has been engaged for the Constituent Assembly. This hall seats nearly 7,000 persons. An additional hall has also been engaged to be used as a second meeting place."

While it was still supposed that the council's dove of peace would have a resting place, perhaps, at Fargo, the National Security League took steps to combat its influence. The league made public the following telegram received yesterday from Tom Parker Judkin, editor of The Grand Forks (N. D.) Herald:

"This is an urgent appeal. People's Council propaganda centering in North Dakota. We need any assistance you can give. State Government strongly socialistic and in sympathy with propagandists. Local patriotic citizens appeal to you for aid of any kind at once, publicity, literature giving information on personnel, &c. Can you get notable speakers here soon?"

In reply the league sent Mr. Judkin this telegram:

"Glad to respond to your appeal. Fully appreciate your situation. Information will promptly follow. S. Stanwood Menken, President of the National Security League, will, if you wish it and can arrange a meeting conveniently, go to Fargo or Grand Forks and speak Saturday night, Sept. 8."

The American Defense Society yesterday sent this telegram to Governor Burnquist of Minnesota:

"The American Defense Society has read with great satisfaction your masterful edict directing all peace officers within your State to prevent the holding of the meetings of the People's Council. This is unquestionably a step in the right direction, and the society wishes to commend the courage and wisdom of your prompt action in stamping out treason, sedition, and disloyalty, which will no doubt serve as a precedent in other States of the Union."

The Labor Loyalty Conference managers spent yesterday regretting that they were not to clash at close quarters with the council, and kill its claim of the right to represent 2,000,000 working people of the United States. The Conference Committee refused to take seriously the statement of the council leaders that they would gather in Hudson, or, at least, thinking they might find themselves again mistaken, sent a message last night to Governor Burnquist asking him to let the pacifists meet in their circus tent next to the Minneapolis Zoo. The telegram, which was signed by the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy, of which Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, is Chairman, follows:

"So-called People's Council special left New York, destination undecided. We realize menace of this organization, but are anxious to meet them face to face in the open and fight it out. We believe they should be given no color of excuse for crying suppression of free speech and are anxious for you to permit them to meet in Minneapolis, at least until their utterances actually become treasonable.

"Democracy need not fear the arguments, so called, of this aggregation. Will it not be possible to let these people know before they reach Chicago, traveling via New York Central, that they may meet in Minneapolis, as planned?

"This organization earnestly asks you to reconsider your decision, appreciating that you acted in the belief that you were serving the cause of America. Proper policing should prevent disorder, and it would be of great value to meet face to face, putting before the public the cause of America against the cause of pro-Germanism. We have nothing to fear from open argument. Only secret plottings we need fear."

The alliance, which had agents watching the departure of the pacifists, issued a statement last night, saying that the pilgrimage was doomed from the start.

"The pacifist pro-German propaganda of the so-called People's Council stands convicted on its own showing," the statement said. "It was a sorry show when they left, without music or enthusiasm. They managed to scrape together a bare sixty-six men and women for their intended talkfest 'somewhere in the West'—for they don't even know where they are bound. Perhaps the best indication of the spirit of the whole thing was the fact that the first thing to reach the West Shore Station was a package of Emma Goldman's anarchistic literature containing copies of 'Mother Earth.'

"The pacifists had months and months in which to prepare, and their going, from the point of view of public interest, was a flat failure. It is significant that many of their leaders backed out at the last moment.

"With practically only ten days' time, the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy has arranged for the transportation of many times the number who accompanied these anti-American soapboxers on their illusory quest for peace at any price. Our conference will open in Minneapolis next Wednesday, and the response from men and women eager to make the trip in the interest of labor and loyalty may cause us to enlarge our special train."

The patriotic delegates will leave Grand Central Terminal at noon Sunday. There will be an elaborate program marking the departure.

Underwear Makers Are Busy.

Considerable buying activity is reported from the women's underwear trade at prices which mount higher almost from day to day. As compared with last year this time, the volume of business done for late Fall and early Winter is unusually good, in spite of the higher prices. The manufacturers are fairly well caught up on their Fall deliveries, and expect soon to be in a good position to handle future business.

Expect Larger Garment Business.

Retailers here feel that the increased participation of women in the country's commercial life, due to the withdrawal of men for the various branches of the army and navy, will undoubtedly be reflected in a larger demand for women's clothing of the middle and higher grades, as has proved to be the case in England since the outbreak of the war. "The first thing to which a woman turns," said an executive of one store, "the moment she has a little money to spare, is clothes. The increased demand should begin to make itself felt in the late Fall and Winter business. Better wages for women who have been working for years also will help to increase sales."

Jewelry Sales Continue Good.

Reports from the jewelry trade continue to tell of good business, not only on the cheaper and medium-priced goods, but on the expensive diamond and platinum pieces as well. The general situation was summed up in the remark of a leading manufacturer to the effect that there was no reason why a skilled workman should be unemployed at this time. While stock patterns in rings, brooches, chains, lorgnettes, &c., are all selling well in both gold and platinum, not a little of the high-class business is being done on special orders. Platinum itself continues to show no change in price.

Japanese Silks Are Firmer.

Late reports from Yokohama indicate a hardening of prices there, the gain ranging from $5 to $10 a picul. Tram stock appears firmer than the other sorts. Cable difficulties are again hampering business. Canton reports a fifth crop of 8,000 bales, with holders firm in their views and the advanced cost of silver keeping prices at high levels. The Shanghai market is very strong, according to H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city. Large sales of steam filatures are told of for American account at high prices, and it is estimated that two-thirds of the season's production of these silks is now under order. Tussahs are more active and advancing. Milan is very firm, with the European demand about absorbing the production. While some good buying has been done here of late, for the most part the trade is in a halting condition.

Expensive Goods Sell Best.

In spite of abnormally high prices, manufacturers of children's wear report a much stronger demand for goods of the higher grades than for their lower-priced garments. "Retailers from all over the country," said a trade leader yesterday, "seem inclined to ignore completely the lower grades when placing their orders for Fall and Winter deliveries. While the reason for this is not known definitely, it may be due to the fact that more fancy designs and novelty trimmings are seen in the higher-priced goods. These may appear to the retailer's customers to make up somewhat for the difference in price over last year, whereas in the cheaper garments the advances may require considerable explaining."

Keeps an Index of Sizes.

There is a well-known retail shoe concern in this city that makes a point of never letting a customer get away without leaving his or her name and address. This information is jotted down on cards, together with the size of the shoes purchased, the price paid for them, and the date of sale. Not only does this automatically build up a valuable mailing list for the store, but it often makes possible the selling of shoes by mail that otherwise could not be done. A customer, for instance, might write from some resort for a pair of shoes without giving the size, or giving it wrong. The card checks this up. Often it clears up any doubt there may be as to size in cases where the lining of an old shoe is so stained that the size mark cannot be seen.

Silverware Prices Go Up.

As a result of the steady rise in silver, predictions are heard in the Maiden Lane district that the metal will touch $1 an ounce in the not far distant future. Makers of plated and sterling wares are governing themselves accordingly. Already leading lines have been put up in price, but the advances made so far are said to be lower than warranted by the present cost of silver. As for business, predictions are made that 1917 will prove the best year in the history of the trade. While the advanced prices will play some part in swelling the dollars and cents total, it is contended that the actual volume of merchandise being sold is larger than heretofore. Not only are the retailers now in this market buying well, in spite of the higher prices, but orders are coming in "in bunches" from the men on the road.

Gray Goods Orders Lacking.

Trading was almost entirely absent from the local gray goods market yesterday. Several of the leading houses closed at 1 o'clock, and those that remained open did not do enough business "to wad a gun." Morning sales also were very light, and consequently prices on all kinds of gray merchandise were largely nominal for the day. Printcloths closed this way:

POLICE GUARD SHOEMAKERS

Attempt to Call Out Men Working on Army Contract Fails.

Under the protection of a strong guard of police from the Hunter's Point precinct, work on the big contracts for supplying the new American Army with shoes proceeded without interruption yesterday at the Rosenwasser Brothers factory on Orchard Street, Long Island City. An effort to interrupt the operation of the plant by strikers who have within the last week affiliated themselves with the United Shoe Workers of America seems to have failed. Officials of the company said that they had 2,500 men and women at work, and appearances about the factory bore out their assertions. At noontime the workers went to nearby lunchrooms under the protection of the police, and large shipments of finished goods also left under the same protection.

The strikers established headquarters in a building a block from the factory, and many of them did picket duty, but owing to the vigilance of the police there was no disorder.

"The strikers are giving out wrong information about our establishment," said Philip Rosenwasser, a member of the firm, last night. "Skilled workmen in the factory make from $75 to $96 a week. The minimum wage for skilled laborers is $25 a week. Of course unskilled laborers make less. We discharged seventy of the troublemakers among our employes, and about fifty quit in sympathy. Their places have been filled."

Beyond the statement that they were gaining accessions to their ranks, the strikers had nothing to give out.

A Remunerative Use of Money

War conditions have caused many of the strongest corporations to place on the market short time bonds and notes. Many of these securities are selling to yield from 6 to 7%. They are considered sound, have good markets and present unusual opportunities for a conservative and remunerative use of money.

We will, on request, be glad to make specific suggestions.

Stocks Give Way in a Violent Selling Movement at Close of Short Session.

The two-hour session on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday, abbreviated to allow brokers and their employes to participate in the ceremonies incident to the preparations for the departure of the Federalized militia, promised until the second hour to be an unimportant affair. There were few selling orders in the hands of brokers at the opening, and prices of some of the leading issues made small gains at the outset. Near the end of the first hour, with transactions running in small volume, the trend was only slightly downward, but the aspect of the market underwent a violent change soon afterwards, when a selling raid engineered by professional traders sent prices toppling in one of the most sensational declines that has been witnessed since last December. The market was caught with few supporting orders, and the effect of the short selling was heightened by a wave of liquidation as margin accounts became endangered. Led by Steel, Bethlehem and United States Industrial Alcohol the whole list gave way in a violent slump that resulted in new low prices for the year in numerous issues. The break was partly checked before the close, with a sudden recovery in a few of the weak issues, but Steel, the most active stock on the board and the leader in the selling attendant upon the discussions in Washington on the excess profits tax, closed the session at 116¼, its lowest price for the day and 3¼ points under Wednesday's last figure. Alcohol, after selling down 7½ points, closed off 4¼; Baldwin lost 2¾, Bethlehem B 2⅜, Republic 2⅛ and Texas Company 8.

Yesterday's wide break, coming on the heels of other successive declines, would not have been considered important had it been satisfactorily explained on the ground of a bear drive calculated to catch the market napping while there was but a small attendance in the brokerage houses. The accompanying liquidation gave the decline a deeper significance. It represented the cumulative dissatisfaction over the outlook for new revenue legislation which threatens to stifle business expansion. Cooler heads in Wall Street believe that Congress will see the danger that lies in trying to get all of the revenue in a single year that can be squeezed out of corporations and the individual taxpayer, and will modify the new revenue measure, but the prevailing sentiment at the moment is decidedly bearish on the outlook.

A forecast made by President Ripley on the future of the railroads was not encouraging. Mr. Ripley has always been inclined to take the least favorable view of the effect of Government regulation of the carriers, but, unfortunately for investors, he has been often right. In a Chicago interview he stated that, "I have never ceased to believe that Government ownership of the railroads is not merely a possibility, but a high probability. The way matters are going, the Government must step in and take charge, unless, meanwhile, some other means of saving the railroads is found."

The Exchange is to be open today, but closed tomorrow and Monday. The $4.25 dividend on Steel common comes off the stock today, but the expected short covering in anticipation of the payment did not materialize yesterday.

LONDON MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Money in Good Supply and Discount Rates Steady.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Money was in good supply and discount rates were steady today.

With the underwriters taking 58 per cent. of the Commonwealth loan, which was quoted at ⅝ discount, gilt-edged securities were inclined to dullness, though the war loan was unchanged. Industrials were the most active, munition shares being leading features. Russian issues were weak on the unfavorable exchange situation and the quotation touched 265 roubles for £10. Silver mines and foreign rails were in good demand, but American securities were neglected.

The banks are buying November bills, and this creates a belief that no new loan will be issued by the Government this year.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Trading on the Bourse was quiet today. Three per cent. rentes were quoted at 62 francs 25 centimes for cash, and the 5 per cent. loan at 87 francs 90 centimes. Exchange on London was quoted at 27 francs 18 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Why Prices Go Down.

Wall Street is not laughing behind the frown with which it regards the haphazard progress of the new war tax measure. It knows no more than the general public what final form that will take, but it is not waiting for passage of the bill to discount its expected effect on earnings left for dividend distribution. If a new tax equivalent to $20 a share is to be laid upon the Steel Corporation, the trader believes that Steel is worth $20 a share less. As it happens the price has dropped just 20 points since the high of May 31. It is quite probable that the Street will take counsel of its fears rather than its judgment and carry the movement too far, but the subsequent rebound, in taking care of that, will supply the impetus for a new upward swing.

Book Surplus and Cash.

The stockholder will never understand why a corporation reporting each year a profit and loss surplus of many millions has to go into the market for funds whenever a sudden need arises for new capital. "The money is in the treasury," he reasons. "Why not draw upon it?" But as a rule the surplus is not represented by cash in the company's treasury. The money has been earned, but it has gone back into new buildings, equipment and raw material. The impelling motive back of the Bethlehem financing was the necessity for providing millions to pay the Government's new excess profits tax. So it is with many other prosperous corporations, which have millions on the right side of their balance sheets, but no money that can be spared to pay the expected new tax levy. The Steel Corporation, Union Pacific, Standard Oil and a very few other large corporations make a practice of carrying large bank balances, but the rule is to reinvest profits in plants. Money so used pays larger returns than the interest that would accrue if it were carried in banks.

The price of commercial bar silver advanced yesterday 1 cent, selling at 90¾ cents an ounce. This is a new high record for the present upward movement, and is the highest price since 1891. In the London market, silver touched 46 pence, an upturn of ½ pence.

Moving Plants Around the World.

The current number of The Iron Age has a remarkable story which shows what business enterprise can do under the stimulus of war necessities. Nothing less than a world war, probably, would have made it profitable to pack up an entire blast-furnace plant and all its machinery, and ship it bodily as far as India. This is precisely what is being done with the Battelle furnace plant at Battelle, Ala. The furnace, eighty-five feet high, with hoist, power plant, stoves, boiler plant, &c., is being dismantled, and will soon be on the seas, bound for Tata, India, where it will be erected again and set to work. If one could endow a blast furnace with a personality, as Kipling has endowed locomotives, this one may well be imagined to be somewhat amazed at its own adventures.

Gold to South America.

Gold bars to the amount of $1,000,000 were withdrawn yesterday from the Assay Office for shipment to Chile, and $1,000,000 for shipment to Peru. The Sub-Treasury yesterday transferred another $1,600,000 to San Francisco in connection with the exportation of an equal amount of gold to Japan. It was said that institutions making these exports had advised the Federal Reserve Bank of New York of the transactions.

New Clearing House Records.

Two new records were established by the New York Clearing House on Wednesday. The net balances from the day's clearings amounted to $133,761,391, the highest ever reported; and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had a credit balance of $116,228,039, also a record high figure. The large credit balance of the Federal Bank was due to the payments made the previous day for the purchase of the 3½ per cent. Treasury certificates of indebtedness, the banks in this district taking more than half of the $250,000,000 issue. The Reserve Bank's credit balance compares with $115,701,136 on Aug. 10, the day following payments for a previous issue of Treasury certificates and payments for $100,000,000 of Canadian Government notes. On that day the net balances amounted to $127,736,879, a record only broken this Wednesday. It is interesting to note that while the Federal Reserve Bank had a credit balance of more than $116,000,000, its messenger brought from the Clearing House only about $3,000,000, the bulk of the "credit balance" being transferred to the Reserve Bank by bookkeeping entries. Under the old system, it would have been necessary for the debtor banks to send over $133,761,391 to the Clearing House and messengers of the creditor banks would have been obliged to carry to their institutions the same amount. In other words, that large sum of money would have to have been carried through the streets twice. All of the member banks now settle their balance through the Reserve Bank and some of the non-members do likewise.

Destroyers or Freighters?

Shipping men and shipbuilders at present are much interested in the controversy, or at least potential controversy, between Secretary of the Navy Daniels and the Emergency Fleet Corporation, which had slumbered since the early days of General Goethals's régime, but which shows signs of reviving since Mr. Daniels has announced his immense destroyer program. The submarine chasers, for which the Navy Department originally planned, did not interfere with the merchant shipbuilding program, because they were all to be built in small boat yards which could do nothing else. But destroyers are another matter. With every rolling mill in the United States needed to turn out plates, and every pneumatic riveter needed to fasten them together, to carry out the Emergency Fleet Corporation's program, it is plain that Mr. Daniels cannot suddenly increase his order for destroyers without treading on some one's toes. That his immediate competitor is a retired Chief Constructor of the Navy, and theoretically at least, still Mr. Daniels's subordinate, adds to the complications. Shipbuilders, with their yards busy night and day on Government work, have no personal reason to care whether it is for the Navy Department or the Emergency Fleet Corporation, but as citizens they are beginning to wonder if the President will have to step in again.

Decline in Rubles Continues.

Ruble exchange continues to decline, new low records being made daily. Yesterday, the demand rate dropped to 18.25 cents, compared with 18.40 on Wednesday and a decline of 2¼ cents since Saturday. Bankers are divided as to the reason for the violent depreciation of Russian exchange and the likelihood of improvement in the situation. Some belittle the significance of fluctuations, and say that transactions are so small as not to count for anything, while others attribute the weakness to speculative activities, and to the unfavorable news of conditions in the new republic. It is believed that the decline in rubles has been in a measure due to the non-support of Russian exchange by the Allied Governments, and to the fact that the English, French and Japanese interests have been selling rubles in this market. Yesterday's rate of 18¼ cents compares with a parity of 51½ cents.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

William G. Shaible, Chairman of Group V of the New York State Bankers Association, and formerly Vice President and Treasurer of the Citizens Trust Company of Schenectady, N. Y., has been elected Treasurer of the Chase Securities Corporation, which is owned by stockholders of the Chase National Bank of New York. Mr. Shaible will assume his new duties on Sept. 5.

Directors of the Chemical National Bank, in addition to electing Colonel Percy H. Johnston of Louisville, Ky., First Vice President and Director, have elected to the Vice Presidency Francis Halpin, the Cashier, and I. B. Hopper, the Assistant Cashier. Edward H. Smith, an Assistant Cashier, was appointed Cashier and John B. Dodd and Samuel T. Jones were named Assistant Cashiers.

R. L. Day & Co. have bought from the City of Salem, Mass., $45,000 of 4½ per cent. water pipe loan bonds at 100.11. The firm has also purchased $200,000 of 4¼ per cent. street pavement bonds of the City of New Haven, Conn., at 102.39.

The Bankers Trust Company, as trustee, has invited offers up to Sept. 10 for ten-year sinking fund gold bonds of the National Conduit and Cable Company, Inc.

Preferred stockholders of the Electric Bond and Share Company have been notified that they will be allowed to subscribe to one share of new preferred stock for each eight shares of preferred now held. Subscription will be at par, $100, the total amount being 10,000 shares.

The New York Stock Exchange announces the following substitutes of members: Proposed—Frederick W. Klein, in place of Colgate Hoyt, Jr., of Colgate, Hoyt & Co. Authorized—Franklin B. Wilson in place of James F. Pierce of Chauncey & Co., William Heyward Drayton, 3d, in place of Emlen M. Drayton of Drayton, Penington & Colket.

R. H. Lansdale has been elected Vice President of the American Malting Company, succeeding Stephen J. Leonard, resigned. Ansel Phelps has resigned as a Director.

Paine, Webber & Co. have issued a booklet on the financial history and present position of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

The New York Stock Exchange has ruled that the preferred stock of the Cuba Railroad Company was sold ex-dividend of $3 a share yesterday. The dividend is payable Aug. 31 to holders of record on that date.

The American International Corporation has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, payable Sept. 29 to holders of record Sept. 15. The Directors have voted an additional call of $10 per share, payable Oct. 15 by stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 10. After the payment of this call, 60 per cent. of the capital stock will have been paid in.

Convenience

The merchant who selects for his bank one that is located near his business gains three advantages: time is saved; risk of loss by messenger is minimized; he can more easily confer personally with the Officers of his bank.

In addition to its central location in the up-town wholesale district the Garfield National Bank,—a mercantile bank, strictly—offers to merchants a service especially adapted to mercantile needs.

THE COTTON MARKET

After Nervous Session Close Is Steady, Net 6 Points Higher to 4 Lower.

The cotton market yesterday showed continued nervousness and irregularity. There was some Liverpool selling, supposed to be against spot purchases in the South. Otherwise, business was considered chiefly in the way of further evening-up for over today's Government crop report and the approaching three days' holiday. At times covering was quite active, and an early break was followed by a sharp rally, with December contracts selling up from 22.06 to 22.42, but the advances were lost in the late trading and the close was steady, net 6 points higher to 4 points lower. October contracts were relatively steady, being the only active month to show an advance at the close, and there seemed to be a little trade buying of that position.

Three more private condition reports were issued during the morning. One of them made the condition 68.2 and another 69.6, with both these reports indicating a deterioration of 3.7 per cent. for the month. The third report, compiled by a New Orleans authority, however, placed the condition at 70.5, and, comparing it with last month's official figures, pointed to a slight improvement for the month. The nine reports published during the last few days have averaged 69 per cent., against 72.7 last month. A canvass of local exchange members indicated an average expectation that the Government report today would show a condition of 67.9, compared with last month's report of 70.3 and the ten-year average of 70.9 for Aug. 25.

The early selling movement may have been encouraged to some extent by the more bearish of the private crop reports, but offerings were not badly taken at the decline, and as soon as offerings tapered off shorts turned for cover on an idea that the market had been pretty well evened up. From a net loss of about 7 to 14 points, the market rallied to a net gain of 19 to 25 points, but sold off to about the early low level during the late trading under renewed liquidation.

Exports for the day were 1,929 bales, making 328,167 bales so far this season.

BIG PROFITS IN FERTILIZER.

American Agricultural Chemical Co. Reports $5,546,355.

The annual report of the American Agricultural Chemical Company for the fiscal year ended June 30, issued yesterday, shows net profits of $5,546,355, an increase of $100,828 over the previous year. After the payment of dividends on the preferred amounting to $1,655,067, there was a balance of $3,891,288 available for the $18,430,900 common stock, an increase of $99,258 over the previous twelve months. This is equivalent to $21.11 a share on the common compared with $20.50 a year ago.

In his remarks to stockholders, President Peter B. Bradley says:

"With a rigid embargo placed on potash salts by the German Government early in the war, prices for potash rose over 100 per cent., nitrate of soda and sulphuric acid appreciated from 100 per cent. to 300 per cent., while fuel, labor, machinery, and other supplies rose to new levels. As a result, the whole industry became disorganized, necessitating a radical readjustment of prices to the higher costs of production, as well as many changes in the composition of mixed fertilizers, especially as to their content of potash, a normal supply of which was absolutely unobtainable at any price. Not only was the market for raw materials abnormal but it was extremely unstable as well, making it difficult and even hazardous to name prices on manufactured products for future delivery.

"The past fiscal year has brought no relief to these exceptional conditions, but the enormous demand for food crops and cotton, brought about by the exigencies of war, has greatly stimulated the demand for fertilizers, so that there was no difficulty in selling all the manufactured fertilizers which were available last Spring, though a still further rise in prices of raw materials, freights, insurance, &c., found the company's selling prices toward the end of the season out of line with the cost of production."

P. R. R. to Care for Employes' Bonds

More than 53,000 employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad who subscribed to the Liberty Loan need not worry about finding a safe place for their bonds. James F. Fahnestock, the Treasurer, announced yesterday that arrangements had been made for the company acting as custodian. Interest will be collected for the employes as it falls due June 15 and Dec. 15 of each year and will be added to the pay rolls. About 10 per cent. of the $3,500,000 of bonds subscribed have been paid in full, and the remainder were purchased under a partial payment plan.

WHEAT.

The wheat trade is still awaiting a price from the Government. Northwest advices said many farmers are storing wheat in the granaries on their farms until such announcement is made, and the situation is so unsettled that country elevators are able to buy but little wheat because of the great risk in handling. A Broomhall cable said new Argentine wheat for January shipment was quoted at $1.15⅝. On Sept. 1 the Chicago Board of Trade will discontinue quotation wire service on grain futures from Kansas City, Winnipeg, Minneapolis, Duluth, and St. Louis. The Produce Exchange here adjourned at noon yesterday on account of the military parade, and will be closed on Saturday, although the reading room will be open for those having wires with the Chicago Board of Trade, which will also be open on that day. No. 2 red wheat here was quoted at $2.25, and No. 2 hard $2.27, both cost, insurance and freight New York.

CORN.

There was some irregularity in the corn market during the first hour, prices advancing ½c over the close and then declining a cent quite rapidly on news of weakness in the stock market, but this was all regained and the market left off very firm, with prices ⅞c to 1c net higher. Private advices said that in North Dakota the corn yield will be light, as it has not eared properly, but that the crop would be very valuable for fodder. Other reports said the condition of the crop in Minnesota and South Dakota is fairly satisfactory. The cash market here was firm, with No. 2 yellow quoted at $2.05 and No. 2 mixed $2.01, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

There was an increase of export buying in oats yesterday, with sales reported of about 700,000 bushels. There was also a good cash demand at the West, with light country offerings, which advanced September contracts 1¼c, against ¾c to 1c rise in later positions. The country sold very little oats to Chicago over night and consignments were again light, although this was partly due to the fact that other points had outbid Chicago. Cash markets were generally firm and higher in the West and were locally quoted as follows: Standard, 69c; No. 2 white, 69½c; No. 3 white, 68c; No. 4 white, 67c; fancy clipped white, 72@74c; ordinary clipped white, 70@72c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market continued strong on further advances in hogs and intimations of more foreign buying and support from packers. Prices advanced throughout the day and closed at top, with only moderate offerings, which were well absorbed. Only 7,000 hogs were received at Chicago, with a similar amount expected on Friday. Kansas City and Omaha each had 3,000 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Following the advance in lard, there was a strong upturn in the cottonseed oil market early in the session, which was not fully sustained in later trading, although the close at 11:45 o'clock was still 7 to 16 points net higher. Total sales were 8,000 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market showed a somewhat steadier tone yesterday, selling about 5 to 10 points above Wednesday's closing figures, and closing at a net advance of 5 to 7 points. Sales were reported of 28,750 bags. The market opened at an advance of 2 points, with September selling at 7.50c and May at 8.16c. Closing prices were a shade off from the best under realizing. The local spot market was quiet, with quotations on the basis of 9⅛c for Rio 7s and 10⅛c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The market for refined sugar was quiet and prices were unchanged at 8.40@8.50c for fine granulated. Some of the leading refiners were closed half a day, with the Federal closed all day, owing to the military parade. Early in the day September Cubas were offered at 6c, cost and freight, with no takers. It was thought bids fractionally below this level would be considered, but no firm bids were in the market. Spot quotations were nominally unchanged, as follows: Centrifugal, 7.02c; molasses, 6.14c, cost and freight, 6c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 7,360 packages. Rather more buying interest and a little firmer tone on the finer marks of fresh creamery. Secondary grades are firm, with occasional sales of a fractional advance over previous quotations. Renovated in sellers' favor. Ladles sparingly offered and firm. Packing stock very strong. Creamery, higher than extras, per lb., 43¼@44c; extras, 92 score, 43c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 41¼@42¾c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 39½@41c; thirds, 38@39c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 44½@45c; extras, 43½@44c; firsts, 42@43c; seconds, 40@41½c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 42@42½c; good to prime, 40@41½c; common to fair, 36½@39½c; renovated, extras, 40½@41c; firsts, 39@40c; lower grades, 36½@38½c; imitation creamery, firsts, 38@38½c; ladles, current make, firsts, 37@37½c; seconds, 36@36½c; lower grades, 34@35½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 36@36½c; No. 2, 35½c; lower grades, 34@35c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 11,055 cases. Trade continues quiet, and the market has an irregular tone. Most receivers are holding strictly fine to fancy goods steady and are disposed to carry over rather than make any further concession. Storage eggs are less active and generally held with considerable confidence. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 44@45c; extra firsts, 42@43c; firsts, 39@41c; seconds, 36@38c; thirds and poorer, 32@35c; fresh gathered, dirties, No. 1, 34@35c; No. 2 and poorer, 26@33c; fresh gathered, checks, good to choice, dry, 31@32c; under grades, 25@30c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, storage and insurance paid, 39@39½c; firsts, storage and insurance paid, 38@38½c; seconds, storage and insurance paid, 36@37½c; refrigerator, State, white, 41@43c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 51@54c; ordinary to good, gathered, whites, good to fine, 42@50c; poor to fair, 36@40c; Western and Southern, gathered, whites, 36@46c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 46@49c; gathered, brown and mixed colors, 36@45c.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CORPORATION.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of Bethlehem Steel Corporation will be held at its principal and registered office, No. 763 Broad Street, in the City of Newark, in the State of New Jersey, on Friday, SEPTEMBER 14, 1917, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for the following purposes:

1. To take action upon a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors of said Corporation, declaring it advisable to amend its Certificate of Incorporation as amended February 17, 1917, by changing Article Fourth thereof to read as specified below and upon the amendments, changes, or alterations stated therein:

FOURTH.—The amount of the total authorized capital stock of the corporation is One hundred and thirty-five million dollars, ($135,000,000.) The number of shares into which the capital stock is divided is One million three hundred and fifty thousand, (1,350,000,) consisting of Three hundred thousand (300,000) shares of Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, One hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) shares of Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock, One hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) shares of Common Stock, and Seven hundred and fifty thousand (750,000) shares of Class B Common Stock. The par value of each share is One hundred dollars, ($100.) Three hundred thousand (300,000) shares of said Class B Common Stock shall be reserved and set aside for exchanges for said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock as hereinafter provided, and shall not be used for any other purpose, except when and as shares of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be redeemed and cancelled by the corporation as hereinafter provided, and then only to the amount of such stock so redeemed.

The amount of capital stock with which the corporation shall commence business is One hundred thousand dollars, ($100,000,) consisting of Six hundred and sixty-six (666) shares of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and Three hundred and thirty-four (334) shares of Common Stock.

(a) The holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared by the Board of Directors, dividends from the surplus of the corporation or from the net profits arising from its business, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum and no more, from October 1, 1917, payable quarterly on dates to be fixed by the By-Laws of the corporation or by resolution of its Board of Directors. Such dividends shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon, or set apart for, the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock or the Common Stock or the Class B Common Stock of the corporation, and shall be cumulative, so that if in any quarterly dividend period dividends at the rate of eight per cent. per annum shall not have been paid upon, or set apart for, the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, the deficiency shall be fully paid or set apart for payment, before any dividends shall be paid upon, or set apart for, the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock or the Common Stock or the Class B Common Stock. Whenever full cumulative dividends upon the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock for all previous quarterly dividend periods shall have been paid and the full installment for the then current quarterly dividend period shall have been paid, or declared and a sum sufficient for the payment thereof set apart, the Board of Directors may declare dividends out of the then remaining surplus or net profits of the corporation on the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and, subject to the restrictions hereinafter set forth, on the Common Stock and the Class B Common Stock.

(b) Any holder of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock may, at any time, exchange all or any of the shares of said stock held by him for shares of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation, share for share, by surrender to the corporation of the certificate or certificates representing said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so to be exchanged and payment of the sum of Fifteen dollars ($15) for each share of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so to be exchanged, and, upon such surrender and payment, shall be entitled to receive therefor one or more certificates for a like aggregate number of shares of said Class B Common Stock; provided, however, that in case any of said Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock shall be called for redemption in the exercise of the privilege hereinafter provided for, said right of exchange shall expire in respect of the stock so called for redemption sixty days after the mailing and first publication of the redemption call. Upon any such exchange the certificates of the Eight Per Cent Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so surrendered shall be canceled. None of such stock so exchanged shall be reissued without the affirmative vote of the holders of two-thirds of each class of the capital stock of the corporation having voting powers who shall be represented in person or by proxy at a meeting of its stockholders called for the purpose of taking action in respect thereof. On any such exchange a cash adjustment shall be made in respect of dividends upon the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock represented by the certificate or certificates so surrendered and upon the Class B Common Stock so to be issued in exchange therefor, all under suitable regulations to be prescribed from time to time by resolution of the Board of Directors of the corporation. For the purposes of such adjustment, dividends upon the Class B Common Stock so to be issued shall be deemed to have accrued for the elapsed portion of the current quarterly dividend period for Class B Common Stock at the rate of the regular quarterly dividend last declared upon Class B Common Stock. Except in the case of Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock called for redemption as in this Certificate provided, said right of exchange shall not be exercised while the books for the transfer of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock or of the Class B Common Stock shall be closed; provided, however, that such right shall not in any case be so suspended for a period longer than thirty days.

(c) The outstanding Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock may be redeemed in whole or from time to time in amounts of not less than ten thousand shares, at any time after three years from the issue thereof, on any quarterly dividend payment date, at the option of the corporation, on not less than ninety nor more than one hundred days' notice to the holders of record of said stock given by mail and by publication in such manner as may be prescribed by the By-Laws of the corporation or by resolution of its Board of Directors, by the payment in cash for each share of stock so to be redeemed of One hundred and fifteen (115) per cent. of the par amount thereof and in addition thereto all dividends accumulated and unpaid thereon. If less than all the outstanding shares of said stock are to be redeemed, such redemption shall be made pro rata and in such manner as may be prescribed by resolution of the Board of Directors. From and after the date fixed in any such notice as the date of redemption (unless default shall be made by the corporation in providing moneys for the payment of the redemption price) all dividends on the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so called for redemption shall cease to accrue, and all rights of the holders of record thereof as stockholders of the corporation, except the right to receive the redemption price, shall cease and determine. The Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock so called for redemption may be exchanged by the holder thereof in accordance with the provisions of the foregoing paragraph (b) of this Article Fourth into Class B Common Stock of the corporation, at any time within sixty days after the mailing and first publication of the notice of the redemption call.

(d) After full dividends upon the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, as in this Certificate specified, for all previous quarterly dividend periods shall have been paid and the full installment for the then current quarterly dividend period shall have been paid, or declared and a sum sufficient for the payment thereof set apart, the holders of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock shall be entitled, out of any and all surplus or net profits which shall remain, to receive non-cumulative dividends whenever the same shall be declared by the Board of Directors, at the rate of, but not exceeding, seven per cent. per annum for each and every fiscal year, before any dividend for such fiscal year shall be declared, set apart for or paid upon the Common Stock or the Class B Common Stock of the corporation.

(e) After all dividend requirements in respect of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, as in this Certificate specified, shall have been complied with, and after a dividend of seven per cent. shall have been declared, set apart for, or paid upon the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock for any fiscal year, all dividends which may be declared for that fiscal year from any remaining surplus or net profits shall be payable ratably to the holders of the Common Stock and of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation.

(f) In the event of the dissolution or liquidation of the corporation, whether voluntary or involuntary, the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock then outstanding shall be entitled to receive out of the assets of the corporation the par value of their respective shares, and, in the case of the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock, an amount which will be equal to the dividends accumulated and unpaid thereon, before any payment shall be made to the holders of the Common Stock or of the Class B Common Stock of the corporation. If upon such dissolution or liquidation the assets of the corporation distributable as aforesaid among the holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock shall be insufficient to permit full payment to them respectively of said amounts, then the entire assets of the corporation shall be distributed ratably among the holders of said two classes of stock according to the amounts which they respectively shall be entitled to receive as hereinbefore provided. After payment in full of said amounts to the holders of said two classes of stock, the remaining assets and funds of the corporation shall be divided and paid ratably to the holders of the Common Stock and of the Class B Common Stock.

(g) The respective shares of the Seven Per Cent. Non-Cumulative Preferred Stock and the Common Stock shall entitle the respective holders thereof to like voting powers. The holders of the Eight Per Cent. Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock and of the Class B Common Stock shall not have any voting power in respect thereof.

2. To authorize the Board of Directors of said Corporation to issue the $30,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock, at any time and from time to time, as it shall deem proper, and to issue, or to authorize the officers of said Corporation to issue, from time to time, the proposed $30,000,000 of increased Class B Common Stock in exchange for said Convertible Preferred Stock upon the terms set forth in the proposed amendment; and

3. To transact such other business as may lawfully come before said meeting, or any adjournment thereof.

In order to insure the sale of the $30,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock said Corporation has entered into an agreement with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Bankers Trust Company and Messrs. J. & W. Seligman & Co. for the formation of a syndicate to underwrite the subscription for said stock, said bankers to receive as compensation for forming the syndicate an amount equal to one and one-half per cent. upon the par value of said $30,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock and the syndicate (in which said bankers may participate) to receive as compensation for their undertaking an amount equal to five per cent. upon the par value of said $30,000,000 of proposed Convertible Preferred Stock, less an amount equal to two per cent. upon the par value of such of said stock as the syndicate shall not be required to take.

Mr. Nelson Dean Jay, one of the directors of said Bethlehem Steel Corporation, who is a Vice President of, and a stockholder in, said Guaranty Trust Company of New York, and Mr. Seward Prosser, another of said directors, who is President and a director of, and a stockholder in, said Bankers Trust Company, did not participate in the meeting at which action was taken in respect of the authorization of said agreement and the proposed amendment to said Certificate of Incorporation. Approval of said agreement will be asked at said meeting.

The books for the transfer of the Preferred Stock and Common Stock of said Bethlehem Steel Corporation (but not for the Class B Common Stock, which does not have voting powers) will be closed at 3 o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, September 12, 1917, and, unless otherwise directed by said Corporation, will be reopened at 10 o'clock A. M. on the morning of the day following the day on which the stockholders' vote authorizing said increase of stock shall be taken.

Newark, New Jersey, August 29, 1917.

By order of the Board of Directors,
B. H. JONES, Secretary.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

In the final hour of the session on the Consolidated Exchange today the market gave way sharply. Trading had started with a lack of aggression, but the dealings enlarged heavily on the decline. More than 37,000 shares of United States Steel common were dealt in. All the steel stocks suffered more or less severe price losss.

ARMY JOURNAL SUSPENDS.

Lack of Money Halts Activities of Military Service Institution.

Brig. Gen. James M. Allison, U. S. A., Secretary of the Military Service Institution of the United States, who is also the editor of the Journal of the Institution, which for many years has been one of the best-known military publications, announced last night that the Journal would cease publication with the November-December issue. The Journal is published on Governors Island, and occupies a place in the American service similar to that held in the British service by the Journal of the Royal Military Institution.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood is the President of the Military Service Institution, and the Vice Presidents are Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan and Brig. Gen. George T. Bartlett of the Regular Army.

"The cause of the mischance," said General Allison last night, "is simple. The Treasurer announces that he has no more money to pay the printers."

ARGENTINE LOAN LAPSES.

Government Will Not Ask for More Time to Pay Our $11,000,000.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 30.—It is announced that the Argentine Government will not ask for a renewal of the $11,000,000 American loan, the term of which expires on Sept. 15.

The Government has decided that it will not enforce, in the case of a British cruiser, the neutrality regulation limiting to twenty-four hours the stay of a belligerent warship at a neutral port. This rule has already been abrogated by Argentina in favor of the United States.

SAYS 'JOKER' AIDED NEPONSIT REALTY CO.

TELLS OF BIG PROFIT MADE

Newly Acquired Evidence to be Presented to Grand Jury Investigating Rockaway Deal.

Evidence of how the Neponsit Realty Company, in which ex-Senator Reynolds, now under indictment for perjury, was interested at one time, profited at the expense of the city by means of a "joker" inserted in a bill in the Legislature was one of the things Assistant District Attorney Kilroe said he and Assistant District Attorney Turner obtained yesterday from an examination of official records. This, he said, would be presented to the extraordinary Grand Jury investigating the Rockaway Park and Coney Island deals when it convened again on Tuesday.

Mr. Kilroe said he learned that in 1908 the Neponsit Company tried to obtain from the State sixty-five acres of submerged land adjoining 250 acres which it owned near Rockaway. Remsen Johnson, the President of the company, he said, offered the Land Commissioners $2,000 for the piece of land, alleging that experts he had hired had appraised the property at $31 an acre, which the State Controller's appraisers after an examination of the land had valued at $200 an acre.

As a reason for wanting the property Mr. Remsen, according to the Assistant District Attorney's information, said that the company expected to develop the neighborhood, and that much of the submerged land would haveto be filled in because sewerage collected there.

In applications for the purchase of land owned by the State Mr. Kilroe said it was required by law to publish a notice for six weeks in one of the papers. In this instance the paper selected, he asserted, was The Richmond Hill Record, a small publication in Queens.

Further investigation disclosed, according to Mr. Kilroe, that while the application was pending in the Legislature in Albany a bill was introduced by Assemblyman Sargent giving the municipality all the land under water in Jamaica Bay to be used for harbor purposes. After the bill had passed the Assembly, Mr. Kilroe asserted, it was recalled by its sponsor and an amendment was added providing that the law did not affect land for the purchase of which application had been made prior to the date of introduction. This bill the records show passed the Senate.

An examination yesterday of the Queens County records made by Assistant District Attorney Black disclosed that the Neponsit Realty Company paid $200 an acre for the sixty-five acres. Despite the fact that the application blanks stipulate that the City of New York might, if it should desire, purchase back such lands at the selling price plus not more than $350, the records show, Mr. Black asserts, that the State Land Commissioners omitted this clause and unanimously granted the Neponsit Company's application after a number of hearings.

Assistant District Attorney Kilroe declared that the company only filled in fifteen acres and sold the remaining forty-seven acres to the city for $5,032 an acre. These forty-seven acres were included in the Seaside Park purchase.

Clark Jordan, attorney for Frank Bailey, Vice President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, who testified before another Grand Jury prior to the indictment of ex-Senator Reynolds, held a long conference yesterday with Assistant District Attorney Black. The nature of the conference could not be learned, Mr. Black refusing to discuss the visit of the attorney.

ACCUSED BANKER BACK.

William A. Kennedy, senior member of the defunct banking firm of Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. of 35 Wall Street, arrived here yesterday in custody of Detective John Cunniff of the District Attorney's staff, who arrested him at Havana on an indictment charging grand laceny of $300,000. The money, it is alleged, was given to him by clients for transmission to Hungary and other European countries.

The banker refused to make any statement until he had had an opportunity to confer with his attorneys. In the presence of Assistant District Attorney Francis X. Mancuso he expressed a willingness to aid the State in straightening out the affairs of his company.

According to Mr. Mancuso, Kennedy involved several prominent Wall Street men in his preliminary statements, declaring that they were responsible for his business thoubles. He is said to have told the Assistant District Attorney that when he attempted to get several deals through he found himself blocked by these men.

750,000 BIBLES FOR WAR.

American Society Providing Books for Soldiers and Sailors.

The American Bible Society has issued since May three-quarters of a million Bibles and single books in various forms and editions for American soldiers and sailors, it was announced yesterday. Its presses running sixteen hours a day still cannot keep up with the demand. It has now agreed to furnish to the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. 1,000,000 eighteen-cent Testaments, and has just signed contracts with responsible firms to produce these books.

By this agreement the Bible Society becomes responsible for furnishing a million Testaments, the Y. M. C. A for distributing them wisely. But the Bible Society has exhausted all its reserve funds, and must, therefore, now raise at once $180,000 by special gifts. To this amount must be added at least $50,000 to cover cost of the books already produced, and provisions must be made for future issues if the war continues.

Speyer & Co. Ask That an Additional Receiver Be Appointed.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 30.—Application for an additional receiver for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad was filed in the Federal District Court here today by Speyer & Co. of New York. Circuit Judge Hook will hear arguments on the petition in New York on Sept. 7.

The additional receiver is asked on the allegation that Charles E. Schaff, now the sole receiver, is favorable to the reorganization plan of Hallgarten & Co. and Seligman & Co. of New York. Speyer & Co. claim that this reorganization program makes too much of a curtailment in the fixed charges. The statement also is made in the petition that Mr. Schaff is inclined to take a too pessimistic view of the prospects of the road.

Speyer & Co. filed the petition as holders of $7,000,000 of two-year notes and a portion of the general mortgage bonds and of part of the first refunding fours. The fixed charges and sinking fund charges now aggregate $7,000,000 a year. It is stated that the reorganization plan of Hallgarten & Co. and Speyer & Co. cut the fixed charges to $3,800,000, while Speyer & Co. think they should be cut to $4,500,000.

Paris Papers Two Cents Tomorrow.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—An announcement issued by the Interministerial Press Commission says that by agreement with the Government the increase in the price of newspapers will be enforced strictly after Sept. 1. The newspapers affected are requested when publishing the commission's notice to add that the price of their papers has been raised from one to two cents.

GRAND BOULEVARD AND CONCOURSE, s e corner of 188th St, 91.8x87.11x irregular, all; John M. Ireland to Earl A. Metzger, 3 Broad St, Yonkers, and another, 5 years from Aug. 15, 1917; attorney, H. C. Knoepel, 5 Beekman St....$4,200

149TH ST, 382 East, show window space; John Counes & Sons, Inc., to Costas Sakelos, 921 St. Nicholas Av, from Oct. 1, 1916, to April 30, 1922; attorney, G. S. Wittson, 60 Wall St....$1,500

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

An important west Harlem trade, involving properties aggregating $185,000, that has been pending since last week, was closed yesterday by the estate of Theophile Kick, which sold to the Sexton Realty Company the Westdale, a six-story modern elevator apartment house, at 602 and 604 West 139th Street.

The structure occupies a plot, 75 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of Broadway, and is fully rented. In part payment the buyers gave the five-story flat, 8 West 115th Street, on a plot 25 by 100. The Sexton Realty Company acquired this property last month. Butler & Baldwin, in conjunction with Sharp & Co., negotiated the trade.

$9,000 in Mechanics' Liens Filed Against Lustgarten & Co.

Eight mechanics' liens, aggregating $9,000, were filed yesterday against Lustgarten & Co., Inc., on the property 119-125 West Twelfth Street. Among the largest claims are Reis & O'Donovan, $3,960; C. T. Willard Company, $1,450; Alonzo B. See, $1,470, and Samuel Epstein, Inc., $500. William Lustgarten, President of the Tax Lien Company of New York, who disappeared last week, has been doing considerable building and alteration work in the Greenwich Village and Chelsea sections during the last year. The lien company was placed in the hands of receivers last Saturday, and its affairs are reported to be badly tangled.

Two West Harlem Deals.

Marie Kahrs purchased for investment from the Mutual Development Company, 6 and 8 West 118th Street, two five-story tenements on a plot 50.6 by 100.11, located 125 feet west of Fifth Avenue.

Florence M. Coffin purchased the three-story private dwelling 804 St. Nicholas Avenue from Kate Hocher.

Bronx Sales.

J. Clarence Davies resold to an investor for Bertha Kleinberg a plot 50 by 100 on the west side of Paulding Avenue, 100 feet north of Mace Avenue. The seller purchased the plot at the auction sale of the Lorillard Spencer estate on June 2.

Hattie Lissberger sold to the Phillou Realty Company 594 to 598 Prospect Avenue, two five-story apartment houses, on a plot 81.10 by 100 by irregular.

A $50,000 Long Island Trade.

H. R. Williams & Son sold the two brick buildings at 3,313 and 3,315 Jamaica Avenue, occupied as stores and dwellings, for William H. Wade to an investor, who gave in part payment sixty lots located at Queens, north of the Hempstead Turnpike. The properties involved have been held at $50,000.

Brooklyn.

Walter S. Ross and C. C. Gretsinger sold for the Ovington Builders the one-family house 343 Eighty-second Street to a client for occupancy.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Sage Foundation Homes Company sold to G. F. Barnard of Brooklyn a plot 59 by 92 and dwelling on the north side of Greenway North, 115 feet west of Puritan Avenue, Forest Hills. The price is reported to be $20,000.

G. L. Weeks sold to N. O. Hickman of Bayside a plot 201 by 235 on the northeast corner of Vista and Bowne Avenues, Bayside. The plot has been taken for development.

The H. M. P. Co., Inc., of Brooklyn purchased from F. C. Royes a plot 100 by 100 on the west side of Maple Avenue, south of Millwood Avenue, Glendale, and prepared plans for the erection of dwellings.

Westchester County.

E. C. Griffin and P. H. Collins sold for Frank Cuce of Mamaroneck to Minnie Banks Dencker of Bayside, Long Island, a new stucco cottage and garage on Sound View Drive, Larchmont Park.

New Jersey.

James T. Barry sold to Mary Hebron property known as the Louis Harris farm, consisting of eighteen and three-quarter acres of land, substantial dwelling and outbuildings, located on the New Market-Stelton Road, Dunellen, Piscataway Township, New Jersey.

J. I. Kislak sold six parcels at prices aggregating $45,000, and including four lots, northeast corner of Anderson and Dell Places, North Bergen; 204-210 Eighteenth Street, 293 Griffith Street, and 241-243 South Street, Jersey City; 782 Van Wagenen Place, North Bergen, N. J., and 140 Garden Street, Hoboken.

William A. Hopping sold for Samuel G. Allen his estate on Sycamore Avenue, at Shrewsbury, N. J., consisting of about fourteen acres, cottage and outbuildings to Albert Motley of London, England.

Recent Buyers.

Ely Burneys is the buyer of 562 and 566 West 190th Street, and the Queen Mab Company is the buyer of 561 and 563 West 189th Street, apartment houses erected by the A. & K. Construction Company and sold through Nehring Brothers.

Louis Pfriender is the buyer of the lot 17.7 by 100 on the south side of 138th Street, 262.2 feet east of the Southern Boulevard.

Commercial Leases.

A. H. Mathews leased the four-story and basement buildings 330-342 West Thirteenth Street, through to 1-13 Gansevoort Street, area about 50,000 square feet, for Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, agents, to the Atlanta Warehouse Company, Inc., for six years; also the seven-story and basement building 62 Thompson Street for Dr. M. O'Donovan to the General Warehouse Company, Inc., for five years.

Louis Jacobs leased the store at 1,204 Lexington Avenue for Walter G. Butler to J. Simmonds.

Realty Notes.

The only sale in the Vesey Street Salesroom yesterday was that of 846 First Avenue, a five-story tenement, at the stand of Samuel Marx. It went to the plaintiff for $12,000.

Alexander Rosner of Joseph P. Day's office has been appointed as appraiser in the bankruptcy proceeding against the Randall Motors Corporation by Judge Julius M. Mayer.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The barometer has begun to rise in Eastern districts after several days of stagnation. A cyclonic depression of considerable extent is moving eastward over the Dakotas. Showery weather has prevailed in Atlantic Coast districts and the East Gulf States. The eastward movement of an anticyclone now over the Lake region will cause fair weather and moderate temperature to prevail in the East during the next forty-eight hours.

High temperatures are indicated for the Lake region and Ohio Valley.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be gentle northwest, showers; South Atlantic Coast, light southwest, fair.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and Saturday.

New England—Clearing Friday; Saturday fair.

Western New York—Fair Friday and Saturday; warmer Saturday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M. taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau is as follows:

3 A. M.	62	71	4 P. M.	77	74

STATE SUFFRAGISTS CONDEMN PICKETING

FULL LOYALTY IS PLEDGED

Women Refuse to Invite Miss Rankin to Speak—Demonstration for Mrs. Catt.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The Woman Suffrage Party of New York State, which has been holding a conference here, went on record at its final session today, with but two dissenting votes, in condemnation of the White House picketing. This resolution on the subject was adopted:

> Whereas, The New York State Woman Suffrage Party, an organization with 1,000,000 enrolled women, has proclaimed its patriotism and loyalty to the Government by deeds as well as by words, and has gladly sacrificed its own campaign work to give its time and effort to Government service.
> Be it resolved, That the New York State Woman Suffrage Party reaffirms its condemnation of the picketing of the White House, which tends to harass the Government in its time of great stress.

The resolution also urges the press and public to discriminate between the small group of picketers and the great body of loyal, patriotic women in New York State, who, while devotedly serving their Government, are working for their enfranchisement Nov. 6.

Miss Schneidaman Dissented.

The only dissenting voice when the resolution came up was that of Miss Rose Schneidaman of Brooklyn, who said that as a member of a trade union she could not vote for a condemnation of picketing.

A message was adopted to be sent to the President thanking him for his letter of good wishes and inviting him to speak at a suffrage rally in New York City Nov. 6. The message affirmed the loyalty of the party and its willingness to serve the nation and the President "in this hour of stress," regretting that it was not already an "enfranchised body of women in order more effectively to serve the country."

A resolution inviting Miss Jeannette Rankin, member of Congress from Montana, to make addresses in the State in aid of the party during the coming campaign was rejected by the State Committee and was not allowed to come to a vote in the conference.

Declaring that when women are given a voice in the government of nations equally with men the world will have taken a long and decisive step toward ending the tragedy of wars on earth, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, roused the conference to a pitch of enthusiasm which lasted thirty minutes. The cheering did not die out until every one of the thousand or more delegates and visitors in Convention Hall had marched to the platform, where they filed past Mrs. Catt.

"The sickening horrors of this last three years must never come again," said Mrs. Catt, "and we must do everything in our power to eliminate war from the tragedies of human life. How can war be prevented? By making every nation of the world democratic instead of autocratic, by letting the people rule, and by remembering that women are people.

"I sometimes think that men are too belligerent to rule all by themselves, anyhow. They need some restraining influence, and if all the nations were truly democratic it could be so. We cannot say that there will not be Napoleons and Caesars in the days to come. The only safety lies in the people.

Seeks Preventive of War.

"In the present crisis the women of the whole world have proved that if a nation is forced to war, if it is in danger, they go to the side of the men and fight with them, though their hearts be torn by the sorrow of it all. But that is not the way it should be. We should prevent war by looking far ahead, by establishing some kind of system. There are many theories which will put war forever out of the world. We owe that to posterity.

"And when all the nations are tired, when they are all bankrupt, when they are lacerated by this war, when everybody living can remember its horrors, and while all this terror is fresh, then is the time to take action. And then is the time we need women. We need the women behind every Government in the world in order that hereafter the mother as well as the father may say something about the welfare of their common land, about the destiny of their children, about the civilization under which they live."

Mrs. Catt urged New York women to continue to fight until equal suffrage was spread over the entire world, "including Germany, Bulgaria, and even Turkey." She said that after this war, when there would be an average in each country of 2,000,000 more women than men and when there would come the difficult adjustment in regard to trades in which women have taken the places of men, each nation was going to need "the mother point of view, the mother heart, in order that the adjustment be fair and well balanced." and well balanced."

"I believe that in November," she said, "New York State is going to give that expected victory. I invite you one and all, every soldier all the way along this tremendous army, to come to Washington, and I invite you there to fight one more battle, for I venture the prediction, and stand by it, that within two years, win or lose in New York, we shall have suffrage all over our country."

One of the principal topics which the conference took up was the question of appealing to the soldier vote of New York. The suffragists are convinced that the soldiers will support their cause and are determined to leave no stone unturned to reach every trooper.

"We must put forth our best efforts in this direction," said the State Chairman, Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse. "It is an unknown field we are entering, for this year there will be about 150,000 soldiers from New York in camp both in and out of the State, some of them probably on the firing line in Europe. Perhaps one of the surest ways to enlist the interest of the soldiers would be to persuade their wives, sweethearts, or mothers to join our party. The Canadian troops voted solidly for woman suffrage, and Americans, I believe, will not do otherwise."

Money has been raised to build and equip a Y. M. C. A. Building at Yaphank, and funds will be spent similarly at other camps. Suffragists are going to visit the camps, both to help the troops in a general way and also to spread the doctrine of equal suffrage among them.

It was announced that huge signs featuring suffrage arguments are to be erected wherever New York troops are encamped at Yaphank, Wrightstown, Mineola, and Spartanburg.

Big Mass Meetings Planned.

It is expected by the party leaders that 10,000 meetings will be held all over the State between this time and Nov. 6. These will include open-air gatherings, as well as those in halls. The system of meetings will close with two giant mass meetings in New York City, one at Carnegie Hall on Oct. 20 and the other at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 3. One of the early gatherings will be at Sagamore Hill Sept. 3, when Colonel Roosevelt will speak.

For the rest, the announced plans include advertising in newspapers, magazines, and street cars, as well as by posters on billboards, barns, and trees. Suffrage autos are going to wear the special suffrage radiator caps. Members of the party will put inside their letters, whether personal or on business, a little circular urging that the vote be given to women.

Subscriptions to the organization received since the conference began total $19,435, including a collection taken at last night's mass meeting. Mrs. William Belknap of Oscawana, Westchester County, pledged $5,000 to the Central Committee, and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip promised to obtain $8,000 from persons in her district.

Another contribution which is giving the party joy is one of $250 from Mrs. Spencer Trask of Saratoga. Mrs. Trask had never taken any interest in suffrage, but in the letter in which she gave the money, she asked to be admitted to the party, saying, "The world now needs women as it never did before, and it is necessary to have their co-operation in the Government."

Teachers are hereafter going to be allowed to work for suffrage without it being considered a detriment to their school work, according to an announcement by Miss Kate Devereaux Blake, Chairman of the party's teachers' section. Miss Blake said that Deputy State Commissioner of Education Finnegan would issue a ruling to that effect.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, President of New York W. C. T. U., failed to appear to make her scheduled address, sending a substitute, Miss Mary Davis, to wish the suffragists good luck.

Vanderlip Sees Bright Prospect.

The speakers at the evening mass meeting were Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, and Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University. Both Mr. Vanderlip and President Schurman expressed the opinion that the war would bring the opportunity of equal suffrage to women.

Mr. Vanderlip said it was idle for any one to say that an opinion formed prior to the war regarding woman suffrage "is not subject to revision as a result of the events of the war," and that America would be better off if "the intelligence, the patriotism, the devotion, and the intuitions" of women were enlisted through enfranchising them.

"We are never going to return to quite the old order," said Mr. Vanderlip, who is Chairman of the men's advisory board of the State suffrage organization, "and so it seems to me, even with a question so fundamental as the franchise of a democracy, no matter how firm an opinion a man may have held four years ago, events have occurred that must force him at least to re-examine the question. Suffrage can no longer be put aside with arguments that seemed impressive three years ago, for many of those arguments have completely lost their force through the developments of the war. Just as we must look forward inevitably to freshly examining questions of State Socialism, of Government control of raw products, of the Government's entry into fields that have heretofore belonged exclusively to individual enterprises, just so surely must we take up for fundamental examination many other questions of Government that we had supposed were settled."

Says Women Want to Fight.

Dr. Schurman said the war had accomplished more for the cause of woman suffrage than centuries of argument, and had refuted nearly all the anti-suffrage reasons.

"Is it said," he continued, "that the franchise is the correlative of military service in time of war? Well, the Russian women have enlisted in the army, and, what is still more important, they fought the enemy while Russian men ran away from him in the rout that invited him to overrun their country and brought disaster not only on the Government of Russia but on the cause of the Allies."

Only blindness could lead any person to make the statement that fighting must always remain a man's task, as "the character and course of this great world war" has proved otherwise, Mr. Schurman said, adding:

"What American women would do in the trenches if they had the chance we can only imagine. I know as a matter of fact that some of them would like to join the armed forces of the nation." He said women had applied for admission to the Government school of aeronautics at Cornell, but the authorities had been compelled to reject them.

The mass meeting closed the conference. Mrs. Whitehouse, in an interview, stated that the conference had been a great success.

GOVERNMENT PAPER PRICE ORDERED CUT

PUBLISHERS ARE PLEASED

Hope It Will Make a Precedent—But Manufacturers Are Decidedly Opposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Wilson has applied the price-fixing law to newsprint paper, making the price of that used for the daily Official Bulletin issued by the Committee on Public Information at 2½ cents a pound. The order was issued by Secretary Baker at the President's direction to the International Paper Company, which had insisted it could not furnish the paper required at less than 3 cents a pound.

The financial difference involved is about $9,000 a year. The "circulation" of the official bulletin is 80,000 a day, and it is published every official business day in the year. It is sent to all army and navy officers, Postmasters, United States Marshals and District Attorneys,, customs officials, and a great number of other Federal officials in the United States and all parts of the world.

The quantity of paper consumed in a single edition of the Official Bulletin is practically three tons, and in a year over 900. Up to a few weeks ago the Government had been paying three cents a pound for the paper used in the Bulletin, that being the bid received when the paper was started. After the passage of the National Defense act, when power was placed in the President's hands to fix prices on all commodities required for the prosecution of the war, the International Paper Company reduced the price of the paper to two and a half cents a pound at the request of the Secretary of War. But recently the company insisted that labor costs made it necessary to advance the price to three cents.

Senator Fletcher, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Printing, on inquiring into the data obtained by the Federal Trade Commission in its recent investigation of the newsprint industry, found it was feasible for the International Company to supply the paper for the Bulletin at 2½ cents a pound, and he so reported to President Wilson. The Attorney General was asked if the Defense act would apply to the case, and an opinion was returned that, as the Bulletin was a military necessity, it was clear that the Government could commandeer the paper required. The President thereupon instructed Secretary Baker to proceed to apply the law and commandeer the amount of paper needed at the lower price.

Newspaper publishers today voiced the hope that the order might open the way for cheaper newsprint to publishers generally. They called attention to statements by the President that the Administration's price policy would be one that provided the same prices for the public as for the Government.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 30.—Charles Dunklee, President of the Cleveland Paper Manufacturing Company, says: "I do not believe the Government can set an arbitrary price and demand that the paper manufacturers provide stocks at such price. * * * The Government, however, has the right to confiscate and operate paper mills, paying the manufacturers a fair rate of profit over cost. This has been estimated at 10 per cent. I believe a majority of paper manufacturers would jump at the opportunity to turn their plants over to the Government with assurance of 10 per cent. net profits. Confiscation is the probable outcome if the Government continues with what the manufacturers believe is an illegal demand."

Newspaper publishers and the manufacturers of newsprint paper expressed the deepest interest in the action of President Wilson in ordering the International Paper Company to supply print paper for the Official Bulletin at 2½ cents a pound.

Lincoln B. Palmer, manager of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, said that the action of the President did not point necessarily to any action by the Federal Government fixing the price of newsprint paper for the general trade.

"Of course," said Mr. Palmer, "we are much interested in the President's action, because it shows what he regards as a fair price for newsprint paper. It has been clear ever since the Federal Trade Commission made its preliminary report of its investigation of the situation that 2½ cents was enough for paper to cost.

"I have no reason to believe that the action of the President in ordering the print paper supplied for Government uses at 2½ cents means that he will fix that price for private publishers."

The present price of newsprint paper on large contracts runs from 3 to 3¼ cents a pound.

At the offices of the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association it was said that there was no knowledge there that there would be a reduction in the price of paper to newspaper publishers, in accordance with the President's action for the needs of the Official Bulletin. None of the officers of the International Paper Company would make any statement.

W. B. Powers, New York manager for the Great Northern Paper Company, said he did not doubt the power of the President to fix a price for newsprint, adding. "I do not believe the mills can produce paper at 2½ cents and survive."

SEE END OF STREET SEDITION

Police Ordered to Stop All Disorderly or Traffic-Blocking Meetings.

With the announcement yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Godley that the department would continue to break up street meetings that blocked traffic there was every indication that the soapbox campaign of sedition was over. A statement issued from Headquarters yesterday said:

"Disorder upon the streets in New York will not be permitted, nor will the streets be permitted to become blocked so that the traffic of either pedestrians or vehicles cannot freely proceed.

"The actions of the crowds in Broadway and in front of the Night Court last night demonstrated that some people are attempting to use the right of free speech to court disorder, either for the purpose of creating the impression abroad that the American people are not united in the prosecution of the war or for some other sinister purpose.

"The police are instructed to stop any meeting where disorders occur and to take effective means to secure to the citizens of New York their right to peaceable use of the streets."

The police were out in force last night along Broadway, to check any attempt of the Friends of Irish Freedom to repeat their performance of Wednesday night.

Luther Bedford of 36 Park Street was discharged in Jefferson Market Court yesterday. He was charged with disorderly conduct at a street meeting of the Friends of Irish Freedom at Thirty-seventh Street and Broadway on the night of Aug. 21. Bedford declared his loyalty for the Stars and Stripes and everything American.

"MODERATION SERIES" NO. 7

In extreme climates life is impossible

BUT the ideal existence is found in moderate climes where extremes are the exception—not the rule. Thus it is with Prohibition—being an extreme, its advocates seem to find it utterly impossible to understand that a mild Barley-Malt and Saazer Hop brew, such as BUDWEISER, is truly the drink of temperance.

For 60 solid years Anheuser-Busch have brewed BUDWEISER and each day they have worked to make it better. The common sense use of BUDWEISER cements the bond of friendship, inspires the flow of wit and laughter and makes old men forget for a little while that they are no longer one and twenty. Always-and-ever-the-same Good Old BUDWEISER, the friend of man, ANHEUSER-BUSCH · ST. LOUIS, U.S.A.

Rinex Soles are not rubber, but are waterproof. They are tougher and more flexible than leather, but cost no more.

You will find Rinex Soles the most comfortable, longest wearing, most economical and satisfactory shoe-soles you have ever worn.
